FOR THE SICK

FLOWERS AS CURATIVES.

Applied Like Medicine.

More and more the æsthetic potentiality of flowers is becoming recognized as exerting a powerful and quite practical influence. So current is this truth becoming that publications throughout the country of late years have been printing articles to point out the value of flowers as applied to various walks of life. Along this line an article, entitled "The Therapeutic Value of Flowers," in an issue of the Battle Creek Sanitarium Idea, shows how flowers are of benefit in the art of healing.

"Please send flowers to Mrs. Smith, Room 200." Although this does not sound like a medical prescription, such orders are frequently given to attendants by sanitarium physicians, states the article; in fact, cut flowers and blooming plants are a recognized curative agency at the Battle Creek Sanitarium.

Everyone knows that ill health affects the spirits. It is equally true that the spirits affect health. Sorrow or disappointment often cloud a disposition which ordinarily is sunny, while a piece of good news may make one forget many minor ills. This principle of menticulture is well established in medicine and has an important part in the treatment of disease, states the article.

Flowers suggest beauty; beauty suggests happiness; happiness is largely dependent upon health. The floral department of the Battle Creek Sanitarium has long been considered as an integral part of the "Battle Creek idea." You first become aware of it on seeing the well kept lawns and the profusion of flowers and shrubs, which make an inviting park of the grounds surrounding the sanitarium. Each woman patient on her arrival is presented with a bouquet of cut flowers.

A few roses or carnations, or in the fall, some great, golden chrysanthemums, add a fresh touch of color to the room and help to dispel gloom, if it is present.

What Flowers Accomplish.

Blooming plants also are always available and some lovers of flowers prefer these to the more perishable cut flowers. They last longer and to watch the daily development of the buds is an interesting pastime, the writer remarks. Potted plants may be had free of charge, when desired by a patient. It is merely necessary to apply to the greenhouse or to the women's medical office.

There have always been enough of these to meet the requirements.

Many guests have been surprised to receive bouquets as a birthday remembrance, with an appropriate card of greeting. Some are undoubtedly mystified as to how the physicians or nurses learned the date, but are none the less pleased because of the unexpectedness of the remembrance. When a patient is to receive a visit from a relative or friend, flowers are sure to be in evidence to mark the occasion. It is difficult to imagine the delight and actual physical uplift in some cases by a simple bouquet. Numerous notes of thanks tell of the appreciation of such courtesies.

Usually the flowers go to women, as there is a general notion that men do not care for that sort of thing. When such a gift does reach one of the sterner sex, it almost invariably brings a grateful response.

The hospital stands high in the favor of the floral department, as it should. Persons who have undergone operations are always liberally supplied with flowers and plants. A constant supply of choice blooms for this purpose is always under cultivation.

Besides this individual use of flowers, a wide range of greenhouse products is always on display in the lobbies, parlors and other public places. The chief supply, of course, goes to the dining rooms in the main building and the annex. In the winter, cut flowers are sometimes alternated with blooming plants in ornamental jardinières. Around Christmas time poinsettias are favorites for this purpose and at the Easter season, lilies, primroses, Jerusalem cherries, pelargoniums, genistas, cinerarias, hyacinths, tulips, narcissi, freesias, cyclamens and chrysanthemums are also used. Ferns in large variety appear in the decorations, alone or combined with other plants.

Other Features.

At Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter and other holidays, appropriate exhibitions of floral treasures are made. The Christmas decorations in the lobbies, dining rooms, parlors and auditorium are especially elaborate.

The palm garden, with its great rubber tree and other tropical plants, its rockery and fountain, is always interesting to visitors. One of the remarkable growths here is the philodendron.
Visitors from tropical countries like to linger at this spot and identify the flora of their distant fields of labor.

Until last year the sanitarium had nine greenhouses. The erection of the great new powerhouse made necessary the removal of some of these. However, two additional houses have been built and plans for other new ones are under way. For many years the sanitarium has been steadily increasing its area of under-glass gardens.

These greenhouses are a pleasant and interesting place to visit. One stands southeast of the gymnasium; six others lie to the east, back of the main building. In summer the growing is done outdoors, but the rest of the year there is always something worth seeing. The most imposing display is in the fall, when the chrysanthemums are in bloom.
There is usually a big house of them, a gorgeous mass of yellow, pink and white. The roses fill several long beds in a separate section. Carnations and sweet peas are grown in large quantities.
The sweet peas are a fine sight when in bearing.

A big task is the growing of the

What Sam Done Gone Teach Me

Sam's a sure enough "way down Georgia ducky."
Just how he "kum to find hisself" one day last August looking into our window, way up here in New York, I never did know.
But he sure did teach me a lesson.

He was a youngster of about 13, with a tattered shirt draped over one shoulder; pants held up precariously by one gallus, and a semblance of a cap, kept from slippage by an ear forming its stopping point.
Just as I stepped out to speak to him he began to start starting.

"Where are you going, boy?" I asked.
"I ain't going, I'se stopping."
"Where were you going before you stopped?"
"Wuzzunt going no-a-wheres, just looking to go."
"Well, Sam, suppose you was 'done through' looking and was now starting, where would you 'start for to go?'"
"If I done have 25 cents, boss, I done start for to buy some crawb-bee" (meaning crab meat).
"Nonsense, Sam, what would you do with crawb-bee?
You know if you eat that, it sure makes your hair curl."
"I doan care, boss, if dey does; dat is I doan care right now; for when I'se hongry, I'se ain't bothering so mighty much 'bout maw hair."

Of course I gave him the quarter, and he scampered off, Lord knows where.
But he left me with the thought that when you really want business, it's business you want.
And when you want it, you don't need to bother so mighty much about other things.
Just bother the business you want.
Which may or may not be why I keep on running these talks each week.

thousands of seedlings and small plants which are set out each spring in the beds on the lawn and in the gardens which supply the cut flowers for summer use. This work begins in the fall before the first frost, when cuttings are taken for the geraniums and other plants to be propagated. Asters are grown by the thousand and furnish an abundance of blooms for the table and rooms

Lettuce and New Zealand spinach are grown in some of the greenhouses for sanitarium use. Occasionally crops of Swiss chard, Chinese cabbage and tomatoes are produced.

The greenhouse department likewise has charge of the decorations whenever

Last week no striking changes took place and market quotations remained the same. The fine weather has caused an increase of consignments in all seasonable stock. With so much stock arriving, clean-ups are practically impossible; still, the glut that was seen in years previous is not apparent this year.

Roses are quite abundant and are of extra fine quality. Premier and Butterfly are the leaders. White Killarney, Ophelia, Russell and Columbia come next. Ward and Milady, too, have splendid calls. Carnations were much in demand last week and the supply ran short, especially in whites, which demanded much attention for dyeing for St. Patrick's day.

In greens the supply, as well as the demand, was splendid last week and all fancy greens cleaned out daily.

Violets are abundant and have a slow demand. Sweet peas sell well and the long sorts demand top price.

Calla lilies and valley had only a fair demand last week. Among other flowers coming into the market are freesias,

Various Notes.

Oscar May, state vice-president of the S. A. F., reports that he has arranged with the Pennsylvania for two special cars for the St. Louis party which is to attend the national flower show. The train will leave Monday, March 27, at noon and will arrive in Indianapolis at 5:40 p. m. the same day. Oscar May and A. W. Gumz, who have charge of the arrangements for the trip, say that the party will number fifty or more, all to be present on St. Louis day, March 28.

April 7, Arbor day, will be celebrated by the civic tree planting committee by planting 1,000 trees along King's Highway, in honor of the American Legion.

George Waldbart is at the Mullanphy hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis. From last reports Mr. Waldbart was getting along all right.

He was not advised of the death of his brother, Alexander, which occurred March 14. This is reported on the obituary page of this issue.

President W. A. Amling, of the St. Louis district, says that the next meeting of the executive committee will be held at Pana, Ill., April 17. This committee consists of W. J. Pilcher, W. A. Rowe and C. E. De Wever, of St. Louis county; J. F. Ammann and H. J. Blixen, of Edwardsville; Phil Daut, of Decatur, Ill.; Frank Washburn, Bloomington, Ill., and L. Stapp, of Rock Island, as well as President Amling and J. J. Beneke, of St. Louis. The meeting is to be called to order at 2 p. m.

W. A. Rowe, W. J. Pilcher and Thomas C. Carr, who have been confined to their homes with illness, are now fully recovered. All three will be in the party going to the national flower show.

The St. Louis Pottery Co. and the Missouri Pottery Co. report heavy orders from both local and outside florists.

week. Manager Duernberg says that green flowers of all kinds had a big demand. March 17 was an exceptionally busy day.

The Mullanphy Florists, the Ayres-Tubbesing Co. and Foster the Florist say that St. Patrick's day this year was better than ever.

Commencing March 20, the plant stands of Thomas C. Carr and Edwin Heil will be open for business, weather permitting. Improvements have been made, and a busy season is looked for.

Joseph Witek, Paul T. Heil, F. C. Weber and Sanders Florist, west end florists and all members of the F. T. D., say that business has been good since Lent began. While social work has fallen off, the other lines have improved.

The feature match at the last bowling session was between the leading Sweet Peas and the tail-end Daisies, in which the Daisies won the odd game, thanks to the great bowling of Edwin Niebling, who totaled 636 in the three games, an average of 212. The same evening the Orchids defeated the Carnations and the Violets won two games from the Roses. The six leading in season averages are: E. Niebling, 177; O. Ruff, 169; F. Alves, 163; J. J. Beneke, 163; A. Hoffmann, Jr., 162, and F. Plotz, 161. J. J. B.

Nashville, Tenn., sent up a vase of its new pink carnation, Natalie, which arrived in good shape and made a good impression.

A. Jablonsky, of Olivette, Mo., sent a vase of his new dark pink carnation, Betty Jane. This looks like a promising variety.

The C. C. Pollworth Co. displayed a vase of Columbia and Butterfly roses, together with Edna, Laddie, Harvester, C. W. Ward and striped seedling carnations. Some orchid plants, yellow callas and several vases of bulbous stock were also displayed.

E. Haasch showed a fine lot of begonias and several pots of fine bulbous plants.

Thomas Griebler displayed pansies and callas.

The Wauwatosa Floral Co. and Riebs Bros. displayed a fine lot of sweet peas.

A. Locker & Sons displayed some fine sweet peas, begonias, calendulas, carnations and a fine basket of General Pershing freesias.

Charles Menger displayed some potted hyacinths.

The Schroeder Floral Co. displayed Morning Glory carnations and a new seedling.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. displayed Premier, Butterfly, Hoosier Beauty and Ward roses. The firm also showed Easter lily, genista and hydrangea plants, together with bulbous stock.

The Heitman-Oestreicher Co. showed some fine Winsor and Edna carnations.

James Livingston displayed some exceptionally fine red amaryllis. These attracted considerable attention.

Fred Gutermuth had some fine cyclamen and primula plants.

Albin Reinhardt had a vase of improved Rose pink Enchantress and Nebraska carnations.

The Cudahy Floral Co. showed some Killarney and Crusader roses.

The Fox Point Floral Co. displayed some bulbous stock and forget-me-nots.

the names of the varieties of flowers shown appeared and no other cards or any sort of advertising was permissible, but, nevertheless, a good bit of publicity was given the trade in general. Thursday evening, March 16, a lecture was given by Huron S. Smith, curator of botany, on plants and their relations to our food. It was an interesting lecture, with numerous lantern slides.

Various Notes.

Fred Rentschler, of Madison, Wis., James Taylor, of Oshkosh, Wis., and John Rindfleisch, of Beloit, Wis., were here to attend the meeting of the Wisconsin State Florists' Association; they also attended the spring flower show. of business for several years, reopened a store in the Plankinton arcade.

Style week used up a great deal of stock last week. Nearly all of the business houses have their spring openings during Style week, and a great many boxes of spring flowers were used. This relieved the market of considerable stock.

There was also a demand for green carnations this year for St. Patrick's day, which made the price of white stock take a jump.

H. Staeps & Co., of Elm Grove, Wis., who are shipping into this market, expect to build several houses, which will be planted to roses. P.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

There was no oversupply of stock last week. The market was sold out clean. This was not due to a shortage of anything, but to heavier buying.
Growers sent in their average cuts of roses and carnations. Sweet peas have shortened somewhat, as some of the growers have torn out the vines to make room for other crops.

Spring flowers were in normal supply and heavy demand. Prices for roses were from $6 to $18 per hundred. Carnations were $5 per hundred and jon-quils $4 to $6. Sweet peas were 75 cents and $1.50 per hundred. Orders for St. Patrick's day exceeded expectations. White carnations and sweet peas sold in larger quantities than usual.
Other stock was in good demand. Retail business has been extremely good, all the shops reporting good sales.

Various Notes.

The Muehlebach Flower Shop has had a good run of decorations this month.
The Stuppy Supply Co. had a big demand for white and light-colored stock for St. Patrick's day.

stock. Mr. Ellsworth has a greenhouse at Lake of the Forest, near Bonner Springs, Kan. He will continue the greenhouse, as well as the retail store.

March has been a better month in Samuel Murray's shop than last year, which was exceptionally good. January also surpassed the first month of 1921, and that was considered a record month. Telegraph business is increasing steadily. A telegraph order for New York was missed, on account of a change in date of sailing, but was caught in Liverpool. A prompt acknowledgment of the order was received from Liverpool.

Glenn K. Parker, of the Stuppy Supply Co., won first prize at a masquerade party St. Patrick's night. His costume was made of green flower pot covers. He wore green goggles and a flower pot cover for a hat. In addition to the costume prize, he won first prize for dancing in a party of 500.

R. L. Isherwood was in the city a short time on his return from Pleasant Hill, Mo., to his home in Chillicothe, Mo.

C. E. Falls, of the Falls Sales Co., Chicago; I. M. Bayersdorfer, Philadelphia; J. A. Lambert, of the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., and Robert Newcomb, of the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia., called on the trade last week.

Henry Kneip, of the Sunny Slope Floral Co., Leavenworth, Kan., and R. H. Hinz, of the Leavenworth Floral Co., Leavenworth, Kan., were recent visitors.

The last two weeks, and especially the last week, have been decidedly good with the Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co. St. Patrick's day business was heavy.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

The Market.

Little change was noted in the market last week. Stock was plentiful in nearly all lines. Easter lilies were the only thing that was scarce and the demand will increase, from all indications. Callas, however, were plentiful and moved slowly at times. Carnations came in large quantities, but were moved after a little pushing. Roses were in good supply in all grades. Sweet peas were also in fine supply, but went well. The supply of other flowers was good and the week can be considered good.

Walker's New Store.

Tuesday morning, March 21, marked the opening of Louisville's new sanitary market, the first of its kind in the city. Thousands of dollars have been spent to make this one of the best in the country. One of the first and most attractive booths in the market is occupied by the Market Flower Shop, with David Walker, now with Edith

V. Walker & Bros., as president and general manager. Mr. Walker's booth is 19x19 feet, with a large refrigerator in the center. Stock can be well displayed here and a workroom in the basement, 10x26 feet, gives ample space for making up. On a balcony above the booth is Mr. Walker's office, roomy and beautifully equipped. Two clerks are at the booth to sell flowers loose, while experienced hands are employed in the workroom. Mr. Walker is enthusiastic over the place and will, no doubt, make a success of it. A full line of potted plants will also be carried in stock, as well as cut flowers of all descriptions. The stockholders in the new corporation are the same as those in the present firm of Edith V. Walker & Bros., although this business will be run separately by and will be in no way affiliated with it. David Walker will spend his entire time in the booth, so that personal attention will be given each order.

Various Notes.

The skylight of William Walker's store was broken open the first of the week by thieves, who, by means of a rope, lowered themselves into the display room. They did the usual stunt of ransacking the place, only to get $50 in cash and some jewelry. They also took over $200 in checks, which were of no value to them.

Edith V. Walker's window deserves mention this week. It was filled with

NASSAU SOCIETY MEETS.

The monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held March 8, at 7 p. m., in Pembroke hall, Glen Cove, L. I. President William Milstead opened the meeting, and Andrew Johnson, of Roslyn, was elected to active membership. President Milstead appointed John F. Johnstone, Joseph Adler and George Asworth to judge the exhibits and their decisions were as follows: Thomas Twigg received first place for a pot or pan of tulips, James McCarthy received first for twelve carnations, and Thomas Twigg received first for twelve mixed roses.

It was decided at this meeting to hold a tulip show. The executive committee is to draw up a schedule and make arrangements. The attendance at meetings this year looks as though our last year's record will be broken. Ex-

WORCESTER, MASS.

Florists in this city are kept busy. Funeral work is still in abundance.

Last week the windows of the florists were gay with St. Patrick's day novelties and business was good. The sale of flowering bulbs was enormous, hyacinths, narcissi and tulips being the leaders.

The Worcester County Horticultural Society held its spring show Thursday and Friday, March 9 and 10. It was well attended. The principal premium winners were Lange Bros., Randall's Flower Shop, Charles Potter, West Boylston, and Allen Jenkins, gardener to Mrs. Homer Gage, Iristhorpe, Shrewsbury, Mass. More than $200 was distributed in premiums.

At its opening, "A Woman's Shop" had almost 100 big baskets of flowers, which were presented to the employees at the close of the day.

Ross Bros. report that the spring rush has started.

The weather has been favorable for outdoor work. E. A.

to waste, enough roses are to be had to take care of all orders. With the increase in supply comes a reduction in price, which has already taken effect on roses. Prices now range from $6 to $20 per hundred. Ophelia, Columbia and Dunlop are the favorites, at $10 to $20 per hundred. White Killarney and White Shawyer are in good supply, but move well for funeral work at $6 to $12 per hundred.

Carnations did not respond to the small amount of sunshine nearly as much as did the roses, and, while the cut has increased considerably, the demand is still greater than the supply. Hence, prices on this item have not yet declined. Sweet peas are numerous, but clean up well at all times at $1 and $2 per hundred. Calla lilies are scarce at $1 and $2 per dozen. Daffodils are plentiful at $6 and $8 per hundred. The quality of the stock is excellent. A few Darwin tulips are offered at $8 and $10. In pot plants, bulbs continue to be the big item. Other offerings consist of begonias, asparagus and cinerarias. A few Easter lilies, baby and rambler roses are in evidence. Green flowers for St. Patrick's day were in big demand. Carnations were the favorites, but as the supply of these was small, roses and sweet peas were sold in large quantities.

Various Notes.

Emil Lund, of Bountiful, one of the leading carnation growers of this section, is putting some fine Maine Sunshine on the market.

E. B. Gregory, rose foreman of the Miller Floral Co., at Farmington, who has been nursing the "flu" for a week, is back on the job.

William Sorenson, of the Inter-Mountain Greenhouses, at Murray, is supplying the trade with the first baby and rambler roses of the season.

Ted Weatherburn, who was formerly a carnation grower for the Miller Floral Co., was a guest of William Miller, of that concern, Wednesday, March 15.

Robert Miller, of the Miller Floral Co., left for the east March 18. He will visit in Chicago a few days prior to going to the national flower show. He will act as a rose judge at the show.

The Salt Lake Floral Co. is now offering some of the best snapdragons seen in this section for some time. The Easter stock of this concern is in excellent condition. G. J. B.

ILLINOIS FLORISTS AT URBANA.

The day following their business meeting at Urbana, Ill., members of the Illinois State Florists' Association spent Wednesday, March 15, inspecting the greenhouses of the university experimental station and holding an open forum, in which experiences and information of a valuable nature were exchanged.

The meeting was considered a great success, in spite of the fact that wet weather downstate prevented many florists from attending, who would otherwise have been present. As noted last week, the officers were all reelected. They are: President, Joseph Kohout, Libertyville; vice-president, George W.

The invitation to bring along their sons was followed by a number of members. The second generation is seen in greater numbers at the annual meeting of the Illinois organization each year. President Kohout set a good example; there were three younger Kohouts in attendance. Joseph Kohout's son, Paul, came from Notre Dame for the occasion. A nephew, E. V., came down from Chicago and another nephew, Jerre, now at the University of Illinois taking a course in floriculture, was the interpreter of dances who was called "Jane" Kohout in last week's issue.

The Market.

There was no change in the market last week. Stock was plentiful, with the exception of pink roses. Some fine carnations are arriving, especially Laddie. Good sweet peas are coming regularly, but these are moving slowly and it is difficult to get any kind of price for them. Some of the best calendulas ever seen are arriving and are exceptionally double and large.

Daffodils are about done for, but tulips are beginning to arrive and are good, although they are not bringing the prices they should. Callas are arriving daily. Freesias, wallflowers, yellow and white narcissi, valley, pansies, etc., are the mainstays. Violets are also moving slowly and are not bringing the prices they should. The wholesalers are experiencing much difficulty in cleaning up stock; about the only way possible is by selling in quantities at reduced prices.

Forsythia has put in an appearance and is flooding the market, although the quality and price are both good. There is still a scarcity of adiantum, while there seems to be an oversupply of plumosus.

FLORAL ARTS CLUB MEETS.

A regular meeting of the Floral Arts Club, of Des Moines, Ia., was held, following a dinner at Younker's Tea Room, Tuesday evening, March 14. Harry Watts, advertising manager of the Register and Tribune, took for his subject in a talk, "Development of Spring Business for the Florists, Seedsmen and Nurserymen." At the close of his talk, the subject was used as a basis for discussion on the plan of an open forum.

J. S. Wilson, for the florists; George Kurtzwell, for the seedsmen, and E. D. Needham, for the nurserymen, led the discussion. All agreed that cooperative advertising is best, but that the short-sighted man will not always take advantage of it. For St. Valentine's day, J. S. Wilson used the personal letter plan. Some days later he learned of a man who had received a letter, approved the sentiment of it and had gone to the Kirkwood Floral Co. for his flowers. Mr. Needham averred that he would more frequently be glad to "Say It with Flowers" to friend wife, if he could be sure, as he looked at the display in the florists' windows, that the price was not prohibitive.

After some discussion, following a talk on displays for the Iowa state fair, the club decided to offer $15 in prize money for 25 spikes of a named variety of gladiolus—$10 for a first prize, and $5 for a second. The florists are interested in getting a new building where displays can be adequately shown. Miss Perle B. Fulmer, Treas.

MANKATO'S NEW STORE.

Appreciating the value of the æsthetic and the psychology of the well decorated window and its effect upon flowerbuyers, Thellar J. Johnston has opened a place of his own at Mankato, Minn., and is operating under the name of the Mankato Floral Co. A recent snapshot taken of the window of this up-to-date store revealed ferns, tulips, palms, callas and rubber plants artistically arranged in baskets and vases and set off with a background of latticework. Mr. Johnston was formerly employed by the Wilson Floral Co. and the Alpha Floral Co., Des Moines, Ia.

The Market.

Business continues exceptionally brisk. Supply in cut flowers has been large, as well as the supply of bulbous stock. Carnations have been exceptionally plentiful, and -roses also. Sweet peas are in heavy supply and the quality is fine. Easter and calla lilies are on the market and there is sufficient supply to meet the demand. Violets seem to be a drag on the market. orchids are moving slowly. Yellow daisies and calendulas are seen.

Various Notes.

The windows of the E. A. Williams Co. are always attractive. Last week they showed a large bunch of Laddie carnations, which made a pleasing decoration.

G. P. Weaklen & Co. have just announced that they have leased a store at 5817 Penn avenue, and will move into their new quarters on or about May 1.

The next meeting of the Retail Florists' Association will be held at the Hotel Chatham Thursday evening, April 6. This organization is in its infancy and needs the support of every florist in this vicinity.

At the present time are shown bowls and vases, in glassware, in the windows of the A. W. Smith Co.

G. F. Leonard, salesmanager of the Tobacco By-Products & Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky., was a visitor in Pittsburgh last week.

A. Sigmund, of the Gart & Moll Co., New York, was a visitor in Pittsburgh during last week. H. J. H.

REMOVING MEALY BUG.

What is the name of the insect with which the specimen poinsettia plant mailed you is infested? P. J.—Ill.

The insect is the mealy bug. To dispose of it use a spray nozzle on your hose and blow it off. The pressure of cold water, well directed, is the best antidote for mealy bug on these plants. C. W.

BROWNE CALLA FLOWERS.

I have sent a specimen of cut callas that have something wrong with them. Will you tell me what the trouble is and suggest a remedy or a way to handle them to insure success? A. E.—Pa.

Planting bulbs which are not carefully cleaned by cutting away decaying parts will cause plants to throw more of these brown-edged flowers. Other probable causes are an overdose of plant food and a too low temperature. Callas are strong feeders and enjoy liquid manure, as well as an occasional top-dressing of fine bone, but too frequent applications will cause injury and give brown-edged spathes, just as a too low temperature will do. A night temperature of 50 to 55 degrees suits callas well and, of course, they must have an abundant water supply. It is easily possible to suppose that insufficient moisture at the roots in a warm house might also cause injury to the flowers. C. W.

HYBRIDIZING GLADIOLI.

Hybridizing is becoming a matter of more and more interest to florists, aside from those who specialize in this work. Now that so many gladiolus bulbs are produced in this country, doubtless the hybridizing of this flower will become of more interest than it has been before to members of the American trade. In this connection some remarks of Joe Coleman, whose productions are well known to the trade, furnish information on this subject, about which extremely little has been written. In writing on this subject in the Flower Grower, an amateur's periodical, Mr. Coleman said that America has probably been used more than any other variety as a pollen-bearing parent and as a seed parent as well, but only a small per cent of the seed thus produced will give varieties worth growing. An early variety, called Early Pink, used to be a favorite because of its heavy seeding qualities. Mr. Coleman himself has a fancy for Charlemagne, of the nanceianus type, but other hybridizers do not use this variety at all.

Direct crosses have produced good varieties; Marechal Foch is said to be a direct cross between America and Halley. Line-breeding in the production of seedlings insures superlative quality just as much as it does in live stock breeding.

Careful and painstaking crosses are necessary to produce varieties of commercial value. Field-gathered seed is not likely to produce anything worth growing. Too many mediocre varieties are being given the distinction of names already. A peculiarity of gladiolus seed is its irregularity of germination. Some seed will lie dormant an entire season.

Mr. Coleman prefers to use just good, clean soil for the growing of seedlings and not to force them. His method has been to make a bed when the ground becomes mellow in the spring, sifting the soil to dispose of the stones and then incorporating an amount of sand according to the condition of the soil. Then the soil is firmed and seedlings set in narrow rows a foot apart. Burlap is laid over the bed and kept moist until the seedlings commence to sprout. After the burlap is taken away, thorough cultivation is proper through the season's growth. If the soil of the seed bed is poor, a limited amount of bone meal or sheep manure may be added. Mr. Coleman says it is a mistake to use commercial fertilizers in the growing of seedlings.

Corms are injured for future use if allowed to produce seed in any quantity.
When Mr. Coleman has allowed but one blossom to seed and has stripped the flower buds from the remainder of the stem, he has noted but little, if any, deterioration in the plumpness or size of the corms. In producing corms commercially the best practice, he believes, is to go through the field and break out the tops just as the first flower appears. At this time any rogues may be pulled up.

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—The firm of I. N. Kramer & Son is now located in its new store, 313 Third avenue, across the street from the Strand theater.

Ashland, O.—The Zimmerman Greenhouses, formerly operated by W. H. Zimmerman, who died some time ago, are still being operated under the same name.

Newtown, Pa.—Charles M. Randall is reëntering the trade. Mr. Randall grew flowers for commercial purposes before the war, but dropped the business for a time, on account of lack of space. The firm now has thirty-eight acres and it is going in on a larger scale this time.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

HOSEA WATERER has opened his new store, around the corner from his former location on Chestnut near Seventh street, Philadelphia. The erection of a press-room by the Public Ledger Co., which owned the property, caused his removal.

WORD has just reached this country that a daughter was born March 2 to Arthur Leslie Deal, of the widely known seed firm of W. W. Johnson & Son, Ltd., Boston, England. Mr. Deal has a large acquaintance in the trade of this country through his many visits here.

A BRITISH seed house advertises a "new mystery tomato," which is "claimed by the raiser to be twenty years in advance on any existing variety." The mystery appears to be how anyone can hope for belief in statements of "marvelous qualities" such that, if they prove as claimed, "all other varieties will immediately become obsolete."

TOTAL shipments of the 1921 crop of soy beans are expected to be thirty per cent larger than the shipments of the 1920 crop last year; shipments of cow-peas will be the same or slightly less, and of velvet beans (hulled for seed) about thirty per cent less than last season. These estimates are made from recent reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture.

THE seed catalogue of Bees Ltd., Liverpool, England, was recently mailed to British customers from Germany. So was that of Ryders, of St. Albans, England. The latter house stated, on the front page of the catalogue itself, under a bold headline, "This list has been posted abroad," that this was done because, while "traders can afford to pay for the preparation of lists, catalogues and advertising matter, they cannot afford to distribute them because of the excessively high postage rates."

THE sum of $1,500,000 is soon to be expended by the Department of Agriculture for the purchase of seed grains for farmers in the drought-stricken areas of the northwest. The farmers in North Dakota, Montana, Idaho and Washington will be particularly benefited. When the measure was before the Senate an appropriation of $5,000,000 was sought. The House demurred and declined to give more than $1,000,000. The bill went to a conference of the Senate and House and as a result an agreement was reached on $1,500,000. The bill has been signed by the President and may now be carried out.

SEED buying in the agricultural districts of the middle west seems to be making up for lost time this spring. The May Seed & Nursery Co., at Shenandoah, Ia., though still a young house, reports business about twenty-five per cent better than a year ago. Some days have brought orders totaling as much as forty per cent above those of the same day a year ago. The receipts of March 15, said Vice-president Earl E. May, were $1,800—not a freak day, for receipts ran from $1,200 to $1,500 the preceding week. None but the usual steady advertising has been done. This spring 40,000 catalogues were mailed out and one follow-up letter has

BULB CASE IN COURT.

An interesting case in regard to a bill for bulbs sold by a member of the Dutch Bulb Growers' Association to a Scottish florist was settled in an Aberdeen court last month. The case was brought by Van Meerbuk, Ltd., Hillegom, Holland, against E. S. Wright, Johnstone Gardens, Aberdeen, for payment of £104 8s. in respect of goods invoiced to him September 9, 1920. Defendant admitted liability for part of the consignment, amounting to £31 5s., but refused payment of the balance on the ground that the bulbs were not true to name and description. Defendant accordingly lodged a counterclaim for £80 in respect of loss sustained through plaintiff's breach of contract, which, after deducting the £31 5s., left £48 15s. due by plaintiff to defendant.

Mr. Wright, in the witness box, stated that he did not object to the quality of the bulbs, but to the fact that they were not true to name. The dispute had caused him considerable trouble, as several Dutch firms had refused to deal with him in consequence. The variety for which he admitted liability never flowered, and, therefore, he could not prove it was not true to name. Mr. Wright contended that his whole purpose in the case was to prove conclusively to the Dutch Bulb Growers' Association, of which the firm of Van Meerbuk, Ltd., is a member, that he was not in the wrong. There was a clause in this Dutch association's rules that no member can send bulbs to a customer unless the latter's account for bulbs received the previous year is settled. That clause had been brought to bear against Mr. Wright.

At this stage the sheriff suggested that the case should be adjusted. It was not so much a question of damage as of vindicating the defendant's character as a florist. Any settlement would have to proceed on the assumption that there was a partial breach of contract, and that Mr. Wright was justified in the attitude he had taken up.

Mr. Adam, for the Dutch firm, admitted a partial breach of contract, and after consultation it was intimated by the attorneys that the action had been settled, the defendant to pay £30, which was admittedly due, and plaintiff to pay £15 to account of defendant's expenses.

FIELD SEED PRICES LOWER.

The retail prices of field seeds March 1 were lower for many kinds than on a corresponding date last year, according to a report of the United States Department of Agriculture. Outstanding exceptions to this are red clover, red-top and Kentucky bluegrass, which are selling at seventeen per cent, forty-five per cent and fifty-five per cent, respectively, higher prices than last year.

Among the items for which lower retail prices are reported and the approximate average percentage of reduction are the following: Alsike clover, sixteen per cent; sweet clover, twenty-six per cent; alfalfa, seven per cent; timothy, eleven per cent; soy beans twenty-five per cent, and seed corn, eighteen per cent. The average price of rape seed for planting purposes, both retail and wholesale, is the same as a year ago.

In the aggregate the spread between wholesale and retail prices of seeds this season appears to be less than in 1921. For example, the average retail price of red clover March 1 was only about four per cent higher than the average wholesale selling price, while on or about the same date last year it was fifteen per cent higher. Sweet clover was thirty-five per cent higher in 1922 and forty-five per cent higher in 1921, alfalfa ten per cent higher in 1922 and twenty-five per cent in 1921, and timothy twenty per cent higher in 1922 and thirty-five per cent in 1921.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

S. W. Pike, St. Charles, Ill.—"Pike's Garden Annual," offering "Can't-Be-Beat" seeds, bulbs and plants; thirty pages, in a strikingly designed cover, which is printed in shades of green and red. Various selections of bulbs and plants are offered at special prices.

J. W. Davis Co., Terre Haute, Ind.—A well printed folder, offering blooming plants for Easter and other occasions; also ferns, rubber plants, dracaenas and other decoratives. "We specialize in the growing of ferns," says the company, "and aim to carry all varieties, in all sizes, at all times."

White Floral Co., Portland, Ore.—Tenth annual catalogue of dahlias, gladioli, geraniums, cannas, begonias and miscellaneous hardy plants; illustrated, twenty-six pages, so bound as to be conveniently folded for pocket or pigeonhole. Dahlias are the specialty and occupy the first two-thirds or more of the book.

The McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.—An illustrated folder which "lists nothing but greenhouse supplies, as separate from florists' supplies." Among the items enumerated are greenhouse hose, spray nozzles, paper pots, portable tank sprayers, carnation menders, etc., but the greatest prominence is given to the company's new brand of glazing cement.

R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md.—Current issue of monthly wholesale list; sixteen pages, with prices "made on a strictly cash with order basis." A general stock of pot and bedding plants is listed, but among those that are offered in greatest variety are ferns, palms, coleuses, cannas, pompon chrysanthemums, dahlias and geraniums.

Hopedale Nurseries, Hopedale, Ill.—A 12-page, condensed retail list of general nursery stock; contains no illustrations and only a few brief descriptions, but a descriptive catalogue is mailed on application. The injunction, "Plan to Plant Another Tree," approved by the Illinois State Nurserymen's Association as one of the slogans in the new campaign for reforestation, is stamped conspicuously on the catalogue.

Rainbow Gardens, St. Paul, Minn.—A notably accurate and clearly printed catalogue, in a cover which is tastefully embellished with lavender blooms of irises and gladioli; thirty-four pages, illustrated. Though large stocks of peonies and gladioli are listed, irises appear to have first place in the business and therefore occupy the first two-thirds of the book. "We have imported heavily since issuing our last edition," says the company, "and have added many magnificent new hybrids."

OFFICERS OR EMPLOYEES.

In view of the general practice of officers and stockholders of small business corporations, especially in horticultural trades, frequently "lending a hand" in the doing of manual work around the company's premises, question occasionally is raised as to whether such combination officers-employees are entitled to the benefits of the workmen's compensation acts of the several states on being injured while doing manual work.

The point is well illustrated by the late decision of the New York Court of Appeals in a case where the injured man was president and treasurer of a corporation and yet frequently assisted in the packing and delivery of goods, etc. He held ten of the 120 shares of the company's stock. Holding that he

WINTZER'S WORLD WINNERS

CANNAS ♪ GOOD ♪ LUCK ♪ CANNAS

Best by test, you'd say, if you'd follow Mr. Wintzer in his work of the past twenty years—improving the size, shape, color, texture and endurance. The newer sorts remind you of Mallow Marvels in size and of Orchids in color effects. It's time to make your plans and time to order, too. Select from the following list and you'll get winners:

100 1000
♠ AMERICAN BEAUTY. 5 ft. This is the richest colored Canna we know—a velvety, oriental carmine or translucent cerise. It is unusually attractive, with its large flowers of tropical magnificence held on firm, straight stems in rich bouquets well above the soft green foliage. Practically every stalk produces at least two heads of bloom. 3 for $2.50, 10 for $7.50 .....$50 ...
♠ CANDELABRA. 5 ft. After 22 years of painstaking cross-hybridizing, Mr. Wintzer has succeeded in producing this prodigy. Three to five flower branches on each stalk at one time is the average, and every single branch is ablaze with a torch-like flame of fiery orange-scarlet bloom. The branches are erect and sturdy; the foliage is rich green, and very vigorous. Our 1921 stock plants of this marvelous Canna have renewed our enthusiasm for its beautiful color and unparalleled production of bloom. 3 for $2.50, 10 for $7.50.... 50 ...
♠ SUSQUEHANNA. 3 ft. A sturdy growing dwarf with dark, olive-green foliage, shaded with bronze. An early bloomer with large, old-rose-pink flowers borne on strong, bronzy stems. The pink flowers mounted upon bronze foliage make this Canna very distinct and its dwarf habit makes it especially valuable. 3 for $2.50, 10 for $7.50..... 50 ...
CORONET. Fine yellow, constant bloomer, handsome and desirable. 3 ft..... 4 $35
♠ H. M. BYRNES. Intense brilliant scarlet ..... 7 60
♠ GALETT. 5 ft. Reddish-orange mottled with carmine and edged with yellow. A spectacular bedder 6 50

100 1000
♠ STATUE OF LIBERTY. 6 to 7 ft. This Canna outstrips exaggeration. We believe it is, without exception, the largest Canna in existence. Like the Statue of Liberty, it overtops anything of a similar nature that can be compared with it. Its foliage is bronze, leaves half as large again as its nearest rival, and of a rich, luxuriant, ebony shade. It holds aloft a fiery flaming flower, orchid-type, blazing flame-red in color. The flowers are of large size and good form. The effect is massive and impressive. 10 for $3.....$25 ...
♠ FLAG OF TRUCE. 4 ft. "Best Near White Canna in Commerce"..... 15 $125
♠ CITY OF PORTLAND. 3½ ft. Glowing pink, deeper in color than its parent, Mrs. Alfred F. Conard; profuse bloomer. A great favorite for bedding..... 10 80
♠ GLADIATOR. 5 ft. A leader for years. Color is bright yellow, spotted with red. No other bedding Canna in this color can surpass this sturdy, robust grower ..... 5 40
♠ GOLDEN GATE. 4 ft. The flowers open pure gold but soon become rayed with orange-crimson and apricot, centering to the throat. Unusually attractive..... 6 50
HUNGARIA. 3½ ft. Rose-pink, a very free bloomer, possessing a delicate shade of color not known in any other Canna ..... 8 70
INDIANA. 6 ft. Glistening golden orange, like silky flags. Most attractive.... 5 40
♠ JANE ADDAMS. 4½ ft. True, bright buttercup-yellow. The buds are pretty, dark maroon..... 6 50

100 1000
KING HUMBERT. 4 ft. Bright orange-scarlet, streaked with crimson. Magnificent bronze foliage $6 $50
♠ DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH. 4 ft. Dark, rich velvety crimson..... 5 40
♠ LAFAYETTE. 4 ft. Intense brilliant scarlet..... 7 60
♠ NOKOMIS (New, 1918). 5 ft. Large, vivid crimson flowers with a rich, silky sheen on the petals; bronze foliage ..... 7 60
♠ THE PRESIDENT. 4 ft. In color, a rich, glowing scarlet, and the immense, firm, rounded flowers, 7 in. across when open, are produced on strong, erect stalks well above the large, rich green foliage. "The President" is superior to any other red variety in the quantity and also quality of bloom, and the firm flowers resist drought and heat to a remarkable degree. A large bed of this variety was planted last year in front of the White House and received the unqualified admiration of every lover of Cannas. was entitled to compensation under the New York law, the court said:

"A corporation is a complete entity, separate and distinguishable from its stockholders and officers, and if it sees fit to have one of the latter serve it in the capacity of an ordinary employee, we see nothing to prevent it from so doing. That seems to us to be the present case. The claimant was 'employed' as general manager. The term 'general manager' is somewhat ambiguous, and of itself might indicate either an executive and important officer, or a person performing ordinary duties of an employee. The evidence and findings in this case show that the position was of the latter class, and that the claimant performed ordinary detail and manual work, such as would be required of a typical employee. Under these circumstances, we think that he was entitled to secure compensation as such for injuries under the general provisions of the compensation law." S.

There is a good demand for all kinds of seasonable stock. It is just a matter of letting those who need the stock know where it can be had. Like this:

Kindly stop my gladiolus ad. I have sold 100,000 bulbs and I want to say that The Review is the best salesman ever.—Karl E. Schmidt, Auburn, N. Y., March 4, 1922.

The Market.

Notwithstanding the fact that trade always slows up during the opening days of the Lenten season, business the last ten days has been rather above the normal and the outlook is promising. Outside of routine work, in which funeral demands have been active, several large business openings have used up a considerable supply.

On every side preparations for Easter cause an activity that extends through all classes of the trade, and everyone is looking forward to an unusually busy season. An unusually large quantity of potted bulbous stock is coming along and all evidences indicate a plentiful supply.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE demise of William K. Tipton, 85 years of age, founder of the Tipton Nurseries, Inc., Little Rock, Ark., is reported on the obituary page of this issue.

THE official roster of the J. W. Adams Nursery Co., Springfield, Mass., is as follows: President, Walter Adams; treasurer, Charles Adams; secretary, E. J. Oatman. The nursery is at Westfield, Mass., and Albert Vanderbrook is superintendent.

GREATER knowledge of this country's production of nursery stock would free some wholesale nurserymen of the fear that an open quotation of their prices would wreck the market. No output of one firm is so large as to cause more than a splash—certainly not a tidal wave—in the nursery market at any time.

PORTERVILLE, CAL., has been selected by the officers of the Oregon Nursery Co., Orenco, Washington County, Ore., for the planting of the first California orchard unit of the famous "Coates 1418" date-prune. It was found that Tulare county possesses the finest prune land in California, the soil of this territory being a sandy loam, which is best adapted to the growing of this fruit. The prune in question was produced by Leonard Coates, of the Leonard Coates Nursery Co., Morganhill, Cal., and this company transferred the propagating rights to the Oregon Nursery Co. A subscription list of $50,000, which meant the purchase of 5,000 date-prune tree contracts, was signed up in one day by the Chamber of Commerce of Porterville.

NURSERY AND FRUIT CROPS.

In 1920, the last year for which figures were gathered by the government, the total sales of trees and plants and nursery stock of all kinds amounted to $21,000,000, while the fruit crop for the same year—the fruit crop from trees sold by nurserymen—put into the pockets of the fruit growers over $710,000,000. Commenting on these facts at the meeting of the Illinois State Nurserymen's Association, John Watson said: "It seems to me that nothing so eloquently points out the value of nurserymen's annual contribution to the country's wealth as the fact that one year's fruit crop would buy thirty-five times as much salable stock as they have in all their nurseries; that it would buy not only all the stock they have now, but that it would buy, as well, the nurseries themselves and every dollar's worth of property connected with the entire nursery industry."

TAXING GROWING STOCK.

The question of taxing growing nursery stock is the subject of an interesting controversy that is now occupying the attention of the authorities of Middletown, Conn., wherein are located several of the large greenhouses of the nurserymen and growers who supply the markets. At the annual financial town meeting, held last week, petitions were presented from the Wilson Nurseries and the Rhode Island Nurseries, of which V. A. Vanicek is proprietor, asking for the refunding of certain money, which, it was represented, had been paid to the town under protest, as having been wrongfully assessed against the firms for growing nursery stock in June, 1921.

The petitions caused considerable discussion and, while no action was taken at the town meeting to refund the money, the matter was taken under advisement for an investigation of the state laws concerning such property, and it is expected that an adjustment may be made in accordance with such findings. The outcome of this controversy will be watched with more than usual interest, as it is a pertinent question that concerns every grower of nursery stock in the country.

DEMAND FOR FRUIT.

The frequent statement that if all the trees that are planted ever come into bearing there will be so much fruit that the market will not be able to consume it, is opposed by G. Hale Harrison, of Harrison's Nurseries, Berlin, Md. "Such is not the case," he asserted recently as president of the Peninsula Horticultural Society. "By consulting statistics you will find that in 1920 there were twenty-eight per cent fewer bearing apple trees in the United States than there were in 1910, and at the same time there were forty-five per cent fewer trees of nonbearing age than there were in the last decade.

This also holds true of peaches. In 1920 there were thirty per cent fewer bearing peach trees in the United States than there were in 1910 and also forty-nine per cent fewer peach trees of nonbearing age than there were in 1910. At the same time, with this great decrease in the number of trees in bearing and nonbearing trees, there was an increase in the population of the United States of five per cent. Since there were so many bearing trees in 1910, with a smaller population consuming fruit at that time, it certainly looks reasonable that with a decreased number of trees and an increased population there should not be any trouble to sell good fruit at fair prices during the coming years. The prospect for both peaches and apples looks encouraging."

VARIETIES OF HARDY PHLOX.

Please give me growing instructions and the names and colors of the best propagating varieties of phlox. Where can I secure cuttings of plants that will come true to seed?

J. R. S.—Ind.

There are numerous varieties of hardy herbaceous phlox. While it is true that seedlings can be grown readily, these will not come true to color and, while some good varieties may be secured in this way, the best way to increase stock is to propagate by cuttings in the early spring. Take off the young, soft cuttings when they are three or four inches in length, and root them in an ordinary propagating bench. These cuttings root easily, and I have found that if they are taken from the sand carefully with good roots, they can be lined out in the field with few losses.

Phlox paniculata is the best for your purposes, but it would be advisable for you to grow some of the dwarf and earlier-blooming sorts, such as amœna, Elizabeth Campbell, Rheinlander, Thor. Scarlet—Coquelicot, Beacon. Lavender and blue—Le Mahdi, Antonin Mercie, La Vague. Others of various colors are: R. P. Struthers, rose carmine; B. Comte, French purple; Pantheon, carmine rose; Eclairer, bright magenta; Henry Murger, white with crimson center; Sunshine, aniline red with crimson eye; Esperance, silvery rose with white center. Phlox suffruticosa Miss Lingard, which blooms a little earlier than the paniculatas, should be in every collection. It is a persistent bloomer and is white with a delicate pink eye.

Several firms, advertising in The Review, offer collections of hardy phlox, and their culture is not difficult.

BLOOMING IRIS.

Is there any difference in the blooming time of the iris? W. F. C.—Utah.

The tall bearded irises bloom about three weeks, beginning with Kochii and finishing with Monsignor and Queen Alexandra. W. A. P.

EARLY PEONIES.

We would like to know the three earliest varieties of peonies grown in pink, white and red. W. F. C.—Utah.

Omitting the officinalis section or May-flowering peonies, the first white peony to bloom with us is grandiflora nivea plena. It comes a day earlier than Madame de Verneville, but more money is made by growing the latter. The following are the earliest: Octavie Demay, light pink; M. Jules Elie, deep pink; Richard Carvel, red. W. A. Peterson.

of cabinet members and their wives and other officials through the greenhouses. This is the ninth show of the sort arranged by the department, according to Dr. W. A. Taylor, chief of the bureau of plant industry. The houses are directly in charge of Superintendent Byrnes. In a statement for The Review, Dr. Taylor explained that the United States Department of Agriculture is recognized throughout the world as doing more than any other agency or individual for the commercializing of the amaryllis and domesticating it as an ornamental plant in this country. He stated that in the show this year there are 1,075 plants, most of which are individual species, differing in conformation and shades or variation of coloring. There are a great many 1919 and 1920 seedlings which department to produce a pure white amaryllis. It is predicted that such a bloom will be in the show next year and this will be the first time that a white amaryllis has ever been produced.

The plants average from one to four stalks, and each stalk carries two to eight blooms. In number of plants and varieties of form and color this show outclassed anything ever before attempted, Dr. Taylor said. The attendance was heavy. Botanical experts from all over the world came here to see the show and to get bulbs from the department. Last year, during the six days that the show was open to the public, 82,599 persons visited the greenhouses.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

Trade was fairly good last week, notwithstanding the curtailing of parties and entertaining on account of Lent. Roses are becoming more plentiful in the medium grades, but there is a scarcity in the long, fancy grades. The demand for carnations has been unusually good, especially in white and green, owing to St. Patrick's day. Sweet peas, jonquils, Von Sion, freesia, etc., help in the making up of the small novelties. Plants are much in evidence and are in great demand for hospital orders. After a week of spring weather we awakened Monday morning of this week to find the city in the midst of a regular blizzard, with snow, heavy winds and the temperature going down rapidly.

Various Notes.

The opening of the new Dime Trust & Savings bank brought the florists a fine lot of business. Everyone had his share and the rooms looked like a regular flower show, with the complimentary remembrances from the local business houses as well as telegraph orders.

Ralph H. Tinkham is showing a fine line of plants. The medium-priced plants are most in demand.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey are cutting a fine lot of roses, with especially heavy

E. C. Wenninghoff is showing a fine lot of cinerarias. Mr. Wenninghoff was favored with a large amount of trade for St. Patrick's day. Business amounted to more than usual on that day.

John Doswell has been confined to his home for several days with a severe attack of the grip, but expects to be out in a few days. At the greenhouses are seen two houses of fine pelargoniums, Easter Greeting and Gardener's Joy, that will be in just right for Easter. They are also going to have a fine lot of Easter lilies and snapdragons that will be just right at that time.

Lanternier Florists have had a good business. They are continuing their week-end sales, which have proven to be a great success.

The florists are all planning to spend some time at the national flower show at Indianapolis. It looks as though everybody would be there for at least part of the time.

Recent trade visitors have been: I. M. Bayersdorfer, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; Alexander Sawyer, of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co.; Robert E. Gay, of the McCallum Co., of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a representative from the Weller Nurseries Co., Holland, Mich., as well as several Holland bulb men. S. N.

CINCINNATI, O.*The Market.

With the Lenten season here, business has been quite brisk, mostly in funeral work. Sweet peas are at their best and moving at prices ranging from $1 per hundred to $2.50 per hundred. Some of the varieties now at their best are Columbia, Margaret Atlee, Yarawa and Rose Queen.

Roses are arriving in good condition. They range from $6 per hundred to $20 per hundred. Snapdragons in all colors are in good condition and limited supply. Calla lilies are plentiful, but Easter lilies are scarcer than has been the case for a long time.

Violets of the large Princess of Wales variety arrive in quantity and move well because of their fine quality. Carnations, all varieties, are in fine condition and move out well at $4 to $10 per hundred.

Miscellaneous stock, including valley, primulas, forget-me-nots, wallflowers

BETTY JANE

Our new Ward pink seedling has a beautiful formed flower on long, stiff stems; of an even shade of Ward pink. It is a good grower in the field and under glass and a free and continuous bloomer, good keeper and shipper.

last week filling telegraph orders. There is plenty of funeral work and decorations. A number of store spring opening decorations have been booked for the coming week.

C. E. Critchell's condition is much improved, and he will soon be back on the job.

P. J. Olinger reports a good week in calendula and sweet peas sales.

Julius Baer was exceedingly busy last week on funeral work. His St. Patrick's day window display was a novel one.

The trade is sorry to hear of William Taylor's loss by fire. Mr. Taylor has not estimated his loss, but the fire ruined the stock and two 200-foot houses, filled with stock for Easter.

T. J. Hardesty has revived the idea of a box of cut flowers in the window and has attracted much attention from the passers-by.

Ernst Rutenschroer, one of our hill-top growers, reports his stock for Easter so far to be coming along nicely, and, with some bright days, will have the best lot of stock ever, including bulbous stock, roses and lilies.

CLEVELAND CLUB DOINGS.

The committee on the national flower show urges every grower, wholesaler and retailer to get busy in doing their part as exhibitors at Indianapolis. If you have something good, send it. It makes no difference whether it is large or small. The national committee, which was compelled to take the big show to Indianapolis, on account of our new municipal hall being incomplete, will undoubtedly see that we get the next national show.

Don't forget the special cars for Cleveland day, March 29. Take your vacation now. Go to Indianapolis; enjoy the crowd. You will never regret it. It is not only pleasure, but a real education.

The next meeting of the club will be Monday, April 3. Don't forget it; mark it on your calendar. To those who have not been at the meetings: We need you! There is not a dull moment. Come and get in touch with the club's "get together" activities.

There is a better spirit among the growers. There is a determined effort to make Cleveland not only a greater growing center, but a greater buying center for the public. It can be done, if you make it your duty to become a live-wire part of our splendid club.

On a trip among the growers last week the writer saw some wonderful Easter displays. It is expected that several thousand people will visit the greenhouses of the J. M. Gasser Co. during the firm's annual pre-Easter show. Carl Hagenburger, C. Merkel & Sons Co., Anderson's, the Riverside Nurseries, A. C. Fox and many others all look for a banner holiday business. At the Cleveland place of the Cleveland Cut Flower Co., the McCallum Co. store and the wholesale department of the J. M. Gasser Co. preparations are being made for the biggest ever.

One of the healthiest signs of the times was that the hustling "get together" building fund committee was told to defer the next dance until after the Easter rush.

Greenhouse Heating

HEATING PROPAGATING HOUSE.

Will an American round hot water boiler, which has a 28-inch grate, is fifty-seven inches high and thirty-seven inches wide across the top, with one 5-inch flow and one 5-inch return, heat one rose house, 20x80 feet, gables exposed and four feet of glass in the side wall; one propagating house for begonias, 12x70 feet, one gable exposed and three feet of glass in the side walls? We should like to maintain a temperature of 60 degrees in the rose house and 65 degrees in the smaller house when the outside temperature is zero or below. C. B.—O.

I have not a catalogue of the American boiler and cannot therefore judge definitely regarding the rating of this boiler, since the number of sections are not stated.

For the best results with soft coal as fuel it would be inadvisable to use a boiler with more than four sections above the fire pot, and unless the draft is good, three sections will be better. As near as can be approximated, the capacity of a heater with a 28-inch grate and three sections will be about 1,850 square feet of hot water radiation, or 2,000 square feet with four sections. While such a boiler would heat the two houses to 60 degrees and 65 degrees respectively, if hard coal is used, it would be preferable to use a heater with a 30-inch grate for soft coal.

For the rose house use three 2½-inch flow pipes and nine 2-inch returns. The propagating house should have two flows and eight returns.

DIMENSIONS OF BRICK STACK

What are the heating requirements for three connecting greenhouses, 30x100 feet? The height of these houses to the gutter is five and one-half feet and twelve feet to the ridge. There are two feet of glass in one side and a 5-foot bank of soil on the other side, with no glass in the north end. The boiler will be three and one-half feet below the level of the ground and will be located at the end of the middle house, so that it can be fed from the outside. What make of boiler would you advise using? What would be the best way of placing the pipes? What should the dimensions of the brick chimney be? H. M.—Ore.

While the actual radiation required in the three houses will be but little more than 3,000 square feet, the boiler should have a rating of about 5,000 square feet, especially as soft coal is likely to be used. While the dimensions of the grate and fire pot will vary for different boilers, the area of the grate should be approximately nine square feet.

The chimney should be sixteen inches square inside, with a height of forty feet. Either cast-iron or tubular boilers will give good results. While three 2½-inch flow pipes would answer ordinarily, yet in this case, since the boiler will be only three and one-half feet below the surface of the ground, it would be advisable to use five 2½-inch flow pipes in each house, placing one flow on each plate, one under the ridge and the others under the purlins.

Kroeschell High Pressure Steam Boilers

In the Greenhouse business Kroeschell Boilers are used almost entirely. There is comparatively little glass today that is not heated by Kroeschell Boilers.

That Kroeschell Boilers are the safest and most economical has been proven by their country-wide use in the largest establishments owned by the wisest Growers—where only the best of equipment is used and where the best of stock is raised.

Years of experience in the Greenhouse business has taught these Growers that Kroeschell Boilers are the best in every way. That is why big men in the Growing business select the KROESCHELL for their big ranges.

There will be eleven 2-inch returns required in the house having the exposed side wall and ten of the same size in the other houses. Arrange the returns in coils containing two pipes each, except the coil on the exposed wall, which should contain three returns, and connect each coil with one of the flow pipes. Run all flows downhill from the boiler and connect the expansion tank with the highest point in the system.

USING LIGNITE AS FUEL.

Kindly advise me what method of heating is best adapted to the heating of two houses, one of which is now under construction. The present house is 24x80 feet, with a basement in the south end for the heating plant, and the north end will be connected with the service shed. There will be three feet of glass in the west wall and five in the east wall. The south gable end will rest on three and one-half feet of concrete. I wish to maintain from 50 to 60 degrees, using soft coal (lignite), when the outside temperature goes as low as 10 degrees below zero. Would you advise the use of steam or hot water and how would you arrange the piping?

Keep a Daily Record of Temperatures in Your Greenhouses

J. K. Alexander, the dahlia king, East Bridgewater, Mass., writes, under date of Dec. 7, 1921: "Your thermometer is the best I have seen for my business."

Records are as important in the growing business as in any other business. Progressive growers who spare no effort in raising highest grade stock use Standard Recording Thermometers and know the great aid of keeping records of temperatures. Your equipment is far from complete if you have no Standard Recording Thermometer.

The actuating element of the Standard Recording Thermometer is of lamina metal, which, besides being extremely sensitive to temperature changes, is practically indestructible. Record charts are furnished either daily or weekly, and the whole mechanism is contained in an attractive metal case fitted with lock and key, which insures the record from being tampered with.

The clock movement is of extremely high grade; everything about the instrument is up to the highest possible standard of manufacture.

houses, it is seldom considered advisable to install a steam heating system unless as much as 5,000 square feet of glass is to be heated, and under most conditions 10,000 square feet would be a minimum.

To heat the two houses to 60 degrees when it is 10 degrees below zero, although the actual radiation needed will be slightly less than 2,000 square feet, it is best to use a boiler rated at 4,000 square feet, or at least the grate should be large enough for that amount of radiation, since lignite is low in heat units. Hence, in order to burn lignite successfully, a boiler should have a grate nearly twice as large as would be necessary for hard coal.

To heat the house 24x80, now under construction, run a 2½-inch flow pipe on each side wall plate and two others under the purlin posts. Use two 2-inch coils containing four pipes each on the side walls and two coils of two 2-inch pipes each in the walks between the benches. For heating the two houses a grate 36x42 inches will be needed, but if a surplus is needed it may be 36x48 inches.

USING PIPE ON HAND.

I have mailed you a plan of a small greenhouse, which I wish to heat to 50 degrees when the outside temperature is 10 degrees below zero. There is enough 1¼-inch pipe on hand at my place with which to make the returns and I should like to use this pipe if possible. I have a hot water boiler of ample size, but the ports are made for 1½-inch pipe. I can have these ports enlarged if necessary, as the boiler is of steel construction.

J. L. W.—Mo.

The sketch shows the house to be 21x57 feet, with the side walls six feet high, three feet being of concrete and the other three feet being glass. There are four raised benches, two of which are built on the side walls.

To heat the house to 50 degrees, use three 2-inch flow pipes, placing one on each side wall plate and the other three feet below the ridge. Four 2-inch returns will be required in addition to the eight 1¼-inch returns which will be provided by the pipe now on hand. The 1¼-inch pipes may be used for two coils of four pipes each, to be placed either on the side walls or under the side benches. Use the four 2-inch returns in two coils under the middle benches, to be supplied by the middle overhead flow. Provide three 2-inch ports for the flows and the same number for the returns.

Niklas & Son are displaying some fine hydrangeas and yellow poeticus in pots, which are of good quality.

The Tonseth Floral Co. is displaying a line of cut flowers and ferns. This firm seems to be the only one to have a supply of ferns on hand at the present time. Its lilies are coming along as well as can be expected.

Frank Naurauke, formerly with Fred M. Young, is in the employ of the Swiss Floral Co., and reports business satisfactory. N. V. H.

NEWPORT, R. I.

Fred P. Webber, secretary of the Newport Horticultural Society, is convalescing from a slight attack of diphtheria. The premium list for the June show of the society has been arranged and will be ready for distribution in a short time.

Richard Gardner, who has been on the sick list with the grip, is reported as recovering.

A lecture on "Old New England Gardens" by Prof. Loring Underwood, of Boston, will be given next week at the John Clarke Memorial school.

Henry C. Anthony, while in Providence, R. I., one day last week, had a narrow escape from serious injury when he was knocked down by a motor truck. He was cut and bruised, but no bones were broken and he was able to proceed after being given first aid. Although 70 years of age, he was able to return to his home in Portsmouth. W. H. M.

Zion City, Ill.—Robert Murdock is entering the trade and is growing flowers and nursery stock.

No Insects Wanted in Your Greenhouse?

Four of our customers have replied to our recent inquiry. For what do you find Gets-There Insecticide Soap especially effective?

"We commenced to use Gets-There Insecticide Soap because it was recommended by a large grower from whom we buy. We purchased Gets-There and used it for general spraying once or twice a week, in dilute solutions, and have never since had any trouble from either mildew or insects. It is the ounce of prevention."

For $1.00 we will send you a good sized trial can of Gets-There Insecticide Soap. Ask your dealer for it.

TORONTO, ONT.

Business is fair. There is plenty of stock and there was last week the usual trade in shamrocks and St. Patrick's reception decorations.

The evening papers of Friday, March 17, contained an announcement by several Toronto florists stating that, owing to the sunlight and existing conditions, they were able to offer carnations, tulips and daffodils of good quality at a low figure. The intention is to get the confidence of the public in that the florists are trying to supply flowers for table use at the lowest possible figure. It is the intention to try this out again, with the coöperation of the growers.

Professor Crow, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont., has been dismissed by the principal. Professor Crow has done a great deal for horticulturists, who think highly of him. There is a feeling that there has been a lack of coöperation on the part of the present farmers' government and recently W. E. Groves, president of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, said in a speech at Toronto that the equipment of the department was a "monumental disgrace."

The regular meeting of the Toronto Retail Florists' Club was held March 13. The sick committee reported that George Yavner was ill and was taking a rest at Hot Springs. George Mills was also reported ill. H. G. Dilleuth gave a talk on advertising, after which several in attendance subscribed sufficient to put an advertisement in the following Friday night papers. It was decided to attend the theater in a body March 31. A box social will be held April 3. There will be cards, for which prizes will be awarded.

The Market.

Stock has been coming in well, but the demand also has kept pace. Roses are plentiful and sell at $4 up per hundred. Shorts sell at $4 and $6. Carnations are not numerous and move well at $4 and $6. Laddie is bringing $10. Lilies sell well for funeral work. Callas sell at $1.50 to $2.50. A few Easter lilies have put in an appearance at $3 per dozen.

Sweet peas are plentiful at $1 to $2 per hundred. Calendulas bring $3 and $4. Eastern violets are available at $1 per hundred. A few snapdragons are peeping into the local market.

Potted plants have been in good demand for decorating work and hospitals. These include cinerarias, primroses, bulbous plants, cyclamens, begonias and a few rose bushes. Bulbous cut stock is also available.

Various Notes.

Oscar G. Carlstedt attended the recent convention of the Illinois State Florists' Association at Urbana, Ill.

Julius Dilloff, of Wertheimer Bros., New York, called on the trade recently.

Tom Hepler has been sick and unable to attend to business.

E. E. Temperley has been ill with influenza and pneumonia, but is able to be out once more.

The Indianapolis newspapers have certainly been boosting for the big show. The Sunday Star had an interesting article, supplemented by pictures, telling of some of the latest rose disseminations. E. E. T.

CYCLAMEN*CYCLAMEN SEEDLINGS.

In offering our block of 300,000 TRANSPLANTED CYCLAMEN SEEDLINGS to the trade, we can emphatically recommend them as a superior grade of plants, in as much as we have specialized on CYCLAMEN for years, and are constantly improving our strain and methods of growing.

Through the use of a specially prepared compost, we have produced wonderful root action and a fine foliage, in fact we have never had a finer lot of seedlings of the very best known varieties. We established a new record with our CYCLAMEN plants last fall when we shipped them in full carload lots to the East.

Remember—Our plants have no trace or sign of the mite or any other diseases CYCLAMEN are subject to.

Orders booked in rotation. Satisfaction guaranteed.

VERY SPECIAL!

For $12.00 I will send 5000 selected bulblets of the new pure white Gladiolus Lilywhite and include 10 blooming size gratis. Lilywhite is the long desired pure white Gladiolus of vigorous, healthy growth; great multiplying power; straight spikes opening six to eight blooms at a time; an ideal forcer, early as Halley and the best commercial pure white to date.

Awarded first prize by New York, Massachusetts and St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada, Horticultural Societies and American Gladiolus Society.

This variety will be grown eventually by the million and practical florists will get stock at once.

Send for our descriptive list of cut-flower varieties suitable for retail florists; also testimonials from leading growers.

HYBRIDIZED DAHLIA SEED.

This seed is raised from the most up-to-date Dahlias in existence. No place in the world have Dahlias been brought up to such perfection as they have been around San Francisco. This mixture contains all colors and types of Peony, Cactus and Decorative varieties. Our rainless California summers make it possible to get seed even from the very double varieties, a result extremely difficult in States where it is rainy during the time when the seed should set.

The seed we sent out in previous years was highly praised by all who raised Dahlias from it, but this seed is far superior to what we have sent out in previous years. The seedlings will commence to flower two months after sowing and almost a month earlier than plants raised from bulbs.

Walden, N. Y., Feb. 14, 1921.

Richard Diener, Co., Kentfield, Cal.

Gentlemen: The Dahlia Seed received from you last year turned out fine. Could not think Dahlias could be grown from seed in such short time. Had some very fine blooms. One yellow Peony flowered that was extra fine, some 8 inches and a clear canary-yellow. Everyone who saw it was amazed at the size grown from seed. Had a clear flesh-pink; beautiful under lamp light. Respectfully, Wm. McBrier.

Ask Mr. Willig of Poughkeepsie if he thinks his big house is any too good looking.
Ask him if he would just as soon have it clumsy and rough finished Ask him if he paid for any fineness in design and carefulness in construction that he doesn't consider worth all he paid.

About This Wheelbarrow And That Greenhouse

On the walls of one of Italy's wonderful old churches hangs a time stained oil painting known and beloved almost the world over.
It is Leonardo da Vinci's "Last Supper."
A magnificent portrayal of Christ's last supper with his apostles.
It is but one of many masterpieces from the brush of that master man.

The same man, this same great painter, is the man who designed and made the first wheelbarrow.
He, who could do the marvelously beautiful, could also do the thoroughly practical.
Because Leonardo did it so practically, the wheelbarrow is today the same design that he made five centuries ago. But he was two years designing and redesigning it, until he had what he knew to be right.

Sometimes we have been accused of making our greenhouses too fine.
That we spend too much time on so-called refinements.
That we talk too much about what a fine looking house we build and too little on its growing and lasting features.

Our answer to that is, that Leonardo's wheelbarrow is no less practical because it is not clumsy and ugly.

Over and over again, it has been proven that fineness in design go hand in hand with greatest efficiency.
In fact, a well designed piece of machinery of high efficiency is a real thing of beauty.
Lift up the hood of a car of high reputation and the engine is your answer.

Rounding and curving the handle of the wheelbarrow, to fit the hand of the laborer, is not waste effort.
It is simply fitting the handle to the worker, so it can be done the easiest, most efficient way.
That is exactly the way we design our greenhouse constructions.
We do strive to make them good looking, not because we sell looks, but that thorough practicalness and high efficiency go with it.

The solid wooden wheels of the Ceylon native's ox cart look strong and everlasting enough, but you know full well that one of our present-day light spoke made wheels will do the same work at many times less weight.

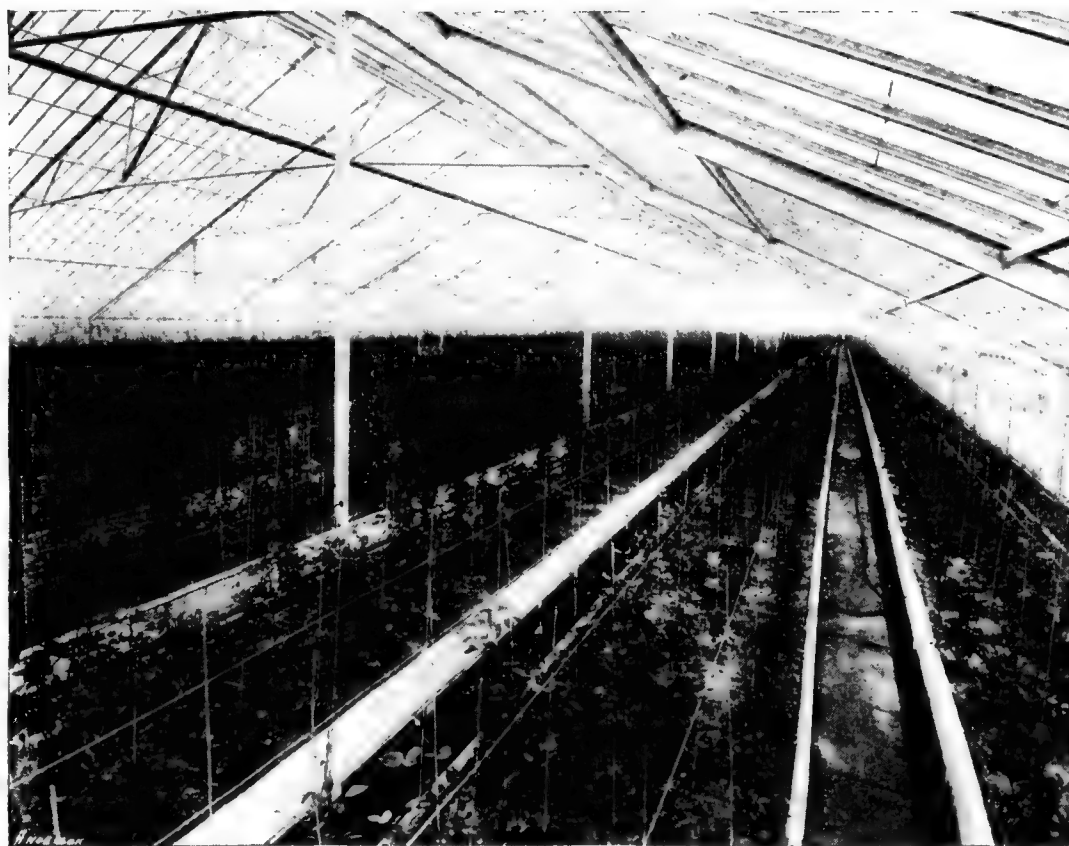

So you see it's a sure thing that we will continue making a good looking greenhouse and always be a bit fussy about so-called refinements.
You know we go anywhere for business.
Or to talk business.

NATIONAL SHOW NUMBER

Why Build One That's Not So Good When For The Same Price You Can Have One That's Better?

Why spend your money for a Semi-Iron, pipe frame, or half iron frame house, when for the same money we will build you a complete full Iron Frame, with everything in it strictly L & B high quality?

Of course we appreciate the fact just as much as you do, that merely because a house is iron frame, it doesn't necessarily make it the best house to build.

It's what make of an iron frame that's important.

There was a time, when to say iron frame, meant an L & B house.

Meant an L & B house because we were the first to design and build an Iron Frame, just as Eastman was the first to design and make a snap-shot camera, which he named a Kodak. But now, all snap-shotters are called Kodaks, regardless of what firm makes them.

Happily for you, however, when you say you are going to build an L & B Iron Framer, at once everybody knows you are building the best house that can be built.

In widths of 40 feet and less we recommend the Number Two construction.

In widths above 40 feet, then the Number One is the one.

But whichever one we build for you, it will be strictly L & B high standard throughout.

Another thing—a lot of growers are coming back to narrower houses.

Looks like 40 feet is going to be a favorite again.

Let's talk it over together.

A. L. Miller, of Jamaica, Long Island, after building six Lord & Burnham houses, thought he was about through.

Then he suddenly started in again, and ordered another.

Two weeks after, the materials were on the ground, and the house had the plants in it.

Summer Cut

THE ARRIVAL OF SPRING Suggests outdoor planting, and to consider the production of that end we suggest below a PROVEN LIST OF 'PROFIT-MAKING' LILIES and PERENNIAL PLANTS, such as ACHILLEA, LARK-SPRIG investment is a lasting one. With a nominal amount of care and supplying desirable cut flower material soon after planting.

Gladioli are now too well known for their value as cut flowers to need any commendation on our part. Everyone of the varieties offered below is a real "Gem" and this is a grand opportunity to secure many valuable Florists' sorts at a nominal cost. Order early as supply of some kinds is limited—size 1 1/4-inch up invariably produces good results when grown outdoors.

Don't Be Caught Short

Without our patented cardboard Wreath Forms

Experience has shown us that most of our trade has paid too much for their Wreath Forms because they held back their orders until shipment had to be made by express. This increased the cost of the merchandise from 25 to 35 per cent. Besides, our customers lost business because they did not have the goods on hand—their customers would not wait when delivery could not be made at once. The profit on such specialties comes through having the goods on hand when wanted. It does not pay to approach the Christmas holidays with little goods on hand.

Therefore we suggest to you that you place your orders now for fall requirements in Christmas Wreath Forms.

Send for our line of samples of cardboard Wreath Forms as illustrated in this advertisement. Do it now. Prices and samples will be sent gratis on request. We make the following sizes:

Wreath Forms—4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 16-inch.

Star Forms—4, 6, 7, 9 and 12-inch.

Heart Forms—5, 6 and 7-inch.

Cross Forms—14x21-inch and 18x30-inch.

A LETTER FROM A MAN YOU ALL KNOW

S. BRYSON AYRES CO.,
 Kansas City, Mo.

Detroit, Mich.

Gentlemen:—We had some seeds of Ce'losia Chrysantheflora from you last season. The crop was extremely fine and the colors were a revelation. We would like to get three or four more packets of the seeds.

Very truly yours,

John Breitmeyer's Sons, Per Philip Breitmeyer.

TO OUR MANY FLORIST FRIENDS:

We wish to thank you all for your visit at the Randall display during the National Flower Show.

Your ready compliments and generous appreciation of our attempt to bring before you at least a portion of the "RANDALL LINE" were indeed an inspiration.

Though our space was large, it was nowhere near large enough to display the complete "RANDALL LINE" of quick selling floral merchandise.

We therefore cordially invite you to visit us at Chicago, where we have spacious show rooms filled with floral novelties, products of the Randall factories, and products of the leading factories in Europe and the Orient.

JUST NOW we have on sale at our Chicago display rooms fourteen thousand pieces of high-class Pottery, Vases, Bowls, and flower containers of all descriptions. The entire factory stock and it will all be sold quickly at about 20 cents on the dollar.

This is our third huge sale of Pottery. Those who bought of the first two lots will buy again. To florists not familiar with these famous sales we urge you to come to Chicago. Your selection from this one lot alone will more than repay you.

Will You Make Money This Summer?

Be careful of the leaks that drain away your profits. Huge ice bills and wilted, unsalable flowers will be a big expense item this year. Better play safe—do away with melting, unreliable ice. Install Lipman Automatic Refrigeration.

Costs less than ice—and floods the flowers in your refrigerator with crisp cold air that preserves them weeks longer. A Lipman Automatic keeps any desired temperature the year 'round—requires no attention. Easily installed in any refrigerator—soon pays for itself in money saved.

Acquire a veritable Horticultural Library and

SAVE $8

The Review is able to announce that it NOW is in position to furnish

BAILEY'S STANDARD

Cyclopedia of Horticulture

at a new low price. The last printing was sold out at $48.00 the set of 6 volumes—a very reasonable price considering war-time costs of printing. Now a new printing is being made and the publishers authorize The Review to give its readers the benefit of the saving made in present competitive conditions in the book-making trades in the East. This means a new price of $40.00 per set for the CYCLOPEDIA—a saving of $8.00 per set.

Send your orders now—delivery about April 1

REMEMBER—BAILEY'S STANDARD CYCLOPEDIA OF HORTICULTURE is in 6 large volumes, over 3,000 pages. It is authority in all matters of plant names and spellings. Besides the purely botanical matter one would expect to find in such a work, there are many hundreds of cultural articles, chapters on insects, diseases, remedies, etc.—a veritable horticultural library, all carefully and completely indexed.

42 Willow Baskets, all with liners, for $29.80

These 42 baskets were especially selected (not collected or assorted) from our best selling numbers, and therefore we know positively you can sell them. You get three baskets of each kind shown above. They are mostly cut flower baskets and a few plant baskets. Some of the baskets are finished in assorted stains, some painted in solid colors as white, blue, lavender; others in two-tone combinations of gold and black, silver and blue, white and ivory, etc., every basket colored differently. We want to sell you more of these baskets and therefore are offering you styles that are popular and practical that will sell every day in the year. Note the generous size of some of the baskets:

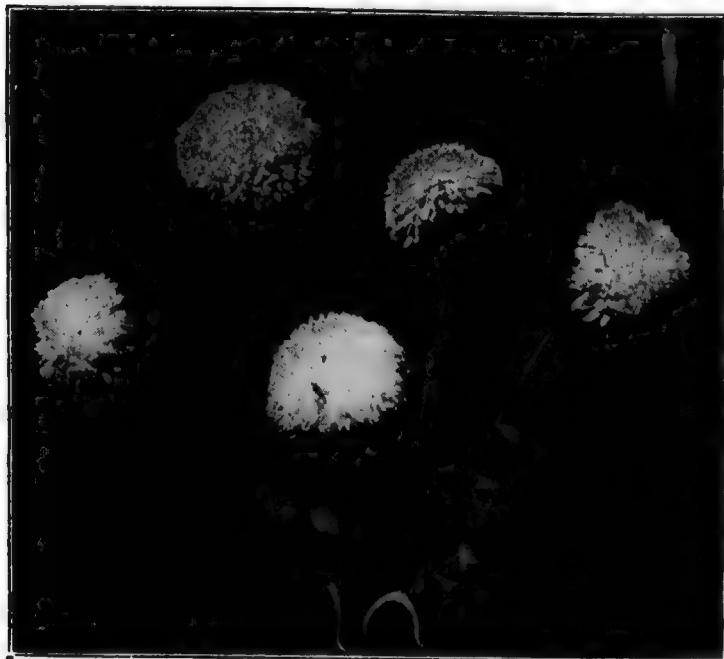

No. 4014 hold a 6-in. pan
No. 3003 hold a 5-in. standard pot
No. 2016 hold a 5-in. pan

No. 3103 is 23 in. high
No. 50 9-in. is 26 in. high
No. 50 12-in. is 33 in. high

We have these baskets packed in light cartons and will ship the same day we receive your order. This is a real value selection; order today and you will be so pleased you will want more.

Ball's White Aster

Introduced by us last season and although a most unfavorable year for asters, has given very general satisfaction. It is a well rounded flower, pure white, exceptionally free flowering and distinctively double.  $\frac{1}{8}$  oz., 75c;  $\frac{1}{4}$  oz., \$1.35; 1 oz., \$5.00. We take this opportunity of thanking our customers for their letters of appreciation of this aster.

The Ball Calendula

We take this opportunity of announcing the introduction of the Ball Calendula for July, 1922.

This new orange Calendula represents a very great improvement in size, length of stem and fullness of flowers. It has exhibited these superior characteristics uniformly for the past 4 years not only with us but with other growers, whose testimonials, with further announcements, will appear later. Although an average crop of seed is expected, we suggest you place your order with us at once. Trade pkt. of  $\frac{1}{4}$  oz., \$3.00; oz., \$5.00.

Ball's Summer Peas

For the past 15 years we have grown summer Peas extensively and we annually make most searching tests of new varieties. We have stocks of the following kinds ready for prompt shipment and know this list cannot be improved upon for standard varieties. Listed in the order of their value for cut flower purposes; priced to include postage and insurance.

WHITE SURPRISE

New General Purpose Varieties

THANKSGIVING PINK. (Baur.) "Deep cerise-pink and of decidedly reflexed type" describes the color and form of this new sort. As its name implies, it is a late-blooming variety, coming in from November 20 to December 1, when there are few good pink sorts available. Rooted Cuttings: $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

WHITE SURPRISE. The flower is large, reflexed in type but close-petaled enough to be a solid flower, and the petals are of good substance. These characteristics make a flower that will pack without bruising. Rooted Cuttings: $2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100, $140.00 per 1000.

Choice General Purpose Varieties

Rooted Cuttings: 75c. per doz., $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000.
2 1/4-inch: $1.00 per doz., $7.00 per 100, $60.00 per 1000.

New Pompons

Rooted Cuttings: $15.00 per 100, $140.00 per 1000.

LOUISE DAVENPORT. Button type, which is the true Pompon. Rich bronze in color; very floriferous, making full sprays. Matures November 10.

NEW YORK. Coming into flower November 1, this bronze variety is the first of a wonderful succession of bronze Pompons. With us it holds in its glory until Louise Davenport comes into flower and takes its place.

NOVEMBER GOLD. A strong-stemmed, upright grower of the large-flowered type. Too large to be classed as a true Pompon, but perfect in form and a bright, golden-yellow in color.

SARAH TOWNSEND. Golden bronze in color. Lacks the richness in color of New York and Louise Davenport and follows the latter in period of blooming. It comes into flower November 20.

Surprise

Our New Pink Carnation for 1923

In color a trifle darker and the nearest approach to Laddie of any Carnation we know. A well grown flower of Surprise is nearly equal to Laddie and the combined size and color, in addition to its productiveness, will make it a close rival to that favorite.

Its popularity will be in—

- 1st. The easy propagation, strong growth and shapely, upright plants.
- 2nd. The color, which is a more even shade of pink and just a little darker than Laddie.
- 3rd. The very early and profuse flowering habit, equal to the best of the standard varieties.
- 4th. The large size, good form and commercial quality.
- 5th. The opening of the flower, which is quick and never bursts the calyx.
- 6th. The transplanting of the field-grown plants, which become quickly established and throwing very early flowering shoots in quantity and of surprising length.
- 7th. The quick growth in the field, with its early flowering habit, produces long stiff stemmed flowers of a beautiful shade of pink nearly equal to indoor grown. "Surprise" will be a paying proposition for flowering in the field. (Plants intended for benching should be kept topped and not let flower in the field.)

The many orders booked before this announcement of the dissemination has proven that all who have seen the flowers exhibited at the Hartford Carnation Meeting and who have inspected the variety growing in the house of an eastern grower, consider "Surprise" of unusual merit and already have placed their orders of from one to five thousand for early delivery. We are now booking orders. Early orders get the early stock.

PRICE—$12.50 per 100, $110.00 per 1000

Delivery will commence December 1922 and through the season

F. Dorner & Sons Co., Lafayette, Ind.

Carnation Surprise was exhibited at Hartford under No. 135 (16)

Easter Plants

We are now preparing a large stock of Easter Plants, such as Easter Lilies in pots, Otaksa and French Hydrangeas in all sizes, Rambler Roses tied in shapes, making a splendid growth in Dorothy Perkins, Excelsa and Tausendschoen. Our Lilies are looking fine and will be just right for Easter. Would suggest, whenever possible, to have Lilies shipped while in white bud, as it avoids all bruising in shipping. Orders solicited now for shipment at any time before Easter. There will be a scarcity of good Easter stock this year, so protect yourself by ordering early.

Hydrangeas will range in price from 50c to $3.00 each according to value.
Rambler Roses from $1.00 to $3.00. Lilies, 25c per bud or flower.

Asparagus Sprengeri, 3-inch, 7c each.

NATALIE

A new medium pink seedling carnation that will take the place of Ward.

HAROLD J. PATTEN, Tewksbury, Mass., says: "Natalie will produce fifty per cent (50%) more flowers than Ward and is better by far than any other medium pink carnation in existence."

NATALIE was awarded the Silver Medal in New York.
Won first prize and was awarded a Report of Merit in Boston.

ROSES

We desire to make special mention of our large stock of Roses, growing upwards of 10,000 plants in the following varieties. We have no hesitation in saying we are the largest growers of forcing Roses for Easter in America. We are positive our stock will please the most critical buyers, as the quality was never better. It has all been grown cool and will prove very satisfactory.

LADY GAY

In grand condition, trained into fan, globular, and pyramidal shapes, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5, $6 and $7.50 each.

Special ball shapes, $2.50, $3, $4, $5 and $7.50 each.

Baskets, $7.50, $10 and $12.50 each.
Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

TAUSENDSCHOEN (THOUSAND BEAUTIES)

Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

ROSERIE (NEW)

Dark sport of Tausendschoen. Very beautiful.

A great improvement on the popular Thousand Beauties (Tausendschoen) and consequently, a welcome addition to this section. While it has the same habit of growth and general characteristics as Thousand Beauties, the color is superior, a deeper and more even shade of cerise-pink or carmine.

Trained plants, fans, globular, and pyramidal shapes, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Baskets, $10, $12 and $15 each.
Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

In addition to the above trained Roses, we have also trained some very special designs, such as Aeroplanes, Crosses, Chairs, Pergolas, etc., at $10, $12.50, $15, $20, $25 and $30 each.

PAUL'S SCARLET CLIMBER

One of the most promising climbing Roses yet sent out. Vivid scarlet, semi-double flowers of medium size, produced in large clusters, and in great profusion. The color does not burn or fade. This Rose has been exhibited extensively in Europe and received numerous awards.

5 and 6-inch pots, trained plants, $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3 each.

HYBRID ROSES

Including Columbia and Mrs. John Dunlop. Very fine plants in bud and flower for Easter sales.

3-inch pots, $35 per 100.

4-inch pots, $50 per 100.

Every retail store and grower should feature Crotons this Easter and spring. We know our stock will please you and your customer.

CROTON LEAVES AND SPRAYS

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past few years to some of the leading florists, who have featured them in mantel, table and funeral work. Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year.

Very highly colored sprays at 50c each; cut leaves, $5 per 100.

When you have orders for funeral or table work "out of the ordinary," order Craig's Cut Crotons.

DRACAENAS

There is no other variety of foliage plant so attractive as the highly colored Dracaena. The small and medium sizes can be used to great advantage in making up the popular Easter baskets, while the large specimens have always been in great demand for decorative purposes. We are now growing more Dracaenas, in greater variety, than any firm in the country.

DRACAENA GODSEFFIANA

Green and white leaf, very hardy, fine for baskets.

TAKE OFF YOUR HAT TO THE HOOSIERS

The fifth national flower show, in progress at Indianapolis this week, is a notable success—the more notable because less than seven weeks ago the place of exhibition was unexpectedly shifted to the Hoosier capital from Cleveland. All visitors praise the remarkable work of the Indiana florists.

AS one enters the hall wherein the national flower show is staged, at Indianapolis this week, one sees first of all a piece of statuary—a figure, whose sex, age and race are indeterminable, tugs with one hand at a rope fastened about the horns of a stocky ram and with the other coaxingly extends an ear of corn toward the animal. No explanation of its symbolism is offered and no title is given the piece. Various suggestions are offered. One is that it depicts Indianapolis getting Cleveland's goat, but if anyone got the Cleveland florists' goat, it was the mayor of their city and no other. Another suggestion is that it represents an attempt to get the goat of the Indianapolis florists. That would be more logical; to be asked to prepare for and to stage a national flower show in the short space of six weeks might be thought enough to get anybody's goat.

Not the Hoosiers'!

But not the Hoosiers'! The exhibition at Indianapolis this week would be creditable in the biggest city in the land, and from every point of view its opening days point to success. Under any circumstances it would be a notable exhibition; under the circumstances which surrounded this show, it is nothing less than remarkable.

The trade awaited a surpassing show this year. The last one, at Philadelphia in 1916, was a huge success, netting a good-sized profit and outshining all its predecessors. When the exhibition planned for St. Louis was called off because of the handicap of war conditions, florists' appetites were whetted. Cleveland promised a wonderful auditorium to house the display this year, and every florist in the Fifth City worked to set a record in national shows. Then the blow fell—the mayor of Cleveland gave his decision to allow no exhibitions in the new auditorium until it was absolutely completed. And the unsuspecting florists of Indianapolis were suddenly candidates for the Clevelanders' job. To a man they accepted and since have worked with such zest and coöperation that success could not but be theirs. If there is a secret in its success, it lies in the organization here.

Irwin Bertermann disclaims any great amount of labor. "The boys did it!" he says. Each did his job and did it well. Outside agencies assisted generously. Throughout the state the organization spread. It is not an Indianapolis show; it is an Indiana show.

Everybody Helped.

Appreciating the efforts of the Hoosier florists, the florists elsewhere were ready with exhibits. That seemed for a time the crucial test. Quarantine 37 and the war had handicapped the trade. It was thought the distance to the Atlantic coast would be too great to expect much aid from that section. On the contrary, New England has a strong representation. Cleveland did not quit, though sorely disappointed; some fine exhibits from Ohio are to be seen. Indeed, one cannot do better than repeat the message of Samuel S. Pennock, president of the Society of American Florists, and of George Asmus, chairman of the national flower show committee, who came to the writer to say: "Tell the florists, when you write of the show, that we, as representing the management, appreciate highly and are grateful for the hearty response of the exhibitors to our calls for support."

Exhibition Hall.

The exhibition hall is an excellent one, spacious and without obstructions to the view, the sunken center area lending itself admirably to the staging of flower displays. Said one: "If we could only transport this to New York, what a treat we'd give the visitors to the international shows there!" It was thought the distance—half an hour on the trolley—from the center of town would curtail the attendance. The figures showed, however, that the visitors the opening day numbered twice those the first day of the highly successful automobile show. Sunday brought a day-long drizzle, yet the hall was crowded. The sight thrilled those in charge; attendance was assured.

Unfortunately, the purely trade displays could not be accommodated in the main building, the Manufacturers' building at the state fair grounds. The Woman's building was used for these. This was a hundred yards' farther walk past the exhibition hall. Some feared the florists would never get to it; the majority were glad to be free of the public. Of course, those who wished to bring their products to the public's notice occupied space in the Manufacturers' building, the side wall space being reserved for them. The sales of exhibition space, the management reported, reached a higher total than those at any previous national show.

The trade attendance is quite good. Exact count is impossible. Even the list of those present cannot be complete, for no register is kept, and the eight days of the show are only half gone when the list in this issue is compiled. Those who are but a few hours' ride away—and a large population is within such distance of Indianapolis—come only for a day at the show and may be unnoticed. But the total number of florists present during the week will reach a considerable figure.

From all viewpoints, therefore, the fifth national flower show is a thorough success!

SEEING THE SHOW.

At the Entrance.

The oblong hall in which the national flower show is staged this week is particularly adapted for this purpose because of the large sunken area in the center, about one-third of the 60,000 feet of floor space. Over the sunken area beautiful vistas are obtained, for there are no obstructions in the hall, save the slender supports at the border of the sunken space. These supports are covered with cedars, which add to the charming effect. Lavender and yellow drops adorn the ceiling at the sides of the hall, while over the sunken area pale green drops are most effective.

At the entrance one sees, to left and right, gardens of bulbous flowers, both staged by Bertermann Bros. Co. In that on the left, as one enters, tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and narcissi form oblong beds and a border to the whole, centering on a large gazing globe. A light background of cedars sets off the blooms well. In the garden to the right tulips border the square and fill round plots about a sundial. The effect is less formal than that of the other garden, but no less attractive.

The edge of the sunken area, at the front, is lined with prize-winning exhibits. Just to the right is F. R. Pierson's prize Cibotium Schiedei, with more than ten feet spread, and about it heaths and bougainvilleas. Farther to the right are A. N. Pierson's prize-winning climbing roses, splendid specimens, and farther, Carl Hagenburger's genistas.

Just to the left of the center is a special display of plants from Anton Schultheis, College Point, N. Y., arranged on a low rockery base. In it are the heaths for which Mr. Schultheis is widely known, and fine spiræas, bougainvilleas, chorizemas, ferns, etc. Still farther to the left are A. N. Pierson's group of six prize-winning climbing roses, with hydrangeas and genistas before them, from Carl Hagenburger, Mentor, O.

Looking Over the Gardens.

Passing these exhibits, one reaches a flight of a few steps, from the top of which an entrancing view is to be had over the sunken area. Looking down the center aisle, one sees, first, A. N. Pierson's rose garden, and, behind it, Thomas Roland's wonderful group of acacias, and, still farther, the blue background of the F. T. D. display.

Descending the steps, one finds at his right the special display of A. L. Miller, containing lilies four feet in height, heaths, hydrangeas, genistas, roses, marguerites, etc., all of splendid quality. On either side are prize palms, H. W. Rieman's Areca lutescens and Wiegand's Kentia Forsteriana.

Beyond is the group of A. N. Pierson's flowering and foliage plants, covering 200 square feet, arranged for effect. A good deal of art is evidenced in the arrangements of cibotiums, cro-tons, adiantums, phoenixes, heaths, bougainvilleas, spiræas, pandanus, etc., about a center group of genistas.

Across the aisle is F. R. Pierson's splendid group of ferns in 10-inch or larger pots. These are of surpassing quality and are admired unceasingly by trade and public alike. Among the varieties of nephrolepis shown are aurea, Verona, muscosa, Neubertii, Macawii, superbissima, superior, elegantissima, elegantissima compacta and others.

The Rose Gardens.

Directly before one walking down the center aisle is the rose garden of A. N. Pierson, Inc., which won the $1,000 prize. There were three entries in the class for rose gardens 500 square feet with appropriate accessories. This garden won first. A low white fence is lined, within and without, with climbing roses. A gravel walk leads to the center, where a white arbor, covered with roses, makes a picturesque center.

Separated from this garden by the group of Roland's acacias is the garden that won second place, staged by the State Florists' Association of Indiana. One looks in through a rose-covered gateway on to a gravel walk that leads to a white marble sundial in the center.

Less striking than these two, yet having an appeal to those persons who think of roses as some day occupying a corner of their home grounds, the rose garden of C. Merkel & Sons, West Mentor, O., which took third prize, is to the left of the Indiana exhibit. Rose bushes form a semicircle about a grass plot, in which are planted three splendid, large specimens.

The Center of the Show.

While we are in this spot, the group of acacias brought by Thomas Roland from Nahant, Mass., draws our eyes. There are 102 specimens in the lot, including twenty-four varieties, from the bushy juniperous to the graceful pubescens, from light yellow to the deep goldenrod of heterophylla. The largest specimens are of pubescens, the most generally grown variety. This and A. Baileyana furnish the sprays for cutting. There are none of the latter present, since, being an early variety, it is by this time bloomed out.

These acacias are grouped in circular form about a large brass fountain, lit by colored lights and playing about a slender statue. This was contributed by the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

Down the Right Aisle.

To keep our tour of the exhibition in orderly route, let us return to the front of the sunken area and walk down the right aisle. The first exhibit we see, superb hydrangeas from Lars Anderson, Rocky River, O., is quite worthy the sweepstakes prize awarded it.

Next is the bulb garden of E. E. Temperley, Indianapolis. Over a bank of tulips, hyacinths and daffodils fly white doves guided by white ribbon reins from the hands of a large doll at the back. The arrangement was good and the plants excellent. Some of the judges believed the doves interfered with the proper display of the plants. Otherwise the exhibit would have been in on the prize money.

Craig's Crotons.

A mound of crotons arranged for effect, covering 100 square feet, forms the center of the next group down the aisle. It richly deserved the prize awarded it. Surrounding are other foliage plants from the Philadelphia firm, such as pandanus, dracenas, cibotiums, phoenix, etc. The plants were skillfully arranged by Bertermann Bros. Co.

A group of flowering begonias covering fifty square feet, adjoining, captured first prize for C. H. Schwomeyer.

An extensive planting of bedding plants from Garfield gardens, made by the Indianapolis park board, is well done, and appeals to public as well as to professional taste.

Bulb Gardens.

The first-prize bulb garden of A. Wiegand's Sons Co. is alongside. This covers 500 square feet. A low fence is bordered with beds of tulips. In the center stands an urn filled with the

A group of flowering begonias covering fifty square feet, adjoining, captured first prize for C. H. Schwomeyer.

An extensive planting of bedding plants from Garfield gardens, made by the Indianapolis park board, is well done, and appeals to public as well as to professional taste.

Bulb Gardens.

The first prize bulb garden of A. Wiegand's Sons Co. is alongside. This covers 500 square feet. A low fence is bordered with beds of tulips. In the center stands an urn filled with the same plants, surrounded by a small circular pond, bordered also with tulips. Two oblong beds at the rear are composed of hyacinths. The display was excellently set up and the quality of the stock used was high.

Since it is close, we might skip directly across the hall to the bulb garden of the Wayside Gardens Co., Mentor, O., which took second prize. Narcissi bordered either side and evergreens formed a somber background at the back. Plots of tulips occupied the middle distance and a border in front added to the finish.

Kurume Azaleas.

Resuming our walk down the right aisle, we see next the Kurume azaleas of Henry A. Dreer, Inc. The eleven specimens shown are full of bloom, with large heads, and win much attention. This exhibit received a silver medal.

Bedding plants of a wide variety make up a display made by the Indianapolis Water Co.

Then comes the display of genistas by Wiegand's, and next the six Bougainvillea Crimson Lake of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., which won a silver medal.

Lars Anderson's lilies are splendid. Next them are the Cineraria stellata that captured first prize for the A. Wiegand's Sons Co. Then the same firm's display of flowering and foliage plants arranged for effect, and in the corner the twenty-five pots of lilies which took first prize for Bertermann Bros. Co., tall, fine plants.

Down the Left Aisle.

If we follow the same course down the left aisle, we find, in the front corner, H. W. Rieman's Sons' display of flowering and foliage plants, which captured second prize.

Next is the splendid array of hydrangeas from Wiegand's, magnificent plants, with a huge urn filled with them in the center of the group.

We have noted Merkel's rose garden and the bulb garden of the Wayside Gardens Co. In between is the arch arrangement of roses by A. N. Pierson, which took first prize.

Beyond the Wayside Gardens Co. bulb garden are the prize-winning tulips of the Friedley Co., Cleveland. Then Merkel's splendid genistas.

Adjoining is the 50-foot bulb display which took first prize for the A. Wiegand's Sons Co. Daffodils form the center, while about them are pink and red tulips, and a border is formed by blue, white and blush hyacinths.

Bertermann Bros. Co. have a splendid display of foliage and flowering plants back here, grouped about a gazing globe, and in the corner are lilies from the same firm.

F. T. D. Booth.

In the rockeries that form the base of the towering exhibit of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association are arranged various competitive exhibits, including the six Bougainvillea Sanderiana of A. N. Pierson and the cut orchids and the valley pans of Bertermann Bros. Co. Directly in front, a vase of Rose American Legion, from the originator, Edward Towill, Roslyn, Pa., was a center of attention, being much admired by the public.

The F. T. D. display itself was a figure of Mercury on a pillar surmounting a globe against a background of blue. White strings, decorated with rose buds, and legends on the background were intended to typify telegraph service. Models of flower stores, telegraph wires and delivery cars in the foreground, as illustrating delivery of flowers by wire, aroused the curiosity of the visitors. Behind and beneath this monumental display were the association's headquarters, where messages might be telegraphed.

At Right of Hall.

Ascending from the sunken area, we shall start at the front and go down the right side of the hall. Along the wall are trade displays which are described in another place. A broad aisle separates these from a line of exhibits, which in turn are separated by another wide aisle from those which border on the sunken space.

First we encounter the display of cut blooms made by the E. C. Amling Co., Chicago, which shows the stock regularly received by this firm from its growers. Among the roses are some splendid Premier, Columbia, Ophelia, Mme. Butterfly and Double White Killarney. Carnations, snapdragons and daffodils fill other vases. On a table near by are smaller flowers and seasonable stock, including pansies, freesias, stocks, marguerites, sweet peas and forget-me-nots. The wide variety and the excellence of the display brought much attention from the public, as well as from retailers and growers present.

Adjoining are some of the competitive classes of miscellaneous cut flowers. In them is excellent stock from a number of Indianapolis firms. The lilies of the Roepke Floral Co., the snapdragons of Baur & Steinkamp, and Temperley's calendulas and callas are particularly fine.

A plot of large specimens of Pandanus Veitchii from the Indianapolis park board separates these cut flowers from a group of primulas and cinerarias from E. H. Rieman, Indianapolis, some of which were among the prize-winners. Ferns and geraniums combined with these, and a background of larger foliage plants set off the whole to the best advantage.

The group of foliage and flowering plants which came next is the only one staged by a private grower in the hall. Mrs. Hugh McK. Landon, one of the warm supporters of the undertaking, shows pot roses, ferns, bulbous plants, etc.

Farther back are the primulas, begonias and callas of E. E. Temperley, which took prizes. Other plants are mixed to give the desired ornamental effect.

Retailers' Exhibits.

Turning to the right and coming back along the row which stands midway between the sunken area and the trade exhibits along the wall, one finds chiefly retailers' displays, put up for the purpose of interesting the public.

Farthest back is that of the Pahud Floral Co., composed of a basket of cinerarias in the center, with daffodils, tulips, hyacinths and ferns along the front, and lilies and calendulas among the ferns and blooms at the rear.

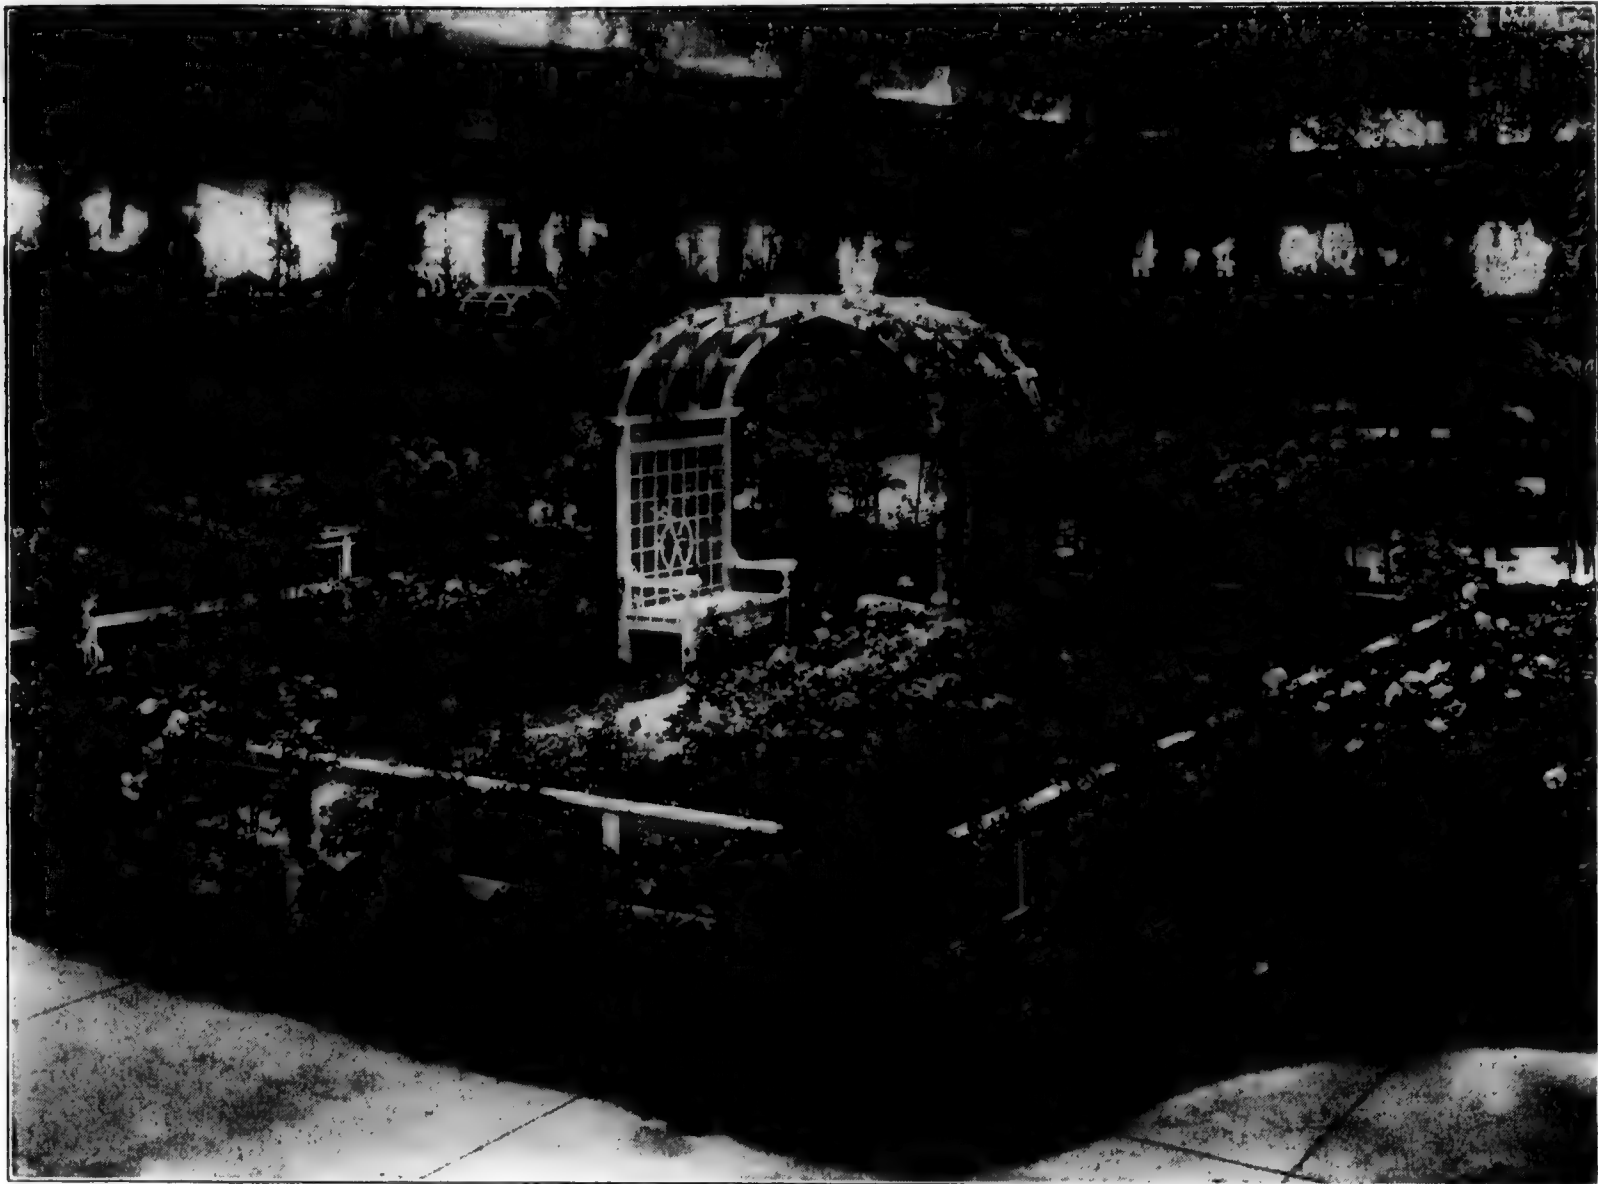

An urn made of carnations, a white body with a pink neck, was decorated with cattleyas and filled with roses by George R. Gause, Richmond, Ind. A spray of roses at the base and trimmings of smilax add to the effect, which the visiting public found reason to exclaim over.

John Heidenreich has filled a square space with cinerarias of all colors, about 100 in all. The plants show excellent culture.

In the exhibit of the Roepke Floral

Prize-Winning Lilies of Bertermann Bros. Co. Made an Effective Group.

Rose Garden of A. N. Pierson, Inc., Which Took First Prize at Indianapolis, and Roland's Acacias Behind It.

Co., big pans of white hyacinths make a striking feature. Baskets of sweet peas and tulips are well arranged. Kentias, araucarias, crotons and phoenix give background to the display.

An arbor decorated to form an indoor garden by the Circle Floral Shop, Indianapolis, is unusual. White rose plants at the corner columns and white furniture, on which stand baskets of lilacs, roses and daffodils, with smilax festooned over all, create an effect that brings much attention.

The remaining exhibit in the row is that of M. Brandlein, Indianapolis. This space is lined with small pots of pandanus, with larger specimens at the corners. Ferns in urns and baskets of cut flowers occupy the space, with some specimens of excellent cinerarias prominent.

To the Left.

As one starts down the space at the left of the hall, the display of cut flowers from members of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association catches the eye. It is a profuse arrangement of the chief items of stock to be found in a wholesale cut flower house at this time of year. There are roses, carnations, valley, sweet peas, calendulas, stocks, daffodils, Narcissus poeticus, snapdragons, daisies, lilies and delphinium. The variety of the array interests many persons.

Across the aisle are vases of cut flowers sent from Philadelphia from the S. S. Pennock Co., which show the high quality of the roses grown for that market.

Adjacent are two vases of Solanum jasminoides, from W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., a flower which the exhibitor believes will be valuable to retailers who grow their own stock.

A big vase of the rose Frank W. Dunlop, from John H. Dunlop & Son, Richmond Hill, Ont., was examined closely by the rose growers at the show Monday. A yellow sport of Ophelia, carrying big blooms, was also viewed with much interest.

Farther down the aisle is a square space filled with hybrid tea roses and hybrid perpetual roses in pots, from the Daisy Hill Farms, Chagrin Falls, O., an interesting exhibit, the components of which took a couple of prizes.

The hydrangeas of Lars Anderson, Rocky River, O., are a splendid sight. Some of them stand here. Mr. Anderson exhibits so many hydrangeas that they are to be found in many parts of the hall. It might be noted that he took first prize in every class offered for them, numbering four, while the plants of A. Wiegand's Sons Co. were close rivals, taking second in every class.

Farther down this aisle are competitive exhibits of various kinds, such as azaleas, forsythias, ramblers, hyacinths, cinerarias, daffodils, etc., from Bertermann Bros. Co., Indianapolis, and the Friedley Co., Cleveland, whose high quality is better indicated by their representation in the list of awards than by description here.

More Retailers' Exhibits.

The center row of exhibits, as on the far side of the hall, is chiefly of local retailers' exhibits. If we come back along this row, we encounter first that of E. E. Temperley, which is well composed of baskets of mixed flowers, ferns and raffia furniture.

Next is a charming arrangement of baskets, chiefly of roses, but also of other flowers, which are lit by standard lamps. This is by A. Wiegand's Sons Co. Cibotiums furnish a graceful background.

The display of H. W. Rieman's Sons centers about a fountain in a rockery. Bulbous plants and baskets of cut flowers, and pots of marguerites, azaleas and cinerarias are so combined as to produce an effect most attractive.

A marble table surmounted by a huge bowl of American Beauty roses makes the display of Bertermann Bros. Co. an exceedingly striking one. Baskets of valley and orchids heighten the effect. The space is covered with adiantums, which, with cibotiums at the back, produce an effective setting.

At the front of the row is the exhibit of the Marer Flower Shop, Indianapolis, which contains attractive arrangements in baskets.

OPENING DAY AWARDS.

The awards made the opening day of the show covered the rose and bulb same plants, surrounded by a small circular pond, bordered also with tulips. Two oblong beds at the rear are composed of hyacinths. The display was excellently set up and the quality of the stock used was high.

Since it is close, we might skip directly across the hall to the bulb garden of the Wayside Gardens Co., Mentor, O., which took second prize. Narcissi bordered either side and evergreens formed a somber background at the back. Plots of tulips occupied the middle distance and a border in front added to the finish.

Kurume Azaleas.

Resuming our walk down the right aisle, we see next the Kurume azaleas of Henry A. Dreer, Inc. The eleven specimens shown are full of bloom, with large heads, and win much attention. This exhibit received a silver medal.

Bedding plants of a wide variety make up a display made by the Indianapolis Water Co.

Then comes the display of genistas by Wiegand's, and next the six Bougainvillea Crimson Lake of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., which won a silver medal.

Lars Anderson's lilies are splendid. Next them are the Cineraria stellata that captured first prize for the A. Wiegand's Sons Co. Then the same firm's display of flowering and foliage plants arranged for effect, and in the corner the twenty-five pots of lilies which took first prize for Bertermann Bros. Co., tall, fine plants.

Down the Left Aisle.

If we follow the same course down the left aisle, we find, in the front corner, H. W. Rieman's Sons' display of flowering and foliage plants, which captured second prize.

Next is the splendid array of hydrangeas from Wiegand's, magnificent plants, with a huge urn filled with them in the center of the group.

We have noted Merkel's rose garden and the bulb garden of the Wayside Gardens Co. In between is the arch arrangement of roses by A. N. Pierson, which took first prize.

Beyond the Wayside Gardens Co. bulb garden are the prize-winning tulips of the Friedley Co., Cleveland. Then Merkel's splendid genistas.

Adjoining is the 50-foot bulb display which took first prize for the A. Wiegand's Sons Co. Daffodils form the center, while about them are pink and red tulips, and a border is formed by blue, white and blush hyacinths.

Bertermann Bros. Co. have a splendid display of foliage and flowering plants back here, grouped about a gazing globe, and in the corner are lilies from the same firm.

F. T. D. Booth.

In the rockeries that form the base of the towering exhibit of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association are arranged various competitive exhibits, including the six Bougainvillea Sanderiana of A. N. Pierson and the cut orchids and the valley pans of Bertermann Bros. Co. Directly in front, a vase of Rose American Legion, from the originator, Edward Towill, Roslyn, Pa., was a center of attention, being much admired by the public.

The F. T. D. display itself was a figure of Mercury on a pillar surmounting a globe against a background of blue. White strings, decorated with rose buds, and legends on the background were intended to typify telegraph service. Models of flower stores, telegraph wires and delivery cars in the foreground, as illustrating delivery of flowers by wire, aroused the curiosity of the visitors. Behind and beneath this monumental display were the association's headquarters, where messages might be telegraphed.

At Right of Hall.

Ascending from the sunken area, we shall start at the front and go down the right side of the hall. Along the wall are trade displays which are described in another place. A broad aisle separates these from a line of exhibits, which in turn are separated by another wide aisle from those which border on the sunken space.

First we encounter the display of cut blooms made by the E. C. Amling Co., Chicago, which shows the stock regularly received by this firm from its growers. Among the roses are some splendid Premier, Columbia, Ophelia, Mme. Butterfly and Double White Killarney. Carnations, snapdragons and daffodils fill other vases. On a table near by are smaller flowers and seasonable stock, including pansies, freesias, stocks, marguerites, sweet peas and forget-me-nots. The wide variety and the excellence of the display brought much attention from the public, as well as from retailers and growers present.

Adjoining are some of the competitive classes of miscellaneous cut flowers. In them is excellent stock from a number of Indianapolis firms. The lilies of the Roepke Floral Co., the snapdragons of Baur & Steinkamp, and Temperley's calendulas and callas are particularly fine.

A plot of large specimens of Pandanus Veitchii from the Indianapolis park board separates these cut flowers from a group of primulas and cinerarias from E. H. Rieman, Indianapolis, some of which were among the prize-winners. Ferns and geraniums combined with these, and a background of larger foliage plants set off the whole to the best advantage.

The group of foliage and flowering plants which came next is the only one staged by a private grower in the hall. Mrs. Hugh McK. Landon, one of the warm supporters of the undertaking, shows pot roses, ferns, bulbous plants, etc.

Farther back are the primulas, begonias and callas of E. E. Temperley, which took prizes. Other plants are mixed to give the desired ornamental effect.

Retailers' Exhibits.

Turning to the right and coming back along the row which stands midway between the sunken area and the trade exhibits along the wall, one finds chiefly retailers' displays, put up for the purpose of interesting the public.

Farthest back is that of the Pahud Floral Co., composed of a basket of cinerarias in the center, with daffodils, tulips, hyacinths and ferns along the front, and lilies and calendulas among the ferns and blooms at the rear.

An urn made of carnations, a white body with a pink neck, was decorated with cattleyas and filled with roses by George R. Gause, Richmond, Ind. A spray of roses at the base and trimmings of smilax add to the effect, which the visiting public found reason to exclaim over.

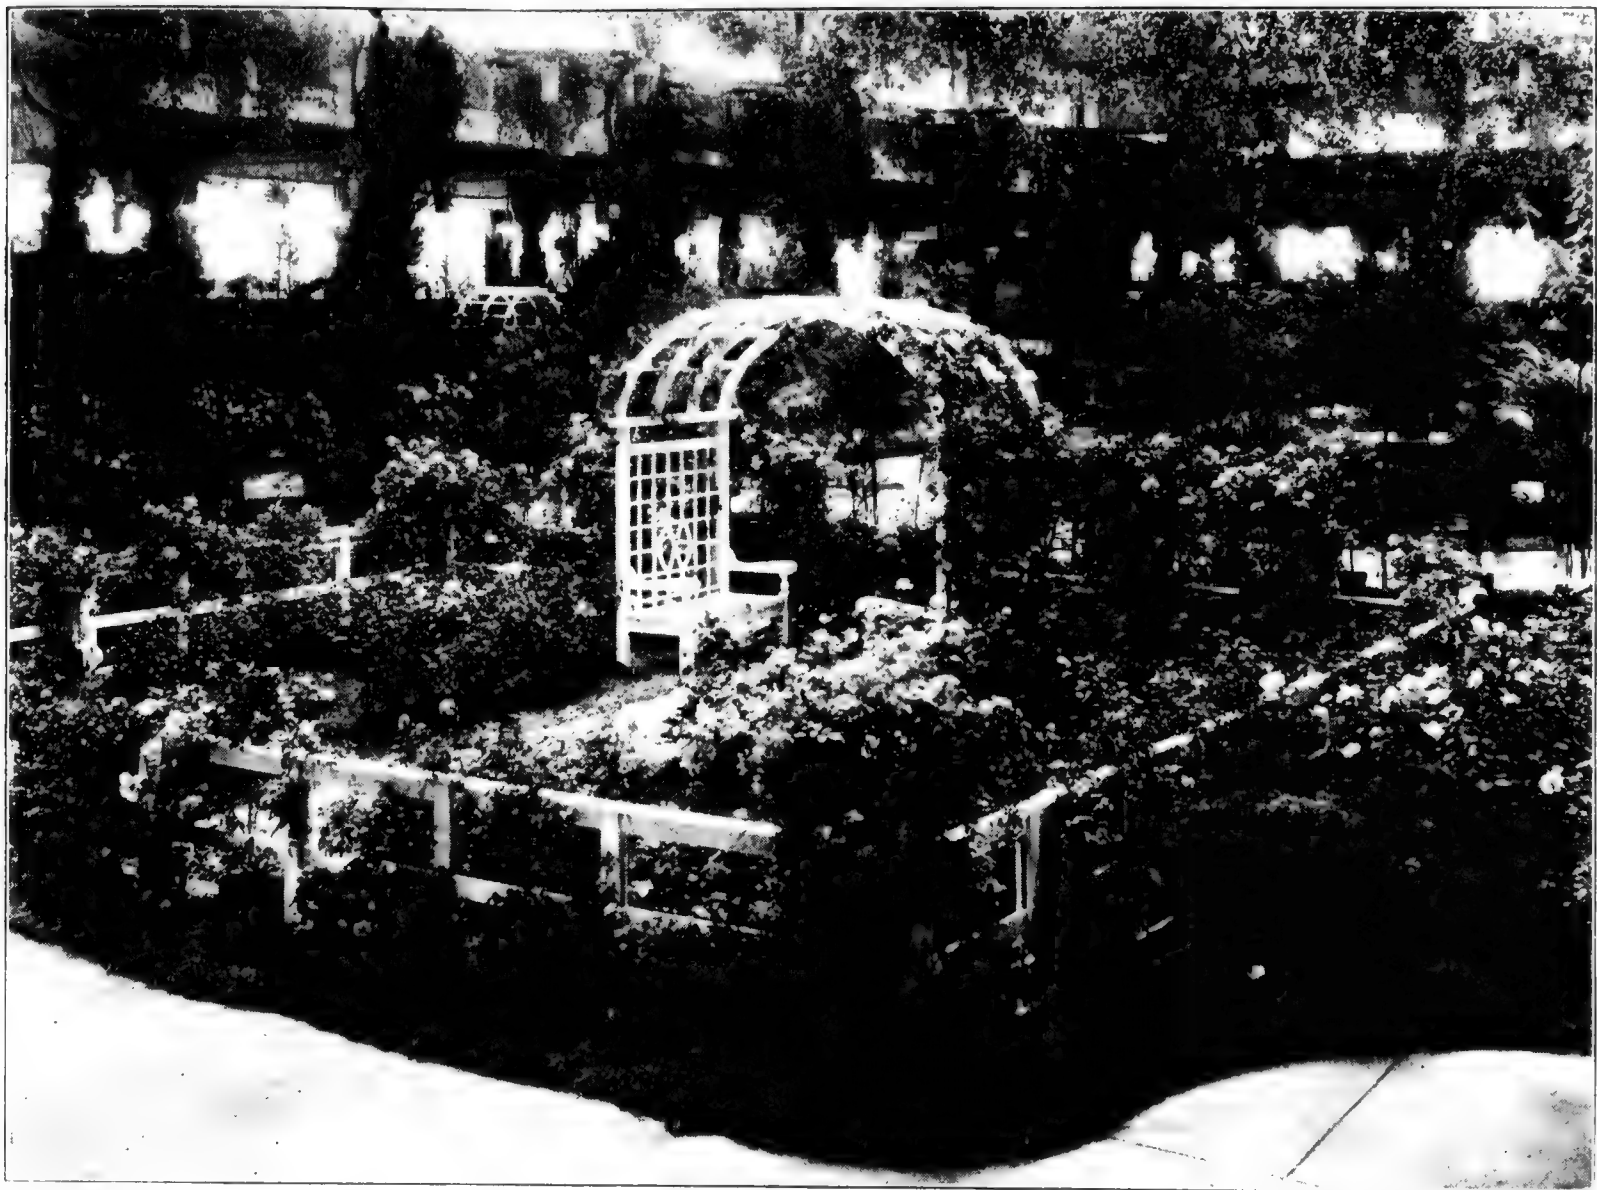

John Heidenreich has filled a square space with cinerarias of all colors, about 100 in all. The plants show excellent culture.

In the exhibit of the Roepke Floral

ROSE DAY.

Amplly Celebrated.

Monday, March 27, was celebrated at the Indianapolis show both as Chicago day and rose day. The interest in the trade's most staple flower was, of course, great and it waxed greater at the sight of the blooms put in competition. There were disappointments: The roses from A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., failed to arrive on Monday at all; it was the more lamentable because the stock had been late for the New York show and was expected to be at its finest for Indianapolis. The blooms of the Florex Gardens Co., North Wales, Pa., and of John Andre, Doylestown, Pa., did not arrive until the judging was nearly completed. This was a disappointment not only to those who sent the roses, but also to other rose growers, who wished to see these products of the east in competition with those of the west. There was, however, enough representation from the Atlantic coast states to give those who so desired a chance to compare the output of the growers in the two parts of the country, and those who saw the roses from the Joseph Heacock Co., Myers & Samtman, John Welsh Young, F. R. Pierson and the Bedford Floral Co. were willing to give the growers of that part of the country due credit for their showing.

The first prizes for vases of 100 went to different exhibitors with one exception—the Joseph H. Hill Co. took first for both Columbia and Mme. Butterfly. The Russell from Poehlmann Bros. Co., Hadley from the Joseph Heacock Co., and Francis Scott Key from F. R. Pierson were superb. Nor could any less adjective be used to describe the varieties of Hill originations which the two firms from Richmond of this name displayed. Double White Killarney showed up wherever a white was to be displayed, and its preëminence was not contested. Excellent stock of this variety came from the Bedford Floral Co., Bedford Hills, N. Y., the Joseph H. Hill Co. and John H. Dunlop & Son. Gude Bros. Co. took the prize on its specialty, American Beauty, which showed how well this one-time leader could still be grown. The Ophelia of the Joseph Heacock Co. and John Welsh Young made one visitor remark that if we could all do as well with that variety we shouldn't need Butterfly so much as we do. Hoosier Beauty was shown at its finest by Anders Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind.

New Varieties.

Several new varieties were presented for inspection. Hill's America aroused no little interest, and its already established reputation as a remarkable rose was augmented. The silver medal of the American Rose Society was awarded it. The same honor went also to Celestial, from Myers & Samtman. Celestial is a light pink with full petalage, which gives the impression that it has Premier blood. The latter variety took the Michell gold medal for twelve blooms of any rose not disseminated, while Hill's America took the silver medal.

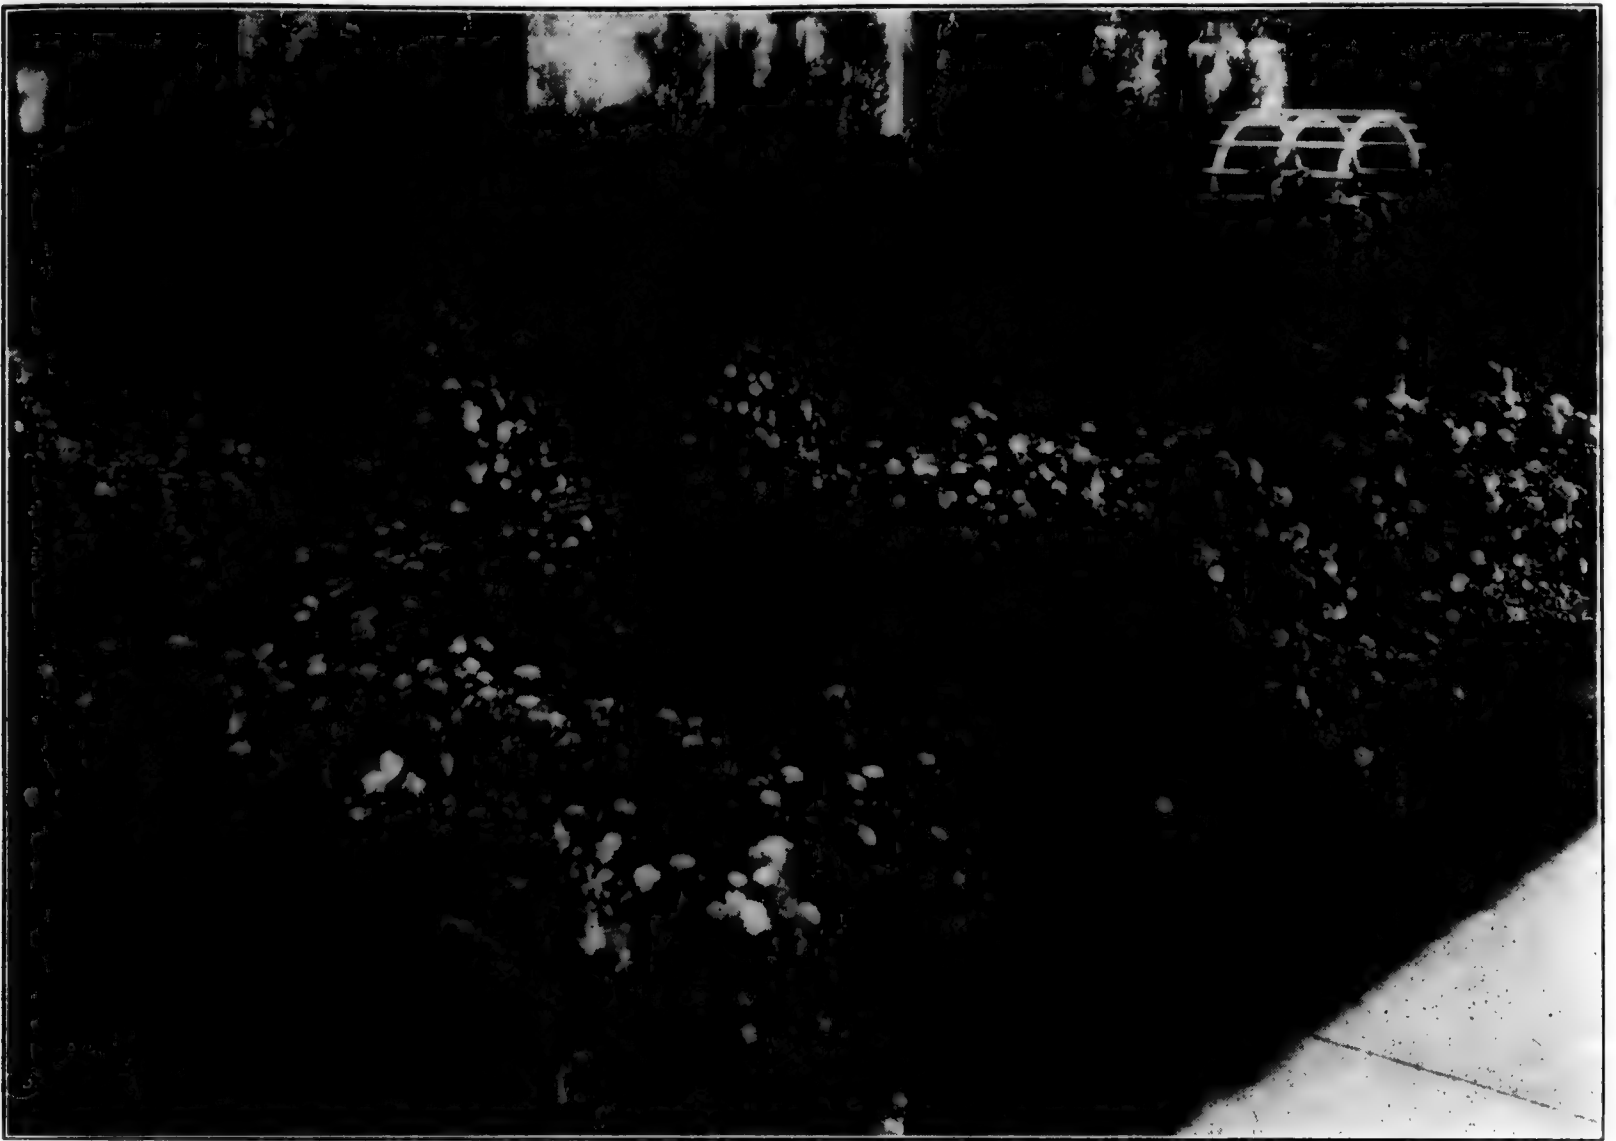

Seedling No. 9199 from the Montgomery Co., Hadley, Mass., was scrutinized by those who watch for the best in novelties. It has a large, full bloom and is deep pink in color, like Premier at its darkest.

Two roses were shown by the Stuppy Floral Co., St. Joseph, Mo. One was a Portland origination and the other the firm's own sport of Columbia, which created some favorable comment.

A vase of American Legion from Myers & Samtman, which was placed in the exhibition hall on the opening day of the show, drew the notice of florists on rose day. This origination of Edward Towill appears to be gaining favor in the east.

The Awards.

The awards in the cut rose classes Monday were as follows:

Rose Garden of C. Merkel & Sons, Less Formal than the Others, and A. N. Pierson's Arch of Roses at Right.

One hundred Mrs. Charles Russell—Poehlmann Bros. Co., Morton Grove, Ill., first.
One hundred Hadley—Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa., first.
One hundred Francis Scott Key—F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y., first.
One hundred Columbia—Joseph H. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.

One hundred Premier—E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.
One hundred Mme. Butterfly—Joseph H. Hill Co., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.
One hundred any disseminated white—Bedford Floral Co., Bedford Hills, N. Y., on Double White Killarney.

One hundred red—Anders Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind., on Hoosier Beauty.
Fifty American Beauty—Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C., first; Myers & Samtman, Philadelphia, Pa., second.

Fifty Francis Scott Key—F. R. Pierson, first.
Fifty Columbia—Joseph Heacock Co., first; F. R. Pierson, second.

Fifty Premier—Joseph H. Hill Co., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.

Fifty Mme. Butterfly—Joseph Heacock Co., first; E. G. Hill Co., second.

Fifty Crusader—Joseph Heacock Co., first; Bedford Floral Co., second.

Any disseminated white—Joseph H. Hill Co., first, on Double White Killarney; John H. Dunlop & Son, Richmond Hill, Ont., second, on Double White Killarney.

Fifty Ophelia—Joseph Heacock Co., first; John Welsh Young, Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa., second.

Fifty Pilgrim—Joseph Heacock Co., first; John Welsh Young, second.

Fifty Milady—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first.

Fifty Sunburst—Florex Gardens, first.

Fifty any disseminated red—Myers & Samtman, first; Anders Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind., second.

Fifty any disseminated yellow—Joseph H. Hill Co., first, on Golden Ophelia; Florex Gardens, second, on Citronella.

Fifty any disseminated pink—Joseph H. Hill Co., first, on Premier; John H. Dunlop & Son, second.

Twenty-five Premier—Joseph H. Hill Co., first.
Twenty-five Mme. Butterfly—Joseph H. Hill Co., first.

Twenty-five any disseminated white—Joseph Heacock Co., first; John H. Dunlop & Son, second, both on Double White Killarney.

Twenty-five Columbia—Joseph H. Hill Co., first; Bedford Floral Co., second.

Twenty-five Ophelia—John Welsh Young, first; Florex Gardens, second.

Twenty-five any disseminated yellow—Joseph H. Hill Co., first, on Golden Ophelia.

Twenty-five any other disseminated red—Anders Rasmussen, first.

Twenty-five any other disseminated pink—John Welsh Young, first, on Pilgrim; J. F. Ammann Co., Edwardsville, Ill., second, on Russell.

Twenty-five blooms each of recent introductions, Columbia, Premier and Mme. Butterfly—Joseph H. Hill Co., first.

Twelve any rose not disseminated—Myers & Samtman, first, on Celestial; E. G. Hill Co., second, on America.

Other Monday Awards.

The prize offered for the best bride's bouquet by a member of the Ladies' S. A. F. drew three contestants, Miss Amelia Gude, Mrs. Louise Pahud Asperger and Miss M. C. Gunterberg. Miss Gude won the prize.

Other awards made on Monday were as follows:

Best table decoration by a member of the Ladies' S. A. F.—Mrs. B. Hammond Tracy, Wrenham, Mass., first.

Six tumbler baskets, filled with any variety of flower, or combination, with the following exceptions: Only one basket to contain lily of the valley alone, or in combination, and orchids may be used only in one basket or combination—Fred H. Lemon & Co., first; Bertermann Bros. Co., second; A. Wiegand's Sons Co., third.

Best basket of spring flowers—Fred H. Lemon & Co., first; A. Wiegand's Sons Co., second.

Best basket of mixed flowers—Bertermann Bros. Co., first.

A splendid vase of Delphinium Belladonna was set up by Bertermann Bros. Co. The long spikes, covered with uniform, large florets, indicated the possibilities of this as a forced flower. At the same time a basket of mixed snapdragons was arranged, a beautiful sight. Both received honorable mention, since no class accommodated them.

Not in competition, the baskets arranged by J. T. Turner, who conducts the Pansy Greenhouses, at Rushville, Ind., did not for that reason lack interest to the public. The baskets were composed of roses, carnations and daffodils, neatly trimmed with ribbon.

CARNATION AWARDS.

Tuesday, March 28, was carnation day. The "big three" from New England—C. S. Strout, S. J. Goddard and W. D. Howard—were present with a strong showing of their favorite varieties. The western growers, nearer home, gave them a strong race. W. A. Rowe captured first prize in the class for 100 Laddie, S. J. Goddard taking second place. The awards of the judges were as follows:

One hundred blooms, any undissected variety, shown in one vase—Hartje & Elder, Indianapolis, Ind., first; A. Jablonsky, Olivette, Mo., second, on Betty Jane; F. Dorner & Sons Co., Lafayette, Ind., third.

One hundred blooms Laddie, shown in one vase—W. A. Rowe, Kirkwood, Mo., first; Samuel J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass., second.

Fifty blooms Laddie, shown in one vase—Samuel J. Goddard, first; W. Frank & Sons, Portland, Ind., second.

One hundred blooms, one variety, white, shown in one vase—Strout's, Inc., Biddeford, Me., first, on White Delight; Poehlmann Bros. Co., Morton Grove, Ill., second, on Matchless.

One hundred blooms, one variety, flesh pink, Laddie barred—W. D. Howard, Milford, Mass., first, on Cottage Maid; W. D. Howard, second, on Pink Delight.

One hundred blooms, one variety, light pink, not lighter than Gloriosa nor darker than Winsor—Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, Ind., first, on Ruth Baur.

One hundred blooms, one variety, medium pink, darker than Winsor and not darker than Mrs. C. W. Ward—Bertermann Bros. Co., first, on Mrs. C. W. Ward; W. D. Howard, second, on Mrs. C. W. Ward.

One hundred blooms, one variety, dark pink, darker than Mrs. C. W. Ward and including all gardens, the foliage and flowering plants and some miscellaneous cut flower classes. These have been described in the tour of the hall. The awards as reported by the judges follow:

ROSES IN POTS AND TUBS.

Callas, twelve flowers, white—E. E. Temperley, first; Fred E. Holland, Highland, Ill., second.

Only two awards were made in the private growers' classes: First prize for three heliotropes went to Misses Belle and Prudence Sheridan, Wiloughby, O., and first prize for Kentia Forsteriana went to William Kleinheinz, Ogontz, Pa.

CUT FLOWER AWARDS

ROSE DAY.

Amplly Celebrated.

Monday, March 27, was celebrated at the Indianapolis show both as Chicago day and rose day. The interest in the trade's most staple flower was, of course, great and it waxed greater at the sight of the blooms put in competition. There were disappointments: The roses from A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., failed to arrive on Monday at all; it was the more lamentable because the stock had been late for the New York show and was expected to be at its finest for Indianapolis. The blooms of the Florex Gardens Co., North Wales, Pa., and of John Andre, Doylestown, Pa., did not arrive until the judging was nearly completed. This was a disappointment not only to those who sent the roses, but also to other rose growers, who wished to see these products of the east in competition with those of the west. There was, however, enough representation from the Atlantic coast states to give those who so desired a chance to compare the output of the growers in the two parts of the country, and those who saw the roses from the Joseph Heacock Co., Myers & Samtman, John Welsh Young, F. R. Pierson and the Bedford Floral Co. were willing to give the growers of that part of the country due credit for their showing.

The first prizes for vases of 100 went to different exhibitors with one exception—the Joseph H. Hill Co. took first for both Columbia and Mme. Butterfly. The Russell from Pochlmann Bros. Co., Hadley from the Joseph Heacock Co., and Francis Scott Key from F. R. Pierson were superb. Nor could any less adjective be used to describe the varieties of Hill originations which the two firms from Richmond of this name displayed. Double White Killarney showed up wherever a white was to be displayed, and its preëminence was not contested. Excellent stock of this variety came from the Bedford Floral Co., Bedford Hills, N. Y., the Joseph H. Hill Co. and John H. Dunlop & Son. Gude Bros. Co. took the prize on its specialty, American Beauty, which showed how well this one-time leader could still be grown. The Ophelia of the Joseph Heacock Co. and John Welsh Young made one visitor remark that if we could all do as well with that variety we shouldn't need Butterfly so much as we do. Hoosier Beauty was shown at its finest by Anders Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind.

New Varieties.

Several new varieties were presented for inspection. Hill's America aroused no little interest, and its already established reputé as a remarkable rose was augmented. The silver medal of the American Rose Society was awarded it. The same honor went also to Celestial, from Myers & Samtman. Celestial is a light pink with full petalage, which gives the impression that it has Premier blood. The latter variety took the Michell gold medal for twelve blooms of any rose not disseminated, while Hill's America took the silver medal.

Seedling No. 9199 from the Montgomery Co., Hadley, Mass., was scrutinized by those who watch for the best in novelties. It has a large, full bloom and is deep pink in color, like Premier at its darkest.

Two roses were shown by the Stuppy Floral Co., St. Joseph, Mo. One was a Portland origination and the other the firm's own sport of Columbia, which excited some favorable comment.

A vase of American Legion from Myers & Samtman, which was placed in the exhibition hall on the opening day of the show, drew the notice of florists on rose day. This origination of Edward Towill appears to be gaining favor in the east.

The Awards.

The awards in the cut rose classes Monday were as follows:

Rose Garden of C. Merkel & Sons, Less Formal than the Others, and A. N. Pierson's Arch of Roses at Right.

One hundred Hadley—Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa., first.

One hundred Francis Scott Key—F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y., first.

One hundred Columbia—Joseph H. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.

One hundred Premier—E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.

One hundred Mme. Butterfly—Joseph H. Hill Co., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.

One hundred any disseminated white—Bedford Floral Co., Bedford Hills, N. Y., on Double White Killarney.

One hundred red—Anders Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind., on Hoosier Beauty.

Fifty American Beauty—Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C., first; Myers & Santman, Philadelphia, Pa., second.

Fifty Francis Scott Key—F. R. Pierson, first; Fifty Columbia—Joseph Heacock Co., first; F. R. Pierson, second.

Fifty Premier—Joseph H. Hill Co., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.

Fifty Mme. Butterfly—Joseph Heacock Co., first; E. G. Hill Co., second.

Fifty Crusader—Joseph Heacock Co., first; Bedford Floral Co., second.

Any disseminated white—Joseph H. Hill Co., first, on Double White Killarney; John H. Dunlop & Son, Richmond Hill, Ont., second, on Double White Killarney.

Fifty Ophelia—Joseph Heacock Co., first; John Welsh Young, Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa., second.

Fifty Pilgrim—Joseph Heacock Co., first; John Welsh Young, second.

Fifty Milady—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first; Fifty Sunburst—Florex Gardens, first.

Fifty any disseminated red—Myers & Santman, first; Anders Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind., second.

Fifty any disseminated yellow—Joseph H. Hill Co., first, on Golden Ophelia; Florex Gardens, second, on Citronella.

Fifty any disseminated pink—Joseph H. Hill Co., first, on Premier; John H. Dunlop & Son, second.

Twenty-five Premier—Joseph H. Hill Co., first; Twenty-five Mme. Butterfly—Joseph H. Hill Co., first.

Twenty-five any disseminated white—Joseph Heacock Co., first; John H. Dunlop & Son, second, both on Double White Killarney.

Twenty-five Columbia—Joseph H. Hill Co., first; Bedford Floral Co., second.

Twenty-five Ophelia—John Welsh Young, first; Florex Gardens, second.

Twenty-five any disseminated yellow—Joseph H. Hill Co., first, on Golden Ophelia.

Twenty-five any other disseminated red—Anders Rasmussen, first.

Twenty-five any other disseminated pink—John Welsh Young, first, on Pilgrim; J. F. Ammann Co., Edwardsville, Ill., second, on Russell.

Twenty-five blooms each of recent introductions—Columbia, Premier and Mme. Butterfly—Joseph H. Hill Co., first.

Twelve any rose not disseminated—Myers & Santman, first, on Celestial; E. G. Hill Co., second, on America.

Other Monday Awards.

The prize offered for the best bride's bouquet by a member of the Ladies' S. A. F. drew three contestants, Miss Amelia Gude, Mrs. Louise Pahud Asperger and Miss M. C. Gunterberg. Miss Gude won the prize.

Other awards made on Monday were as follows:

Best table decoration by a member of the Ladies' S. A. F. Mrs. B. Hammond Tracy, Wrenham, Mass., first.

Six tumbler baskets, filled with any variety of flower, or combination, with the following exceptions: Only one basket to contain lily of the valley alone, or in combination, and orchids may be used only in one basket or combination—Fred H. Lemon & Co., first; Bertermann Bros. Co., second; A. Wiegand's Sons Co., third.

Best basket of spring flowers—Fred H. Lemon & Co., first; A. Wiegand's Sons Co., second.

Best basket of mixed flowers—Bertermann Bros. Co., first.

A splendid vase of Delphinium Bella donna was set up by Bertermann Bros. Co. The long spikes, covered with uniform, large florets, indicated the possibilities of this as a forced flower. At the same time a basket of mixed snapdragons was arranged, a beautiful sight. Both received honorable mention, since no class accommodated them.

Not in competition, the baskets arranged by J. T. Turner, who conducts the Pansy Greenhouses, at Rushville, Ind., did not for that reason lack interest to the public. The baskets were composed of roses, carnations and daffodils, neatly trimmed with ribbon.

CARNATION AWARDS.

Tuesday, March 28, was carnation day. The "big three" from New England—C. S. Strout, S. J. Goddard and W. D. Howard—were present with a strong showing of their favorite varieties. The western growers, nearer home, gave them a strong race. W. A. Rowe captured first prize in the class for 100 Laddie, S. J. Goddard taking second place. The awards of the judges were as follows:

One hundred blooms, any undissected variety, shown in one vase—Hartje & Elder, Indianapolis, Ind., first; A. Jablonsky, Olivette, Mo., second, on Betty Jane; F. Dörner & Sons Co., Lafayette, Ind., third.

One hundred blooms Laddie, shown in one vase—W. A. Rowe, Kirkwood, Mo., first, Samuel J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass., second.

Fifty blooms Laddie, shown in one vase—Samuel J. Goddard, first; W. Frank & Sons, Portland, Ind., second.

One hundred blooms, one variety, white, shown in one vase—Strout's, Inc., Bideford, Me., first, on White Delight; Poehlmann Bros. Co., Morton Grove, Ill., second, on Matchless.

One hundred blooms, one variety, flesh pink, Laddie barred—W. D. Howard, Milford, Mass., first, on Cottage Maid; W. D. Howard, second, on Pink Delight.

One hundred blooms, one variety, light pink, not lighter than Gloriosa nor darker than Winsor—Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, Ind., first, on Ruth Baur.

One hundred blooms, one variety, medium pink, darker than Winsor and not darker than Mrs. C. W. Ward—Bertermann Bros. Co., first, on Mrs. C. W. Ward; W. D. Howard, second, on Mrs. C. W. Ward.

One hundred blooms, one variety, dark pink, darker than Mrs. C. W. Ward and including all

so-called cerise not dark enough to be classed as red—Samuel J. Goddard, first, on Rosalia; F. Dorner & Sons Co., second, on Rosalia.

One hundred blooms, one variety, red or scarlet, including all varieties generally included in those colors—Baur & Steinkamp, first, on Red Rosalia; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second, on Belle Washburn.

One hundred blooms, yellow or yellow variegated—Strout's, Inc., first, on Maine Sunshine. One hundred blooms, one variety, flaked—Strout's, Inc., first, on Rosalind.

Fifty blooms, one variety, white—Woodlawn Gardens, Edwardsville, Ill., first, on White Enchantress; C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee, Wis., second, on white sport of Mrs. C. W. Ward.

Fifty blooms, one variety, flesh pink—Woodlawn Gardens, first, on Enchantress Supreme; A. Jablonsky, second, on Enchantress Supreme.

Fifty blooms, one variety, medium pink—C. C. Pollworth Co., first, on Mrs. C. W. Ward; W. D. Howard, second, on Mrs. C. W. Ward.

Fifty blooms, one variety, dark pink—Baur & Steinkamp, first, on Rosalia; John Steidle, Clayton, Mo., second, on Valentine.

Fifty blooms, one variety, red or scarlet—Baur & Steinkamp, first, on Red Rosalia; C. C. Pollworth Co., second, on Belle Washburn.

Fifty blooms, one variety, crimson—Richmond Greenhouse Co., Richmond, Ind., first, on Topsy; W. D. Howard, second, on Bernice.

Fifty blooms, one variety, yellow or yellow variegated—Strout's, Inc., first, on Maine Sunshine.

Fifty blooms, one variety, white variegated—Richmond Greenhouse Co., first, on Benora; C. C. Pollworth Co., second, on sport of Mrs. C. W. Ward.

Fifty blooms, one variety, flaked—Strout's, Inc., first, on Rosalind. Twelve carnation blooms—Hartje & Elder, first, on Laddie.

WEDNESDAY'S AWARDS.

The class for the best display of cut roses, covering 300 square feet, staged Wednesday, March 29, produced some fine exhibits. First prize was taken by A. N. Pierson, Inc., twelve varieties being shown. Second prize went to Fred H. Lemon & Co., who exhibited seven varieties. Third prize was won by Poehlmann Bros. Co., with a display including ten varieties.

The sweet pea classes were staged

Wednesday, March 29. First prize in the two classes calling for a display covering 100 square feet was captured by the W. Atlee Burpee Co., Philadelphia. Philip J. Goebel, Jr., of Webster Groves, Mo., was a strong prize-winner. The awards of the judges were as follows:

Fifty sprays pink and white—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., Webster Groves, Mo., first.

Fifty sprays white—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first; O. C. May, Sappington, Mo., second; Viewegh & Kiefer, Indianapolis, third.

Fifty sprays deep pink or rose—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first; O. C. May, second; Roepke Floral Co., Indianapolis, third.

Fifty sprays light pink—Hartje & Elder, Indianapolis, first; Fred N. Ross, Greenwood, Ind., second; Roepke Floral Co., third.

Fifty sprays blue or purple—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

Fifty sprays red or crimson—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first; O. C. May, second.

Fifty sprays lavender—Philip J. Goebel, first; Viewegh & Kiefer, second.

Fifty sprays orange or deep salmon—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first; O. C. May, second; Viewegh & Kiefer, third.

Fifty sprays any other color—Fred N. Ross, first.

Vase of 100 sprays, combination of two or more colors, arranged for effect with sweet pea or other foliage—Viewegh & Kiefer, first; Roepke Floral Co., second; Fred N. Ross, third.

Display of sweet peas covering 100 square feet, quality and effective arrangement to count, foliage plants and any foliage allowed—W. Atlee Burpee Co., first, showing fifty varieties; Peter Welland, Newcastle, Ind., second, showing thirty-two varieties.

Display of sweet peas covering 100 square feet, arranged for effect, green of any kind, including plants, permitted—W. Atlee Burpee Co., first.

One hundred sprays bicolor—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

One hundred sprays blue or purple—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

One hundred sprays red or crimson—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

One hundred sprays light lavender—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

J. W. Smith, Greenwich, Conn., took the first prizes in the three classes for sweet peas from private growers.

a well regulated quarantine. Those present were Prof. A. S. Thurston, Prof. H. B. Dorner, Prof. V. Reis, Prof. A. C. Hottes, Prof. A. H. Nehrling, Prof. E. J. Wilde, Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer and Dr. A. C. Beal.

The annual excursion of the floriculture students at the University of Illinois had the national flower show as its destination this year. Prof. H. B. Dorner and S. W. Hall had a dozen students under their guidance.

Homer Wiegand entertained visiting Kiwanis florists at luncheon at the Claypool hotel Wednesday, March 29.

Baskets of flowers were sent to the mayors of principal cities and to President Harding in the name of the mayor of Indianapolis on the opening day of the show. Philips Bros., Newark, N. J., reproduced the telegram carrying the order for Newark's mayor as an advertisement in the local newspaper. Much publicity was gained for the show by these floral messages.

On the opening day of the show, the Indianapolis Star appeared with a special flower show section of fourteen pages, in which florists were liberal advertisers.

The cut flower display of the E. C. Amling Co., Chicago, occasioned a lengthy story regarding the great central flower market in the flower show special of the Indianapolis Star. George Mohn gave the reporter plenty of information, though the latter did not in every place quote Mr. Mohn correctly.

Among the few Pacific coast florists present was Frank L. Morris, now of Santa Ana, Cal., but formerly of the Hoosier state. He met many old friends, who thought the rejuvenating influence of the Golden State climate was to be seen.

Coming from the New York show to Indianapolis, A. Herrington was enthusiastic over the superior facilities for exhibition purposes of the building which houses the national show. Not only did he find it easy to lay out a pleasing plan, but the concrete floor, permitting trucks to bring soil and exhibits to the spot where they were to be placed and allowing ample watering, pleased the exhibitors immensely.

Attendance the opening day was double that of the first day of the recent automobile show at Indianapolis. Sunday brought a crowd despite rain. Monday evening one had to fight his way unless he drifted with the crowd, guided by a corps of husky police. The public seemed progressively interested.

Every effort had been made by the Indianapolis florists to insure a large public attendance. The automobile route from downtown to the show was marked by pine trees tied to the lamp posts and arrows pointing "To the Flower Show." At the fair grounds the walk to the two buildings used was bordered on either side with southern pines.

S. A. F. DIRECTORS MEET.

The S. A. F. executive board held a meeting at Indianapolis March 27, when the usual volume of routine business

SIDE SHOWS

A meeting of the national publicity committee was held Monday morning, March 27, to vote appropriation for further advertising in the magazines contracted for.

Easterners remarked that whereas the New York show the week before was primarily a private growers' exhibition, they were conspicuous by their absence at Indianapolis. Less than half a dozen amateurs competed.

A conference of the officers of the Illinois State Florists' Association during the show resulted in the decision to hold a fall flower show at Danville next November. It will open a big new armory in Uncle Joe Cannon's town.

One of the few exhibits from the Pacific coast was that of the Holden Floral Co., Portland, Ore., a vase of Laddie carnations, in excellent condition after their long journey.

Flowers were not quite the whole show. The alligators of A. Wiegand's Sons Co., the aquaria of the state board of conservation, the goldfish from the Grassfork Fisheries, at Martinsville, Ind., and the collection of dried butterflies assisted.

A basket of white carnations, grown by M. Leider, Des Plaines, Ill., was exhibited by Peter Reinberg, Inc., Chicago.

Vases of carnations, Thomas C. Joy and Natalie, took places beside those of Betty Jane on the various brokers' desks when Harold Joy arrived from Nashville, Tenn., Monday morning. He reports the large sales of cuttings in a pleased tone.

An exhibit from a distance was that of hydrangeas from J. J. Le Borious, Duluth, Minn.

The national publicity committee occupied space in a corner of the hall to show the magazine advertising now being done and to accept pledges and contributions towards the campaign. Receipts were not heavy.

The official catalogue of the show, which sold for 15 cents, was an attractive booklet of 112 pages and colored cover. Articles on flower culture were contributed by C. H. Totty, I. S. Hendrickson, J. H. Pepper and Arthur Herrington.

The college florists' section of the S. A. F. held a meeting Wednesday morning, March 29, at the Indianapolis show. A good proportion of the members of the section were in attendance. The meeting went on record as indorsing was transacted. The absentees were few; the names of nearly all the members of the board will be found under the list of those present at the Indianapolis show. An early session was held in the morning, when officers' reports were heard, and another on the evening of the same day, when routine matters were discussed.

ROSE SOCIETY MEETING.

Too many specimens of the rosarians' skill were to be looked at on the floor below to admit of a large attendance at the annual meeting of the American Rose Society in the Manufacturers' building at Indianapolis. The few there listened to the officers' reports, discussed some important matters and adjourned to a subsequent annual meeting to be called by the executive board later in the year.

It was voted to elect as honorary life member Dr. Robert Huey, M. Pernet-Ducher, Courtney Page, secretary of the British Rose Society; Charles Siret, secretary of the French Society of Rosarians, and Mrs. Aaron Ward.

A memorial medal to perpetuate the memory of Dr. Van Fleet was discussed and the project referred to the executive board.

The members are to be polled as to the time of holding the deferred Portland rose pilgrimage.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION.

A show such as is staged here in Indianapolis, wonderful in every way, with exhibits from near and far, small and large, every kind of flowers known to horticulture, would not have been possible had we not had the loyal and unselfish support of so many growers, trade exhibitors and the Cleveland and Indianapolis florists, who realized that to make the show a success they must exert every effort to exhibit, and that is what they did and most splendidly they came across, giving us the finest show ever staged as the national flower show.

On behalf of the national flower show management, I want to express through the trade press the warmest thanks and appreciation for this splendid backing.

S. S. Pennock, Pres. S. A. F.

FLOWER SHOW JUDGES.

Judges of the plant and garden displays and other exhibits staged the opening day of the Indianapolis flower show were the following:

George Gause, Richmond, Ind.
J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill.
Fred H. Lemon, Richmond, Ind.
John Riegan, Indianapolis.
Henry Riegan, Indianapolis.
George Tweedie, Richmond, Ind.
John Hartje, Indianapolis.
H. W. Sheppard, Cincinnati.
Thomas H. Joy, Nashville, Tenn.
Paul Weiss, Maywood, Ill.
A. F. J. Baur, Indianapolis.
Otto Amling, Maywood, Ill.

The judges in the rose classes, March 27, were:

Alex. Montgomery, Hadley, Mass.
Philip Breitmeyer, Detroit.
Wm. F. Gude, Washington, D. C.
George Burton, Philadelphia.
George Asmus, Chicago.
Frank H. Traendly, New York.
W. J. Palmer, Buffalo.
Robert Miller, Farmington, Utah.
J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill.
S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia.
S. A. Anderson, Buffalo.
E. Allan Peirce, Waltham, Mass.

The judges in the carnation classes, March 28, were:

C. W. Johnson, Rockford, Ill.
David Ward, Jamaica, N. Y.
John H. Dunlop, Toronto, Can.
E. Saunders, Lewiston, Me.
Samuel Goddard, Framingham, Mass.

CARRYING OVER CYCLAMENS.

We have about 500 5-inch cyclamen plants which we should like to hold over for next season. It has been suggested in the columns of The Review that, since one should be able to grow good plants for next year from seed, it is just as well to throw these plants away. We understand this to mean that where there are only a few plants it is best to throw them away, but in our case we have 500 of them. E. J. W.—N. D.

Since you want to carry over your cyclamen plants for another season, you should give them a little attention right along. Reduce the water supply as the flowering season ends, but do not at any time keep them dust-dry. Do not stand them below a bench or lay them on their sides, but keep them on a bench or on shelves. A little later you can, if you wish, stand them in a coldframe on a surface of sand and coal ashes. Shake out and reset the plants early in July. Remove practically all of the soil and replace in 4-inch in lieu of 5-inch pots; then stand them in a frame or on a greenhouse bench and water only moderately, but spray occasionally until the plants become established. Some shading from the direct rays of the sun will be necessary, but this shading need not be heavy, and if it can be made movable, all the better. C. W.

WEDNESDAY'S AWARDS.

The class for the best display of cut roses, covering 300 square feet, staged Wednesday, March 29, produced some fine exhibits. First prize was taken by A. N. Pierson, Inc., twelve varieties being shown. Second prize went to Fred H. Lemon & Co., who exhibited seven varieties. Third prize was won by Pochlmann Bros. Co., with a display including ten varieties.

The sweet pea classes were staged

Wednesday, March 29. First prize in the two classes calling for a display covering 100 square feet was captured by the W. Atlee Burpee Co., Philadelphia. Philip J. Goebel, Jr., of Webster Groves, Mo., was a strong prize-winner. The awards of the judges were as follows:

Fifty sprays pink and white—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., Webster Groves, Mo., first.

Fifty sprays white—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first; O. C. May, Sappington, Mo., second; Viewegh & Kiefer, Indianapolis, third.

Fifty sprays deep pink or rose—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first; O. C. May, second; Roepke Floral Co., Indianapolis, third.

Fifty sprays light pink—Hartje & Elder, Indianapolis, first; Fred N. Ross, Greenwood, Ind., second; Roepke Floral Co., third.

Fifty sprays blue or purple—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

Fifty sprays red or crimson—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first; O. C. May, second.

Fifty sprays lavender—Philip J. Goebel, first; Viewegh & Kiefer, second.

Fifty sprays orange or deep salmon—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first; O. C. May, second; Viewegh & Kiefer, third.

Fifty sprays any other color—Fred N. Ross, first.

Vase of 100 sprays, combination of two or more colors, arranged for effect with sweet pea or other foliage—Viewegh & Kiefer, first; Roepke Floral Co., second; Fred N. Ross, third.

Display of sweet peas covering 100 square feet, quality and effective arrangement to count, foliage plants and any foliage allowed—W. Atlee Burpee Co., first, showing fifty varieties; Peter Weiland, Newcastle, Ind., second, showing thirty-two varieties.

Display of sweet peas covering 100 square feet, arranged for effect, green of any kind, including plants, permitted—W. Atlee Burpee Co., first.

One hundred sprays bicolor—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

One hundred sprays blue or purple—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

One hundred sprays red or crimson—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

One hundred sprays light lavender—Philip J. Goebel, Jr., first.

J. W. Smith, Greenwich, Conn., took the first prizes in the three classes for sweet peas from private growers.

a well regulated quarantine. Those present were Prof. A. S. Thurston, Prof. H. B. Dorner, Prof. V. Reis, Prof. A. C. Hottes, Prof. A. H. Nehrling, Prof. E. J. Wilde, Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer and Dr. A. C. Beal.

The annual excursion of the floriculture students at the University of Illinois had the national flower show as its destination this year. Prof. H. B. Dorner and S. W. Hall had a dozen students under their guidance.

* * * *

Homer Wiegand entertained visiting Kiwanis florists at luncheon at the Claypool hotel Wednesday, March 29.

* * * *

Baskets of flowers were sent to the mayors of principal cities and to President Harding in the name of the mayor of Indianapolis on the opening day of the show. Philips Bros., Newark, N. J., reproduced the telegram carrying the order for Newark's mayor as an advertisement in the local newspaper. Much publicity was gained for the show by these floral messages.

* * * *

On the opening day of the show, the Indianapolis Star appeared with a special flower show section of fourteen pages, in which florists were liberal advertisers.

* * * *

The cut flower display of the E. C. Amling Co., Chicago, occasioned a lengthy story regarding the great central flower market in the flower show special of the Indianapolis Star. George Mohn gave the reporter plenty of information, though the latter did not in every place quote Mr. Mohn correctly.

* * * *

Among the few Pacific coast florists present was Frank L. Morris, now of Santa Ana, Cal., but formerly of the Hoosier state. He met many old friends, who thought the rejuvenating influence of the Golden State climate was to be seen.

* * * *

Coming from the New York show to Indianapolis, A. Herrington was enthusiastic over the superior facilities for exhibition purposes of the building which houses the national show. Not only did he find it easy to lay out a pleasing plan, but the concrete floor, permitting trucks to bring soil and exhibits to the spot where they were to be placed and allowing ample watering, pleased the exhibitors immensely.

* * * *

Attendance the opening day was double that of the first day of the recent automobile show at Indianapolis. Sunday brought a crowd despite rain. Monday evening one had to fight his way unless he drifted with the crowd, guided by a corps of husky police. The public seemed progressively interested.

* * * *

Every effort had been made by the Indianapolis florists to insure a large public attendance. The automobile route from downtown to the show was marked by pine trees tied to the lamp posts and arrows pointing "To the Flower Show." At the fair grounds the walk to the two buildings used was bordered on either side with southern pines.

S. A. F. DIRECTORS MEET.

SIDE SHOWS

A meeting of the national publicity committee was held Monday morning, March 27, to vote appropriation for further advertising in the magazines contracted for.

* * * *

Easterners remarked that whereas the New York show the week before was primarily a private growers' exhibition, they were conspicuous by their absence at Indianapolis. Less than half a dozen amateurs competed.

* * * *

A conference of the officers of the Illinois State Florists' Association during the show resulted in the decision to hold a fall flower show at Danville next November. It will open a big new armory in Uncle Joe Cannon's town.

* * * *

One of the few exhibits from the Pacific coast was that of the Holden Floral Co., Portland, Ore., a vase of Laddie carnations, in excellent condition after their long journey.

* * * *

Flowers were not quite the whole show. The alligators of A. Wiegand's Sons Co., the aquaria of the state board of conservation, the goldfish from the Grassfork Fisheries, at Martinsville, Ind., and the collection of dried butterflies assisted.

* * * *

hibited by Peter Reinberg, Inc., Chicago.

Vases of carnations, Thomas C. Joy and Natalie, took places beside those of Betty Jane on the various brokers' desks when Harold Joy arrived from Nashville, Tenn., Monday morning. He reports the large sales of cuttings in a pleased tone.

* * * *

An exhibit from a distance was that of hydrangeas from J. J. Le Borious, Duluth, Minn.

* * * *

The national publicity committee occupied space in a corner of the hall to show the magazine advertising now being done and to accept pledges and contributions towards the campaign. Receipts were not heavy.

The official catalogue of the show, which sold for 15 cents, was an attractive booklet of 112 pages and colored cover. Articles on flower culture were contributed by C. H. Totty, I. S. Hendrickson, J. H. Pepper and Arthur Herrington.

The college florists' section of the S. A. F. held a meeting Wednesday morning, March 29, at the Indianapolis show. A good proportion of the members of the section were in attendance. The meeting went on record as indorsing was transacted. The absentees were few; the names of nearly all the members of the board will be found under the list of those present at the Indianapolis show. An early session was held in the morning, when officers' reports were heard, and another on the evening of the same day, when routine matters were discussed.

ROSE SOCIETY MEETING.

Too many specimens of the rosarians' skill were to be looked at on the floor below to admit of a large attendance at the annual meeting of the American Rose Society in the Manufacturers' building at Indianapolis. The few there listened to the officers' reports, discussed some important matters and adjourned to a subsequent annual meeting to be called by the executive board later in the year.

It was voted to elect as honorary life member Dr. Robert Huey, M. Pernet-Ducher, Courtney Page, secretary of the British Rose Society; Charles Siret, secretary of the French Society of Rosarians, and Mrs. Aaron Ward.

A memorial medal to perpetuate the memory of Dr. Van Fleet was discussed and the project referred to the executive board.

The members are to be polled as to the time of holding the deferred Portland rose pilgrimage.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION.

A show such as is staged here in Indianapolis, wonderful in every way, with exhibits from near and far, small and large, every kind of flowers known to horticulture, would not have been possible had we not had the loyal and unselfish support of so many growers, trade exhibitors and the Cleveland and Indianapolis florists, who realized that to make the show a success they must exert every effort to exhibit, and that is what they did and most splendidly they came across, giving us the finest show ever staged as the national flower show.

On behalf of the national flower show management, I want to express through the trade press the warmest thanks and appreciation for this splendid backing.

S. S. Pennock, Pres. S. A. F.

FLOWER SHOW JUDGES.

Judges of the plant and garden displays and other exhibits staged the opening day of the Indianapolis flower show were the following:

George Gause, Richmond, Ind.
J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill.
Fred H. Lemon, Richmond, Ind.
John Rieman, Indianapolis.
Henry Rieman, Indianapolis.
George Tweedie, Richmond, Ind.
John Hartje, Indianapolis.
H. W. Sheppard, Cincinnati.
Thomas H. Joy, Nashville, Tenn.
Paul Weiss, Maywood, Ill.
A. F. J. Baur, Indianapolis.
Otto Amling, Maywood, Ill.

The judges in the rose classes, March 27, were:

Alex. Montgomery, Hadley, Mass.
Philip Breitmeyer, Detroit.
Wm. F. Gude, Washington, D. C.
George Burton, Philadelphia.
George Asmus, Chicago.
Frank H. Traendly, New York.
W. J. Palmer, Buffalo.
Robert Miller, Farmington, Utah.
J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill.
S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia.
S. A. Anderson, Buffalo.
E. Allan Peirce, Waltham, Mass.

The judges in the carnation classes, March 28, were:

C. W. Johnson, Rockford, Ill.
David Ward, Jamaica, N. Y.
John H. Dunlop, Toronto, Can.
E. Saunders, Lewiston, Me.
Samuel Goddard, Framingham, Mass.

CARRYING OVER CYCLAMENS.

We have about 500 5-inch cyclamen plants which we should like to hold over for next season. It has been suggested in the columns of The Review that, since one should be able to grow good plants for next year from seed, it is just as well to throw these plants away. We understand this to mean that where there are only a few plants it is best to throw them away, but in our case we have 500 of them. E. J. W.—N. D.

Since you want to carry over your cyclamen plants for another season, you should give them a little attention right along. Reduce the water supply as the flowering season ends, but do not at any time keep them dust-dry. Do not stand them below a bench or lay them on their sides, but keep them on a bench or on shelves. A little later you can, if you wish, stand them in a coldframe on a surface of sand and coal ashes. Shake out and reset the plants early in July. Remove practically all of the soil and replace in 4-inch in lieu of 5-inch pots; then stand them in a frame or on a greenhouse bench and water only moderately, but spray occasionally until the plants become established. Some shading from the direct rays of the sun will be necessary, but this shading need not be heavy, and if it can be made movable, all the better. C. W.

THOSE WHO CAME TO SEE

THOSE PRESENT.

Since no register was kept of those in the trade in attendance at the national flower show, it was not easy to compile anything like a complete roster. Many came, especially from near points, for a day's stay, or only a few hours' visit. Each day brought new faces and each day some departed. Collected on the first three days of the exhibition, the following list contains the names of only the early visitors, and, it is feared, not completely all of them. The trade attendance may be considered good for the time of year and present conditions. Those seen at Indianapolis were as follows:

 MILDEW ON SWEET PEAS.
 We have a solid bench of sweet peas. These were planted in December and for a time they were doing well. Within the last few days, however, there has appeared on the leaves a white substance similar to mildew. The water in North Dakota contains alkali, and I thought for a time that the presence of the alkali in the water was the cause of the leaves' becoming mildewed. I then used considerable lime to check it, but this seems to do no good.
 E. J. W.—N. D.
 The dried leaves received seem to be affected with mildew. This condition is most likely caused by cold drafts, and it would be aggravated if the plants were sprayed with mildew on them. Lime will not check mildew, but sulphur will. Used either in a powdered form or as a spray, it will be found effective.

THOSE WHO CAME TO SELL

TRADE EXHIBITORS.

Many Came, But Few Were Busy.

Those firms who sought to do business with florists undisturbed by the public were allotted space in the Woman's building, at the Indianapolis fair grounds, while those who preferred the presence of the public paid a premium for the privilege of occupying space along the walls of the Manufacturers' building, which housed the flower show. It was not a fortunate arrangement, for over a hundred yards' space separates the buildings and, since the Woman's building was the farther from the entrance to the grounds, many florists visited the flower show without passing on to see the business display in the other building. Since, moreover, heating facilities were primitive in the Woman's building, the salesmen had, altogether, what might be termed a cold time. Some admitted it, while others did not—the opinion depended on what anticipations had been. A fair amount of business was had by a number, and exhibitors new at trade gatherings did well. Those who catered to the public, in the large building, enjoyed excellent business.

Though there was space, had any late purchasers appeared, in both buildings, the total sold exceeded that at the preceding national flower show, at Philadelphia. The receipts from this source were estimated at $14,000, though perhaps that is a little strong.

For ease in reference, the exhibits in both buildings are combined in the following summary of what was to be seen in this part of the show:

Advance Co., Richmond, Ind.

The greenhouse fittings of the Advance Co. were shown to florists by J. E. Jones, head of the company.

American Bulb Co., Chicago.

Some bulbs—gladiolus and caladium and canna roots—and some products of bulbs—lilies, tulips and daffodils—were shown by the American Bulb Co., as were rose plants. A vase of A. Jablonsky's carnation, Betty Jane, graced the table. Kentias and ferns and some retailers' supplies were also displayed. A. Miller, I. Rosnosky and Guy French met the firm's customers.

American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago.

A restful corner was provided by the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., where P. L. McKee met friends.

Bash's Seed Store, Indianapolis.

Selling seeds and bulbs to the public, Bash's Seed Store showed in its display the flowers to be produced therefrom. In the vases were sweet peas, stocks, snapdragons, etc.

Basket Shop, Bellefonte, Pa.

Natural colors, artistically blended, give the two-tone baskets of the Basket Shop a distinctive appearance. The staples of the line were shown. John A. Lane was in charge.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

Imported baskets, of late open designs, were one feature of the display of H. Bayersdorfer & Co. Imperial chinaware was extensively shown. Wreaths of thistles and poppy pods, called moon blossoms by some, are a Memorial day offering. Painted wood vases are another imported novelty, as are the soldier boys and girls with containers for flowers. The firm's staples were profusely shown. I. M. Bayersdorfer, recovered from his late operation, did the honors.

Bergman-Koropp Co., Chicago.

"Wild flowers tamed" is the way the Bergman-Koropp Co. described its wares. The prepared and painted foliages and flowers introduced by the persons whose names the firm bears are now produced under the direction of H. P. Hanson, who has purchased the interests of Dr. Warner. George Kaspar represented the firm.

R. G. Bock, Hamilton, O.

"Knot wood" pots are introduced as a labor-saver for florists, since the outward appearance sets off the plants, is neat and attractive, and no covers are needed. Reputed to be of Yaqui Indian origin, they are now made by R. G. Bock, who showed samples of various sizes and styles.

Boyer Mfg. Co., Winona Lake, Ind.

The Winona cemetery bouquet holder, a metal container of cylindrical form, is composed of two parts, an outer cylinder which is buried to its top in the ground and a cup that, reversed, fills the space when no flowers are on the grave, so that it is convenient, always there, yet invisible when not in use. The Boyer Mfg. Co. showed it.

Buchbinder Bros., Chicago.

The refrigerator manufacturers' art was shown in a specimen icebox of Buchbinder Bros. It measured 4x10x10 feet and was finished in gray. Sidney Buchbinder was with it.

W. Atlee Burpee Co., Philadelphia.

More than sixty varieties of sweet peas were displayed in the booth of the W. Atlee Burpee Co., replaced four times during the show. Among these were six novelties awarded a certificate of merit, Spokane, Milkmaid, Chevalier, Fair Lady, Robin Hood and Quaker Maid. George W. Kerr and W. Atlee Burpee, Jr., were in attendance.

T. J. Callahan Co., Dayton, O.

A section of Wolf's ventilating equipment was shown by the T. J. Callahan Co. With this apparatus, it is said, one station raises 350 feet with 1-inch single-strength pipe. Models of cross sections of cut-to-fit greenhouses were shown. Mr. Callahan, Ray W. Beverly and H. Miller were in attendance.

Carbone, Boston.

The line of Italian pottery imported by the late Philip Carbone and now largely used by florists with elite trade was exhibited, with H. B. Ruppert and A. A. Abramowitz in attendance.

Central Supply Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Plumbing supplies and boiler fittings are sold to many Indianapolis growers by the Central Supply Co. and therefore it showed its wares, George W. Boese being in attendance at the exhibit.

Chautauqua Flower Fields, Inc., Bemus Point, N. Y.

Gladiolus primulinus bulbs from the fields of C. Zeestraten were displayed under the firm name of the Chautauqua Flower Fields, Inc.

Cohen & Hiller, New York.

Ribbons and other staple florists' supplies were shown by Cohen & Heller.

J. W. Davis Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

Specimens of the carefully grown, clean stock of the J. W. Davis Co. included hydrangeas, young cyclamens, Pandanus Veitchii, lilies, rambler roses, Norwood ferns and some others. Much of this is already sold for Easter, but more than formerly, particularly of hydrangeas, are being grown for the Mothers' day demand. C. G. Anderson was assisted by Vincent Plese.

A. T. De La Mare Co., New York.

Garden books were displayed by the A. T. De La Mare Co.

Dennison Mfg. Co., Chicago.

Gummed labels, tags and envelopes for card enclosures in the display of the Dennison Mfg. Co. were specimens of those now used by leading florists.

De Witt Sisters, Battle Creek, Mich.

The firm of De Witt Sisters is an old one in the making of feather flowers. Though the sisters are no more, the present proprietor of the firm, George Trato, turns out some notable imitations of flowers made from goose feathers. He further showed his skill by the attractive display here under his personal direction.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia.

Only a few specimens of each of the many plant specialties of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., could find space in the display. There were kentias, phoenixes, ferns, hydrangeas, pot roses, rubber plants, dracenas, ivies, crotons, etc., all of the excellent culture that has made this firm's reputation. J. J. Karins greeted many friends.

Duro Paper Products Co., Chicago.

The line of Duro brand boxes, so well known to the trade, was displayed by the Duro Paper Products Co.

Eber-Washam Fixture Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Adjustable plant stands of particularly practical type, because of the patented pall adjustment, were shown by the Eber-Washam Fixture Co. Mrs. Alfred Hamburger was in charge.

John A. Evans Co., Richmond, Ind.

Challenge ventilating apparatus was installed for demonstration by the John A. Evans Co.

Florists' Supply House, Indianapolis.

Staple lines of baskets, ribbons and chiffons, zebra fiber wrapping paper, lamp and electric flash signs for florists were displayed by the Florists' Supply House.

Garden City Co., Indianapolis.

Amolawn is described as a plant food that drives out weeds because the grass is given such nourishment that the weeds are crowded out. It is sold in sifter cans by the Garden City Co. For new lawns three pounds is used to 400 square feet. On old lawns three pounds covers twice that area. Manager Fortie and Paul F. Grubbs were in attendance.

Garland Co., Cleveland, O.

The new pump of the Garland Co. to fill glazing guns was in operation at the company's booth. Garlanite was shown, a glazing material of putty color which may be put on with a gun, but which, through its different composition, has advantages over other compounds. Permanite, the black material, was also shown. L. Gellner and H. E. Heiner were present.

Gilson Mfg. Co., Fort Washington, Wis.

The Bolens power hoe and lawn mower tractor is useful for florists or nurserymen who have a small acreage of outdoor stock. The machine and its attachments for seeding, cultivating or lawn mowing were inspected by many.

Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y.

The well known products so long marketed by Benjamin Hammond were on display—Thrip Juice, Slug Shot, Grape Dust, Greenhouse White paint, Twemlow's Old English glazing putty and other brands. Walter Mott shook hands with many old friends.

A. Henderson & Co., Chicago.

Varied offerings to growers were represented at the booth of A. Henderson & Co.—a vase of Iris filifolia Imperator, something that will be useful; Orange King calendulas, rainbow freesias, lilies, young cyclamen plants, gladiolus bulbs, dormant roses, sweet peas. These were representative of the complete line of seeds and bulbs this firm offers the trade. Joseph Marks was in attendance.

Henshaw Floral Co., New York.

The supplies department of the Henshaw Floral Co. showed the luster ware that has proved so popular a line with florists. Party favors of novel form were also exhibited.

E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.

A huge vase of Hill's America stood, as in a frame, in a booth lined with green velvet under a flood of light. In front stood baskets of Premier, Columbia and Butterfly. Above was a portrait of E. G. Hill, the originator of these four famous varieties of roses. So superb was this exhibit that public and professionals lingered long before it.

Joseph H. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.

Plants in 4-inch pots of America, Premier and Columbia lined the front of the exhibit of the Joseph H. Hill Co. Blooms of these varieties, as well as Mme. Butterfly and others, filled vases at the back.

Hitchings & Co., No. Tonawanda, N. Y.

Photographs and descriptive literature showed the merits of the large houses built by Hitchings & Co. J. N. MacArthur was present.

R. H. Hoover Laboratories, Inc., Freeport, Ill.

The neat and attractive self-selling counter display cartons containing one dozen cans of Hoover's Plantlife showed florists how some extra profit could be made by the display of such a carton on their counters. The advertising in the Saturday Evening Post is making a consumer demand for this plant food, designed to make house plants grow under amateur care. R. H. Hoover was with the display, assisted by a salesman, E. A. Dildine.

Ideal Lawn Mower Co., Lansing, Mich.

The large triplex power mower, eighty-four inches wide, and an Ideal, Jr., measuring twenty-two inches, represented the great and the little in this line. A. G. Coldwell explained their uses interestingly.

Indianapolis Reed Co., Indianapolis.

Makers of reed furniture, lamps, ferneries and baskets, the Indianapolis Reed Co. showed the last-named to florists. Some attractive designs were on view. A. L. Kugelman was in charge.

Ionia Pottery Co., Ionia, Mich.

Red pots, of the much used Ionia line, as well as hanging pots and baskets, were exhibited by the Ionia Pottery Co., with H. F. Hacker in charge.

R. J. Irwin, New York.

A few of many things that R. J. Irwin

A few of many things that R. J. Irwin

sells were in his space. The new carnation, Betty Jane, was one; the new coleus, Harding, was another; cut blooms of the Manda novelty, Solanum jasminoides, was still another. Then there were saintpaulias, ferns, roses in 2¼-inch pots, hydrangeas, etc. W. E. Cahill and H. C. Neubrand were with Mr. Irwin.

Johnson & Johnson, Chicago.

Before the war D. D. Johnson sold fertilizers to florists and now he has resumed the business, in partnership with his brother, A. H. Johnson. Samples of their various fertilizers were shown, as well as the bag, paper-lined, in which the special carnation and chrysanthemum fertilizer of the firm is shipped. L. E. Horton and Charles F. Larson were in attendance.

W. F. Kasting Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

A machine called the "Grower's Superior Outfit," the improved form of S. A. Kost's soil grinder, was exhibited by the W. F. Kasting Co. A truck 3x6 feet carries the soil pulverizer, a rotary saw, an emery wheel, a pot-cleaning device and a spray pump, operated by a 1¾-horsepower gasoline engine. The outfit will fill many needs of the greenhouse operator. Mr. Kost showed the method of operation to visitors.

Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago.

Literature and photographs set forth the excellent features of Kroeschell boilers and Kroeschell ice machines, the latter becoming as favored by florists as the former has been by growers. F. Lautenschlager gave information regarding both. A self-adjusting expansion box was examined with interest.

C. U. Liggitt, Philadelphia.

Since some of the things he sells were in the flower and plant exhibits, C. U. Liggitt had little need of a display, but met his friends.

Lindley Florist Box Co., Marion, Ind.

Boxes of many styles and sizes were in the exhibit of the Lindley Florist Box Co. to show the extensive line of this company.

Liquid-Leaf Fertilizer Co., Dayton, O.

Liquid-Leaf Mold is a liquid extracted from forest leaves, mixed in such proportion—since the leaves of different trees contribute different elements—as to be equivalent to the properties of cow manure. Louis D. Poock, president of the company, has patented the process and showed letters from leading florists commending his product for use on various plants.

Lord & Burnham Co., Irvington, N. Y.

A section of a curved-eave greenhouse, 17x18 feet, showed L. & B. construction. It was complete, even filled with plants from A. Wiegand's Sons Co. Adjoining was a restful spot for trade visitors, where photographs of the L. & B. houses at Premier Rose Gardens were shown. W. R. Cobb, vice-president, and M. C. Wright, head of the Chicago office, were present.

Lowry Nursery & Landscape Co., Indianapolis.

The Lowry Nursery & Landscape Co., with headquarters at Indianapolis, operates the Lowry Nurseries and the Lowry Seed Co., at Indianapolis, and the Kankakee Nurseries, at Kankakee, Ill. Its service extends from park development to home decoration.

McCallum Co., Pittsburgh.

In the exhibit of the McCallum Co. were shown the Universal plant stand, called "the little giant wonder with the bull-dog grip"; the Malco pot covers, of crepe paper and ready to be adjusted; Pyramid and Malco greenhouse hose; Puttium, glazing cement in gray and black, and the standard lines of supplies, among which were opaque crystal and florentine ware, butterflies, aluminum foil, candlesticks, ribbons and chiffons. Present were E. J. McCallum, C. F. Edgar, R. E. Gay, M. Wagner and H. G. Frey.

Morris H. Levine Co., New York.

Elco ribbons and chiffons made up the display of the Morris H. Levine Co., New York, set up by Mr. Levine himself.

Midwest Engine Co., Indianapolis.

Both the walking and riding type of the Utilitor tractor were displayed for the inspection of florists and others, who found it one of the best among light tractors.

Mono Service Co., Newark, N. J.

The firm that makes the waterproofed wood-fiber pot covers now has a line of vases of the same material which the retailer may enclose with orders of cut flowers, since they cost but 10 to 20 cents apiece. There are nineteen sizes and shapes. The designs are varied and handsome. This line should be a welcome one. J. T. Metzger and F. M. Mather represented the Mono Service Co.

Moto-Mower Co., Detroit, Mich.

Power lawn mowers, large and small, were shown by the Moto-Mower Co. M. S. Ramsey attended.

Joseph G. Neidinger Co., Philadelphia.

The Joseph G. Neidinger Co. devoted its exhibit to baskets, since the other lines of the company, such as wreaths and staple supplies, are well known to the trade. Some attractive styles were shown. L. J. Seiger was present.

Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind.

Prepared foliages, ruscus, cycas leaves, cones, thistles and the like indicated the complete line of the Ove Gnatt Co. in the material. Baskets and wreaths were shown, too. The representatives were Ove Gnatt, Fred Henoch, Ed. Ahles, R. E. Blackshaw, W. B. Huddleson and Matthew Schilz.

S. S. Pennock Co., Philadelphia.

Staple lines of baskets, chiffons and ribbons—the retailers' standard needs—were to be supplied at the booth of the S. S. Pennock Co. Robert Greenlaw welcomed old acquaintances.

S. & S. Tin Specialty Co., Chicago.

Galvanized vases and basket lines were shown by the S. & S. Tin Specialty Co., under the direction of Irving Stein.

F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y.

Smaller ferns from F. R. Pierson made up his trade exhibit, while larger ones took a prize in competition. In the former were Nephrolepis Smithii, a delicate lace fern; muscosa, elegantissima compacta, Piersonii elegantissima, etc. J. T. Trevillian was present.

Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh.

Baskets of the company's own manufacture were featured by the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. in its display. These are of graceful designs and attractive finishes. Some of them were filled by Bertermann Bros. Co. and consequently showed their usefulness for various work. Bud vases, luster ware, chiffons and ribbons, in this company's usual complete variety, were shown. The display was accompanied by H. J. Hook, A. S. Sawyer and George W. Hoffman.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago.

Plants from Morton Grove vied with supplies from the Chicago store in the exhibit of Poehlmann Bros. Co. The former included fine specimens of kentias, rhododendrons, azaleas, bougainvilleas, pelargoniums, etc. The latter comprised the standard needs of florists in varied styles. A. A. Martial, O. C. Johns and Edward Westerman assisted Manager M. T. Tyler.

Pulverized Poultry Manure Co., Chicago.

Samples were shown of the poultry manure sold for use in the greenhouse, by the Pulverized Poultry Manure Co. C. O. Borgmeier and H. E. Humiston were present.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

One entering the Woman's building, where only trade exhibits were staged, walked directly into the exhibit of the A. L. Randall Co. The space was large and the items shown were extensive, so extensive in fact that there was not space for all. Three electric fountains—one a large, bronze affair containing many goldfish—were playing. An ice-box, called a corsage box in a large store, but useful alone in a small shop, was at the back. An improved work table, with German silver gutter and trimmings, contained many things. A marble-topped table showed off luster ware excellently. A standing desk of mahogany and white, and a writing desk and chair to match, were admired. Supplies included the large and varied lines for which Randall is well known. C. O. Wilcox, William Jacob, Edward Jacob and William Abrahamson staged the display. Frank Johnson and William Reid arrived later.

W. C. Redmon, Sons & Co., Peru, Ind.

Long engaged in the manufacture of baskets and woven willow ware of other sorts, W. C. Redmon, Sons & Co. are now selling to florists Red-man ferneries and baskets. On display were some attractive specimens of table pieces in bronze finishes. Mr. Redmon was himself present.

M. Rice Co., Philadelphia.

American-made baskets of graceful design and careful workmanship were exhibited by the M. Rice Co. The pieces shown were from the trunks of H. C. Heilemann, with some larger sizes shipped from Philadelphia.

Richmond Cedar Works, Richmond, Va.

Tubs for florists' use, made of seasoned Virginia white cedar, painted green, were exhibited by the Richmond Cedar Works. The company makes five styles and many sizes.

Schloss Bros. Ribbons, Inc., New York.

The usual line of excellent ribbons of Schloss Bros. was supplemented by June bride's scarfs, a lovely novelty; open-weave corsage ribbon, variegated metallic ombre shades of ribbons and colonial bouquet fringed holders. The display was tastefully arranged by George Taffel.

One of the Bulb Gardens of Bertermann Bros. Co. in the Front of the Hall and, Beyond, a View of Suzken Area.

Sefton Mfg. Co., Chicago.

The line of boxes widely used by florists was shown by the Sefton Mfg. Co. under the direction of J. H. Mock.

S. S. Skidelsky & Co., New York.

The desk which S. S. Skidelsky made his headquarters was decorated by a vase of Carnation Betty Jane, A. Jablonsky's new pink.

Skinner Irrigation Co., Troy, O.

A line of irrigating equipment showed the type of apparatus that has made the Skinner system so widely used by florists and nurserymen.

Smith & Young Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Luster ware, baskets, chiffons, ribbons and standard supplies were shown by the Smith & Young Co.

Standard Oil Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

The booth of the Standard Oil Co. was designated the "House of 1,000 Candles," for the display was of candles, big and little, in charge of F. A. Woods, of the candle sales department of this company.

Irving Stein Co., Chicago.

The hand-painted metal baskets which have become popular in the trade were shown by the Irving Stein Co., with the head of the firm present.

L. C. Stroh & Sons, Batavia, N. Y.

Thoro-Mix, Jr., stood by Thoro-Mix, the soil shredder seen by florists at the Washington convention of the S. A. F. The smaller size does the same work and is designed for the florists whose needs are not on a scale with the large machine. N. J. Kemp explained its workings.

Tobacco By-Products & Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

The makers of Nico-Fume are so well known to the trade that a small space was sufficient to meet the needs of the Tobacco By-Products & Chemical Co.

Charles H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J.

Vases of roses of the leading varieties, such as Premier, Columbia, Butterfly, etc., were on display at the booth of the Charles H. Totty Co. Boxes of tulips and hyacinths formed a colorful border. Miss Anna L. Moran was present while Mr. Totty assisted in show matters.

B. Hammond Tracy, Wenham, Mass.

B. Hammond Tracy, in person, showed gladiolus bulbs and also some luster ware and other pottery such as is carried in the retail store at Wenham, Mass.

W. T. Usinger, Pittsburgh, Pa.

How considerable a place candlesticks have made for themselves in the florists' business was indicated by the booth of W. T. Usinger, where they were shown, of glass and of metal. A table decoration gave an example of their use.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago.

The exhibit of Vaughan's Seed Store showed the products of its seeds and bulbs, as well as some of the latter. Gladiolus blooms from Mississippi made a gorgeous showing. Ferns, sweet peas, daffodils, lilies, pandanus, etc., were colorful. M. A. Fierstein and Walter S. Puffer were present.

Wertheimer Bros., New York.

Milady is equipped for the dance if the florist backs a corsage with the Vanity Fair holder made by Wertheimer Bros.; it holds mirror, puff and powder, easily accessible. Embroidered flowered and hand-tinted ribbons were features of the display. Chiffons of attractive weaves were shown. Saul M. Rosenfeld, Herbert A. Hecht and Julius Dilloff attended.

Wright's Flower Shop, Los Angeles, Cal.

Superb large specimens of the new fern Adiantum Wrightii were shown by Wright's Flower Shop, as well as some in small pots. Robert Newcomb attended the exhibit.

Zane Pottery Co., South Zanesville, O.

Greystone jardinières and hanging pots, as well as the well known Moss Astec line, were shown by the Zane Pottery Co. The gray pottery is quite attractive. E. F. Delancy was present.

WOULD COMPILE STATISTICS.

The conference of representatives of the larger trade associations with Secretary Hoover, called for April 12 at the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., will be for the purpose of working out Mr. Hoover's plan, adopted after its legality had been passed upon by Attorney-General Daugherty, whereby trade associations would coöperate with the Department of Commerce in the gathering and publication of trade statistics to further the needs of trade and commerce.

The immediate purpose of the conference will be to obtain a list of trade associations that voluntarily will furnish to the department the statistical information which the attorney-general and Secretary Hoover have found could be used legally. The discussion will also embrace consideration of means of collecting the information, including the forms of reports which would be most suitable for the associations agreeing to furnish it, and the manner of distributing the statistical information obtained to the members of the associations and the public.

The attorney-general at the request of Secretary Hoover last month went over the entire matter of the Department of Commerce working with the trade associations and the latter's activities and held that such activities would not contravene the Sherman anti-trust law unless in actual practice higher prices evolved from them or they stifled competition or curtailed production.

The status of eleven specific activities of trade associations were asked for by Mr. Hoover: Whether an association could provide a standard system of cost accounting for its members, provided the figures arrived at were not distributed; if uniformity in the use of trade names and phrases could be provided; if the grades, quality and processes of production could be standardized; if information as to financial responsibility could be furnished; if insurance could be handled; if coöperative advertising could be engaged in; if the associations could handle legislative questions affecting a particular industry, and if statistics of production, distribution, wages, etc., could be collected from its members and compiled for the information of the Secretary of Commerce.

STUDENTS HANDICAPPED?

Having read the article on the future of the college student which appeared in The Review of March 16, I should like to present my case, as an additional contribution to the subject. Why is a student?

A young man works in a greenhouse for a year or two; he notices the problems of growing and is thirsty for knowledge to solve them, so decides to get a scientific training. After his training he talks about chlorophyll, carbon dioxide, photosynthesis, mesophytes, xerophytes and other "phytes." He sees the foreman use lime, bone meal and basic slag in the same bench of soil. That looks queer to him and he wonders whether the boss would add superphosphate and gypsum if he had them. He tries to point out what the fertilizers are composed of and shows the foreman what tricalcium phosphate looks like written in chemical symbols.

By this time the foreman sees his finish and makes things so hot that the student quits. But the next thing is finding another job; the student is referred to as a "know-it-all." He must then either take the best job he can get, or get a place of his own, if he has the money, or quit the greenhouse altogether.

If he again works under a like foreman, he must do things contrary to his training and say nothing. He is not expected to know what, when and why, but just how to do things. He has to fit himself to the job as others would, and not the job to himself.

It is true that he learns different methods and ideas, and other things. Methods must differ in every section, but science is the same the world over. He does not expect a job as foreman—he has never been one—yet he sees the foreman solve step by step problems which he could have proved beforehand. He gets discouraged, because, after all his study, he must get behind and follow the crowd.

Now, where is the chance for the student if he has to work for such an employer? If the employer or foreman had scientific training, the student would benefit by this, but, as it is, the student must work with a bad heart, conscious of the knowledge he cannot use, but more so of his ignorance.

COAL ASHES IN BEDS.

I have a concrete bed twenty inches above the ground and solid. This bed consists of cinders about one foot deep on top of the basic earth. Is this bed suitable for growing 4-inch geraniums for Memorial day? I have heard that coal ashes, which we are now using, create an injurious gas, which has a bad effect upon the foliage. Would these same beds be suitable for growing chrysanthemums in fall if eight or ten inches of the cinders were removed and the beds were filled in with good soil?

R. W. U.—Mich.

Some kinds of coal are believed to produce ashes which are injurious to plant life. In our own case such injury has never arisen, but the elements in various coals differ and, while many are beneficial or neutral, others have been found distinctly harmful. A coating of coarse sand is suggested over the ashes to prevent any possible injury. Such a bed should prove suitable for growing geranium stock and, if dug out, the beds should prove splendid for chrysanthemum culture.

NAMING PLANT FROM LEAVES.

We have sent some dried leaves of a certain plant. Will you tell, from the leaves, what the name of the plant is?

O. H. W. & C.—N. D.

The flower heads were badly dried and broken, but they seem to resemble most closely one of the annual scabiosa.

HONOR ROLL

WHO MADE THE SHOW?

The success of the fifth national flower show is the result of hard work on the part of a great many members of the trade. Those who have made the show what it is are entitled to a great deal of credit and it is freely given them.

The national flower show committee, of course, did the preliminary planning, and the members' work has been spread over years. George Asmus, Chicago, is chairman; John Young, New York, secretary, and J. J. Hess, Omaha, treasurer. The other members are Herman P. Noble, who devoted himself strenuously to the project while it was planned for Cleveland and after; Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; William H. Duckham, Madison, N. J.; Joseph H. Hill, Richmond, Ind.; Frank H. Traendly, New York, and Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass., ex-officio.

The officers of the American Rose Society, of the American Carnation Society and of the State Florists' Association of Indiana have greatly assisted the undertaking.

In charge of the local arrangements is Irwin Bertermann, who cannot be given too much recognition for his untiring efforts. The members of the committees who assisted him so ably are as follows:

Admission—Charles G. Pahud, chairman; John Bertermann, A. D. Warren, Jack Marer, Frank E. Rieman, Wallace O. Lee, Robert J. Branhams, Sol Schloss.

Information—Oscar G. Carlstedt, chairman; E. G. Hill, Arthur Heidenreich, J. L. Grande, William F. Roepke, John Kilcoyne, Herbert Tons, Robert Kiefer, William G. Fox, John Heidenreich, Joseph Moch.

Concessions—Lennis S. Elder, chairman; Brandt C. Downey, E. A. Nelson, Robert Ellis, E. A. McKernan.

Exterior decorations—Walter Bertermann, chairman; Herman Junge, John Bieman, Arch. V. Grossman.

Interior decorations—H. L. Wiegand, chairman; C. M. Balluff, W. W. Coles, Theo. A. Dorner, C. S. Barnaby.

Lectures and schools—E. E. Temperley, chairman; Benj. J. Burris, Mrs. E. C. Rimpler, E. U. Graff, Dan Dash, Miss Elsa Huebner, Mrs. John Downing Johnson, J. Edgar Stuart.

Local exhibits—Henry Rieman, chairman; Mayor Samuel Lewis Shank, John Grande, Sr., Charles A. Bookwalter, Bert C. Hits, John Hartje, Frank C. Jordan.

Music—L. E. Hits, chairman; Dr. Harvey G. Hill, Mrs. George B. Wiegand, Mrs. Lafayette Page, Mrs. A. F. J. Baur, Anders Rasmussen.

Nurserymen—Harry Hobbs, chairman; Ed. George, Prof. Lawrence Greene, Houston Tall, James H. Lowry, Prof. B. H. Ries.

Out-of-town exhibits—E. H. Mann, chairman; Joseph Kohout, A. M. Campbell, Roman J. Irwin, W. A. Rowe.

Printing—O. E. Steinkamp, chairman; G. R. Gause, C. H. Schwomeyer, Harry Pahud, Carl Sonnenschmidt.

Retail exhibits—Edwin Morner, chairman; Fred E. Dorner, David Kelly, Morris Marer, C. L. Niednager, Otto Laurens, Charles L. Frank, William H. Blackman.

Special premiums—Fred H. Lemon, chairman; Alfred Pochelon, James A. McLaughlin, David Geddis, David Vesey, Fred Lautenschlager, Fred G. Heintz.

Special features—Clarence R. Green, chairman; Roltare C. Eggleston, Colonel John B. Reynolds, Governor Warren T. McCray, Mrs. Hugh McK. Landon, W. J. Hasselman.

Staging committee—George B. Wiegand, chairman; George Asmus, Arthur Herrington.

State conservation—Richard Lieber, chairman; W. A. Guthrie, Harry F. Dietz, John W. Holtzman, Dr. Frank B. Wynn, Frank N. Wallace, Miss Ida Anderson, George N. Mannfeld, Miss Lucy Campbell, George Berg, Miss Mary Phinney.

Transportation—Joseph A. McGowan, chairman; J. W. Gardener, Charles Zoller, F. B. Humston, F. V. Martin, Bert Weedon, N. L. Bassett, John S. Naughton, Edgar Harrison, L. B. Jay, Thomas Gore, R. C. Fiscus, John W. Quill, J. M. Morissey, W. J. Smith.

TEACHING HORTICULTURE

TRAINING LOVE FOR FLOWERS.

How Others Do It.

Slowly and surely a taste is developing in America for plants and flowers, a love for horticulture. I have seen great changes in the twenty-five years I have been coming to this country. I think, gentlemen, that it is our duty to further and to foster the love for plants here. We must have something in the future to which to devote our time. More and more the people are working fewer hours. We must try to give them something other than a desire to attend the movies and to speed along the roads at the rate of fifty miles an hour. This can only be done by educating them to love plants. Allow me to point out to you what other countries are doing, in order to give the necessary horticultural instruction and education. Naturally, I am speaking about Holland, the country with which I am most acquainted.

In the first place, there is elementary horticultural training in the winter courses, for which the state gives a subsidy. Each course extends over two winter semesters. The teaching is done by the state school teachers, who have acquired the necessary qualifications; qualified practical gardeners are also employed to do the teaching. Students may enter every two years and must not be under 15 years of age. The course comprises: The elements of natural science, including plant diseases and pests; manures, soils, treatment and improvement of the ground; fruit culture, vegetable and flower culture, arboriculture and horticultural drawing.

On a Wide Scale.

As far as possible, the instruction is adapted to the requirements of the particular kind of gardening in the location. In 1914 there were 132 winter courses in the country and there were twelve horticultural teachers appointed by the state who must travel all over the country; they give advice on any subject wherever wanted without any extra pay. They deliver lectures, conduct experiments and, in general, further the interests of horticulture. Besides these courses, there are special courses for adults; in 1914 there were seventy-two of these courses, all with a state subsidy.

Secondary training in horticulture is given in five horticultural winter colleges. One is in Aalsmeer, flowers; one in Boskoop, nurseries; another at Lisse, bulbs; at Naaldwyk, fruit; at Hoorn, vegetables, and at the Horticultural College at Frederiksoord. The object of these colleges is to give the necessary horticultural education to young gardeners, florists, nurserymen, etc. The schools are divided into two classes and the period of instruction covers two winter semesters, from October to April. In the summer months these young men work with their various employers; this way almost everybody can afford to attend these colleges. The colleges are surrounded by more or less extensive grounds, where students receive practical instruction and where experiments are taken.

Higher horticultural education is given in the High School for Agriculture, Horticulture and Forestry, at Wageningen. This is a 3-year course and embraces physics, meteorology, plant physiology, mineralogy and soils, chemistry and agricultural chemistry, botanical terminology, botany, drawing, surveying, arboriculture, fruit growing, vegetable and flower culture, civil law and practical work.

Besides all this valuable knowledge, foreign languages are taught, which is a great assistance to our horticultural education, as it enables us to read horticultural papers in foreign languages. It also prepares the young men for their extensive travels in foreign countries, where they generally go after learning their trade at home.

It is not only in Holland that this horticultural education is given; it is the same in England, Germany, Belgium and France.

That sometimes the knowledge of a foreign language is directly responsible for horticultural gains is illustrated by the way Koster's blue spruce was found.

My father, who was the great-great-grandson of a nurseryman, soon understood that in order to make Boskoop a horticultural center, we did need a larger area than Holland to sell our products, and father did all he could to induce the government to devote time and money to horticulture and to the teaching of foreign languages. He himself had acquired, through self-study, a considerable knowledge of English, French and German. One day, reading in the Revue Horticole, father saw a description of the beautiful blue spruces of the Rocky mountains and read that the botanical garden at Zurich had received seeds of some of the finest specimens. Immediately father wrote for some seeds, received some and one of the seedlings was the blue spruce which now is universally known as Koster's blue. If father had not been able to read French, would the plant have come to life? Would others have seen the great beauty of this plant and would it have been propagated?

This is not the only instance; other plants have been described in foreign papers and propagated. These, otherwise, would have disappeared unnoticed.

Coming back to the horticultural education in Holland, I need not explain how a vast army of well trained horticulturists creates a horticultural penetration of the whole people; all buy plants and flowers, not because it is the fashion, but they buy them because they love them; they do not buy them at special occasions, Christmas, Easter—they buy them at every time of the year, and there is scarcely a house where there are no flowers before the for plants and with lantern slides, go out and show the people, not the upper 400, what can be accomplished with little expense and labor; show them how the board fences must be replaced by well kept hedges, how a few climbing roses will improve the appearance of their homes, how a few beds of inexpensive bulbs, some perennials, will make their homes attractive, and then—watch how their surroundings will make for a happier life.

An excellent speech was made lately by C. Siebenthaler, of Dayton, O., ex-take care of themselves, I feel really sorry for their American brothers and sisters, which, once planted, do not get any care thereafter. Many of you have seen the beautiful elms lining the streets in Holland, the linden in Berlin, the planes in London, the horse-chestnuts in Paris, all well shaped, symmetrical trees, with stems the same height, forming beautiful avenues, a sight to behold.

Would we not all gladly pay a couple of dollars more taxes if we could have the same in this country? Here again, it is the lack of horticultural knowledge and trained help. This lack of trained help is also seen in the way the shrubs are pruned in private gardens, in city squares, and thousands of roses only bring insignificant flowers because they are not treated right.

Now, what is the remedy for all this? Horticultural instruction! We must demand that horticulture be taught in schools and high schools, and that a number of horticultural colleges be established. We must ask everybody to help in this movement—the city government, the state, the federal government—and, if I am not mistaken, we shall be able to accomplish something in the near future. We are scrapping battleships. We are limiting the building of fortifications. Must we not build something else instead? We must build up the love for the land, the love for the country, the love for our homes—that love which prompts a man to stay on his property, however small and poor it may seem to others—the property where he saw his children born, where he planted his trees when he was young, where he grows his flowers. If we assist in this upbuilding we shall accomplish more, create more patriotism than ever warships or armies will accomplish. It is this love for a country which makes the country safe, makes it unconquerable.

windows at every season of the year; nearly every house has its little garden; flowers adorn the farmhouses in the country; the gardens of the rich contain valuable collections of plants, which are ably cared for.

I need not say that such conditions create a large demand for plants and flowers. Not only the larger florists do a good business, but also the smaller florist makes a decent living.

From Schools Up.

In the schools a spirit of competition in growing flowers is created and the schools have many expositions of flowering plants, which imbue the youngsters with a love for plants and flowers. Who is able to grow the best? Imagine the pride of a little girl from poor parents bringing in a beautiful plant and winning first prize!

I think it is our duty to help develop this love for flowers and plants, and show each and all people what can be done with flowers and how they make our life richer, how trees and shrubbery make our homes more attractive.

Conditions have already very much improved since I came to this country first, thirty years ago. But we are not doing enough. Let our horticultural associations get busy and our women's clubs. Let them create funds to appoint—let me call them horticultural preachers, who, armed with a great love plaining that we must awaken the vast multitudes to the realization of the needs of plants and shrubs and flowers; we must create in the minds of all a desire to improve themselves, their properties, their communities. This cannot be done by lectures before horticultural clubs and societies; those present there do not need to be awakened. It is the daily paper, the small local paper which must take this task to heart and this idea has been ably supported by the publicity campaign of the American Association of Nurserymen. In not less than 4,000 papers seasonable articles appear on planting and beautifying the home, articles ably written by F. F. Rockwell, articles which will greatly contribute to the development of horticulture. These articles improve every paper they are printed in.

Love for Trees.

One of the saddest features of the lack of horticultural training is the condition the trees are in, lining the streets in the cities. The authorities in charge evidently do not see the need of pruning when the trees are young and many trees could still be saved if they were treated right. If I compare the almost loving care which is bestowed on trees in European cities, how they are summer-pruned and winter-pruned until such time that they can

BATEK'S MARINELLIS.

Some years ago H. B. Marinelli began sending to the New York cut flower market a type of carnations of French Malmaison origin that were strikingly different from any other flowers the trade was using. Encouraged by the reception given, Mr. Marinelli offered the stock through The Review and the several named varieties soon became rather widely distributed; they now are listed in several of the trade catalogues as Marinelli carnations. They are characterized by great size, a globular form and remarkable lasting qualities. A. Batek, of Shermerville, Ill., is growing a quantity of the plants, the cut flowers reaching the Chicago market via A. T. Pyfer & Co. It was some of Mr. Batek's "Marinellis" that were seen at the national flower show at Indianapolis this week.

Tulsa, Okla.—The American Beauty Floral Co. uses as its slogan: "With Every Flower We Bring a Smile." The company was organized November 13, 1920, and has enjoyed a steadily prosperous retail business. G. W. ## TRIO TALK ON BULBS

BOSTONIANS DISCUSS BULBS.

Why and How.

At a meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, of Boston, Mass., March 21, bulbs and their culture were discussed by three able growers, Herman H. Bartsch, manager of the W. W. Edgar Co., Waverley, Mass.; Walter H. Golby, superintendent to Mrs. Edward O. Clark, Jamaica Plain, Mass., and W. N. Craig, of Boston.

In his lecture Mr. Bartsch said that of the three most important of the so-called Dutch bulbs, hyacinths, narcissi and tulips, the last-named were the most difficult to do well. Hyacinths and narcissi were comparatively easy to do well, he said, but the man wanting really good pans of tulips which were not too tall, too weak or too tight, had to do considerable studying. There were various methods of culture for tulips. For some years, he said, he had placed chief reliance on good, tight frames; they furnished nice stock, but sometimes mice would eat about half the bulbs and frost would break many pans, in addition. The best place to store bulbs was under cover, where they were frost-proof, and he now used a large storage shed and stood the pans on decks fifteen inches apart and ten tiers deep. About an inch of sand was placed below the pans. This caused the roots to reach downwards and not upwards. The sand was kept moist; burlap was hung around the decks of bulbs and sprayed once or twice a day to give necessary moisture. Treated thus, bulbs would not start so early as when covered with loam, sand or ashes, but gave satisfactory results. The storage shed was kept cool. On severe nights a little frost might get in; not sufficient, however, to harm anything.

Tulip pans, Mr. Bartsch said, were more favored than any other bulbs. The Darwins, which started to come into favor ten years ago, had made great strides. William C. Rust, of Brookline, about twelve years ago started the forcing of Darwins and showed fine Pride of Haarlem late in January. Darwins in pans could be had in fine condition from February 15 onwards and the retailers call for more and more each year. They last much longer than the early tulips, are more showy and in every way more satisfactory. Some varieties of Darwin cost no more than the early varieties. Bartigon, he said, was a splendid commercial Darwin of sturdy habit, of a fine color, and responded well to forcing. He started to grow William Pitt seven years ago; in February it did not come on well, but it had ample stem later and the color was fine. Pride of Haarlem was not now so popular; it came too tall in March. Farncombe Sanders was a good sort for late forcing and proved to be a splendid Easter sort. Forcing 75,000 tulips in pans, as his firm did, necessitated a lot of work.

Among the early tulips, Mr. Bartsch said, he was trying out Brilliant Star and it went far ahead of Vermilion Brilliant. Couleur Cardinal was good; also Flamingo and Mon Tresor. Cardinal Rampolla, orange, was fine; also Pink Beauty, Rose Luisante, Yellow Prince, Prince of Austria and White Hawk. Pelican was a beautiful sort and White Beauty was superb.

Some fine doubles for forcing, Mr. Bartsch said, were Couronne d'Or, Murillo, Golden Queen, Imperator Rubrum, Tea Rose, Toreador, Tournesol, La Grandesse and Murillo. The last named, a popular sort, came of a beautiful pink color if placed in a cool, dark place for a week when opening. He said that some other good Darwins for pan culture, in addition to those already named, were: Clara Butt, always popular with the best class of retailers; Dream, Gretchen, Salmon Queen, Mme. Krelage, William Copeland, Loveliness and Massachusetts.

The finest and most expensive tulips, Mr. Bartsch said, prove the least profitable to the grower. Few retailers were willing to pay anything extra for novelties and the margin of profit at wholesale was small. The bulbs for a good 10-inch pan would cost 65 cents to 75 cents and, when wholesaled as at present, at $1 per pan, the profit was too small; $1.25 would leave a reasonable profit. Mr. Bartsch likes a plan he had seen adopted in Chicago, where the grower was paid so much per flower and not per pan.

Regarding a suitable soil for tulips, he said he found a black, muck-like soil containing plenty of sand was good. One year he tried old chrysanthemum soil with some manure. The results were unsatisfactory.

Among hyacinths Mr. Bartsch said he found Gertrude still the best seller. Lady Derby, however, was of a fine shade. L'Innocence was the best white, although some still preferred La Grandesse; Queen of the Blues as a light blue, and King of the Blues, dark blue, were fine still. He said there were several good yellows, including City of Haarlem, Yellow Hammer and Prince of Haarlem. Garibaldi, Bismarck and Marconi were other good varieties of hyacinths.

Mr. Bartsch stated that among the narcissi Golden Spur still had a large sale in pans; Cervantes came in somewhat earlier. Princeps and Trumpet Major were all right to cut, but did not make good pans. King Alfred was a superb daffodil, but proved too tall for pan culture. It could not be forced early. If it could be flowered as early as Golden Spur, it would bring fancy prices in January. The old double Von Sion was still favored by many, although it looked coarse alongside of the single narcissi. Victoria, popular for cutting, does not make a particularly good pan. The forcing of so-called prepared bulbs for Christmas was much of a lottery. He did not believe there was any money in forcing tulips, hyacinths and narcissi for Christmas and, furthermore, he had not found that people were anxious to buy bulbs at that time. Several other flowers appealed to them more.

From Professional Viewpoint.

Walter H. Golby, speaking on bulb forcing from the viewpoint of the professional gardener, stated that he placed his flats and pans of bulbs outdoors under trees and watered well until housed, which was not until November. He stacked them up in tiers not so wide apart as Mr. Bartsch. Paper Whites, he said, he started below carnation benches, and Trumpet Major and Bacchus and Godet Parfait were all fine. Bouten d'Or, of the cottage tulip class, was fine for forcing. De Wet and Velvet King were breeders everyone should try.

Among the short trumpet narcissi, Mr. Golby said Seagull, Will Scarlet, Sir Watkin, White Lady, Firebrand and Barrii Conspicuus were specially useful. To use with these, myosotis, blue cinerarias of the stellata type, blue centaureas and the Spanish iris he found to be especially good and he felt that flowers such as these associated with the various short trumpet narcissi helped to bring out their real beauty.

Lilies for Forcing.

W. N. Craig spoke on liliiums mostly used for forcing, and showed pots of longiflorum formosum which carried

This lily arrived much later than formosum and enjoyed a good heat from start until finish. A point to remember in the culture of all lilies in pots was to use caution in watering after potting. He did not water any lilies after potting if the soil was fairly moist, and he said he preferred to allow soil to dry out well before soaking, and had always found it a safe plan to go lightly with watering until pots were well filled with roots. Too much water in the early stages of growth ruined many lilies.

Mr. Craig said a suitable soil for lilies consisted of three-fourths good rotted sod and one-fourth old mushroom manure or well decayed cow manure. Some sand could be added and was specially necessary in heavy soil. Old rose soil proved to be a good lily compost.

The various forms of L. speciosum, album, roseum, Melpomene, magnificum, Mr. Craig said, were all good for pot culture. He said that bulbs of these usually arrived in November, sometimes as late as December. These lilies and auratum seemed to do better in large pots containing several bulbs, rather than single bulbs in 6-inch pots. While cold storage bulbs of auratum and speciosum can be flowered for Thanksgiving or Christmas, the spikes entirely lack the vigor and the flowers the size of those carried on bulbs grown in the natural way. Pots should be placed in a cold cellar or frost-proof shed, or under the benches of houses where they will be free from drip, and both lilies much dislike hard forcing and are seen at their best from June until September in a cool greenhouse where the plants are protected from direct sunshine.

In closing his remarks, Mr. Craig said: "Other lilies useful for pot culture are L. Henryi and L. regale. The last named is a magnificent garden lily and makes a beautiful pot plant. As it is easily grown from seed here, it should soon be cheap enough for anyone to buy.

"I have left reference to L. candidum, the well known pure white hardy garden lily, to the last. This is far the most stately and immaculate of the white forcing lilies. The bulbs arrive from the north of France early in September and, as they start to make a rosette of leaves at once, should be potted without delay. Here again I find that in large pots or tubs these lilies do their best. After potting, place outdoors and protect merely from soaking rains. They are left out until November, by which time they have had several freezings. They force much better when this is done. They are kept in a cold pit until wanted for forcing. For Easter plants they are placed in a temperature of 50 degrees about December 15 and in order to have flowers in good size and substance the plants must be grown rather cool. L. candidum proves specially valuable in June for weddings, and to flower at that time the plants should not be placed in the greenhouse until early in March. I find all lilies when well rooted are benefited by occasional soakings of liquid manure, and Clay's fertilizer on candidum and longiflorum has given most excellent results. I entirely disapprove, however, of using anything like fresh manure in the soil or chemical fertilizers of any kind."

Peter Pearson Prominent at Chicago's West Side Exhibition.

Soleil d'Or narcissi, and Roman hyacinths were placed in heat about the middle of November. About the last of December French Golden Spurs, Dutch Golden Spurs and La Reine tulips were started. Among the narcissi he gave special attention to the Barrii, incomparabilis, Leedsii and poeticus sections, which had more grace than the big trumpet section. L'Innocence proved to be his most satisfactory early hyacinth. These early tulips, he said, proved fine for forcing: La Reine, Thomas Moore, Prince of Austria, Couleur Cardinal, Goldfinch, Yellow Prince, Schoonoord, Tea Rose, Pink Beauty, Le Rêve and Le Matelas.

Among the Darwins, Mr. Golby said William Copeland proved to be the best forcer, coming in as early as January 15. William Pitt was good. Princess Elizabeth was far the best pink; it carried many side shoots. Clara Butt was of a beautiful pink color. Mme. Krelage was a good stand-by. George V, growing twenty-four to twenty-eight inches high, he thought was a grand variety, but was too expensive yet commercially. Bartigon was good and Princess Mary was fine. More breeders should be grown; there were some beautiful varieties; Moonlight, Vulcane, forty buds and flowers on two stalks from one bulb in a 6-inch pot, as well as a pot of longiflorum carrying three to four flowers per stalk grown from small bulbs raised outdoors by F. W. Fletcher, at Orlando, Fla. The latter were clean and vigorous. He also showed seedlings 3 weeks old of L. regale and L. Willmottiae.

He said Harrisii, the one-time favorite Easter lily, was now almost a back number. It carried the finest flowers of all the longiflorum types, but, unfortunately, little healthy stock was now obtainable. He said L. longiflorum formosum was a fine form which came in much earlier than giganteum, grew taller, carried far more flowers per stalk and was much superior for cutting. It also proved clean. He had good success, he said, with this by potting and placing in coldframes covered with leaves and board shutters until well rooted and started. It then could be forced hard if wanted early, but was seen at its best in a temperature of about 50 degrees at night.

L. longiflorum giganteum, Mr. Craig said, was the variety mostly grown for Easter. The plant was a dwarf grower, too dwarf with many growers this season and the reverse of healthy.

CHICAGO'S WEST SIDE SHOW.

Flowers the Big Feature.

"Oh, is this going to be a flower show?" This interrogation, simultaneously chorused by a group of young people entering the scene of Chicago's West Town Exposition Monday night, March 27, shows that the flower section of the local loyalty exposition is accomplishing its purpose—interesting the public in flowers.

As one enters the Second Infantry armory, at 2653 Madison street, the building in which the local loyalty show is being held, the first thing to meet the eye is a good-sized electric "Say It with Flowers" sign that gleams on the end of an arbor, within whose length all the exhibits are placed, with the exceptions of the displays of H. N. Bruns, to the left, and Schiller's, to the right of the arbor.

Right under the electric sign is a neat poster bearing the name of Frank Oechslein. Mr. Oechslein's exhibit is certainly "a sight for sore eyes," and its comprehensiveness is a constant delight to the eyes that read each sign on every plant and flower. Among other plants and flowers Mr. Oechslein is showing Ficus elastica, Ficus pandurata, Spiraea Gladstone, Azalea Van der Cruyssen, Azalea Hexe, Sansevieria zeylanica, Cibotium Schiedeii, Couronne d'Or tulips, Dracaena Massangeana, Primula obconica, polypodiums, Nephrolepis Whitmanii, cinerarias, roses, sweet peas, jonquils, daisies, ferns, and many others.

A part of Mr. Oechslein's display is grouped about a pretty fountain that has been furnished for the occasion by the A. L. Randall Co.

The most admired features of the display by Peter Pearson, Chicago, are the tulips, although he is also showing a fine lot of cinerarias, stellata among them, and hydrangeas, along with other plants. He showed a brand-new tulip, which has been christened "Loyalty." This is a bi-flowering sport of a Darwin and can be described as a mottled brown and mahogany, mingled with wine red, with a number of red and white divisions. It has stability of stem and looks substantial. Another striking tulip shown is Bacchus, a deep, almost blood red, and St. Patrick, Mr. Pearson's green tulip.

Henry D. Neve, of Des Plaines, who started as a grower last June by erecting a house, 70x100, was on hand with a basket of English catkins, more than four feet in height and prettily spaced. Mr. Neve said that he is planning to force them, though those displayed were not forced. Out at Des Plaines Mr. Neve specializes in sweet peas.

The Wallace Floral Co., Chicago, is present with a large assortment of cut flowers and plants, including tulips, ferns, roses, etc. This company has co-operated to a great degree and did fine work in furnishing a number of requisites at the last moment.

The Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., has sent up a quantity of prepared foliage.

Others Who Helped.

H. N. Bruns has a tasteful display of pretty and seasonable baskets. A pamphlet is handed out at the booth, in which is outlined Mr. Bruns' career as a local florist, along with a few specialties and their prices.

Schiller the Florist showed some handsome baskets and bouquets. A basket for the new mother occasioned much comment, and another, "A Wilderness of Roses," was also an attraction. This firm had the decorations for the entire hall. Smilax was the principal item of the decorations.

August Jurgens, Ridgeland, Miss., sent some exceptionally fine jonquils and other bulbous stock for display.

The Premier Rose Gardens, Maywood, Ill., sent some splendid roses in the popular varieties.

A splendid lot of Premier roses are being displayed by the Weiss & Meyer Co., of Maywood.

The Wendland & Keimel Co., Elmhurst, has some fine roses in the varieties Premier, Columbia and Butterfly.

Butterfly roses of excellent quality are exhibited by the Dramm Greenhouses, Elmhurst.

Joseph Kohout, Libertyville, is displaying an excellent lot of Premier.

Considering the proximity and the temporal conflict caused by the show at Indianapolis, this show is, indeed, noteworthy and the committee, of which Paul Weiss is chairman, is to be congratulated. Other members of the committee are: A. Setterberg, Fred Lautenschlager, T. E. Waters, Herman Schiller, Otto Amling and Peter Pearson. John J. Walsh and Arthur Christensen were responsible for getting all the displays in place and they did it well, although it took practically two days to do it.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

THE customer who pays only when he has to is of little profit as a customer at all.

IN boom times the buyer hunts the seller. In dull times the seller must hunt the buyer, and his business prospers in proportion to his energy in the pursuit.

BUYERS no longer will tolerate some of the slack business habits which grew up during the war. There no longer is labor shortage or excuse for the neglect of details.

NOBODY knows who is John Kingdon Smith. If his statements are as uncertain as his identity, the F. H. B. will have a chuckle at the expense of those who swallowed the mossy "John Smith" just because a "Kingdon" was added.

THERE is needless lost motion in this industry because of the disintegration of large and successful greenhouse establishments at the death of the men who have built them up. So that the trade can go steadily forward, these establishments should be carried on and still others be built up.

COMPETITION for business is having the effect of placing more responsibility on the seller. The buyer today is able to pick and choose to such a degree that the seller who does not conform to the best standards, in business practice and in merchandise, will find himself and his wares neglected.

SLOWLY but surely the trade is returning to the standards of business morality which prevailed before the war. It is difficult for some people to realize that buyers no longer need stand treatment such as was tolerated during and just after the war, but competition eventually will eliminate those who do not deal satisfactorily.

SOME persons complain when they do not get a pat on the back for their work, grumbling for the "sweet word" that, in their eyes, promotes efficiency. If all work was done with this attitude, this would be a sad world. Their own consciousness of tasks well done spurs most people to further achievements. The "sweet words," if worth anything, will come unasked.

A SMALL booklet or folder telling customers how to care for cut flowers and house plants is valuable propaganda for any florist.

GLADIOLUS bulbs from known sources of supply are in excellent demand. There seems to be, really, no limit to the market possibilities, but it is necessary that the stock meet definite standards of quality. The day has passed when "anything will get by."

DANDELION greens grown under glass on Long Island are of sufficient commercial importance to entitle them to a recognized place in the produce market. The vegetable is shipped in 32-quart crates weighing fifteen pounds each, which sell at this time at $2.50 to $3 a crate, or 16 to 20 cents a pound wholesale.

THE LARGEST YET.

Many former records in The Review office have gone by the boards this season. This week goes the chief of all—that of the biggest issue ever published. The Easter number in 1920 contained 208 pages and cover; this week's issue comprises eight pages more, 216 and cover, a total of 220 pages.

Largest in size and in circulation of any horticultural trade publication, The Review owes its position to the realization of the trade that its service, to readers and to advertisers, is unequalled. That widespread realization, in turn, enables The Review to perform such service at a cost extraordinarily low—a subscription price that does not pay the postage, which is nearly 5 cents on this copy, and an advertising rate per thousand circulation which is the lowest obtainable.

THIS WEEK'S COVER.

This week the interest of the floricultural industry of this country centers at Indianapolis, where the fifth national flower show is being held. In the center of that city is the noted Soldiers' and Sailors' monument, which occupies what is known as the Circle. Appropriately, therefore, this monument typifies the focusing of the trade's interest on the capital of Indiana, and for this reason the famous piece of sculpture appears on the cover of this week's issue of The Review.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' monument at Indianapolis is one of the most noted examples of colossal sculpture in the country. This shaft, a memorial to the soldiers and sailors of the Civil war, is second in height only to the Washington monument at the national capital. It is in the exact center of the downtown business district of the city. When it was erected, it was the center of the entire city as well, but growth has been unequal in various directions, so that this point no longer holds. Close to the principal hotels of the city, the monument was admired by many of the florists who attended the national flower show.

NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY.

National Hospital day, May 12, which has been endorsed by President Harding, Surgeon-General Cuming, of the United States public health service, governors of many states and other leaders in public life, offers an opportunity to florists.

May 12 will be the second annual National Hospital day, and already in different parts of the country retailers are getting ready to capitalize this day.

It is expected that 4,000 hospitals throughout the United States and Canada will be visited by nearly half a million people May 12. Last year more than 250,000 people took advantage of the hospitals' invitation to come in and see how they care for the sick and unfortunate of the community.

Incidentally, florists who help to promote National Hospital day through the use of window displays and publicity calling attention to the event will profit by the good will of the hospitals, each of which represents a tremendous buying power, in addition to the good will of the community and of the patients and their friends.

The National Hospital day committee, 537 South Dearborn street, Chicago, will be glad to give additional information to any florist desiring to cooperate with the hospitals in this movement, which is purely for the education of the people to the importance and value of hospitals and hospital service.

HOW MANY FLOWERS?

Large manufacturers discuss with merchandising leaders and advertising experts what the possible extent of their output is and at what point saturation may be reached. It would seem that the saturation point in flowers is far, far away. In the eastern half of the country there are more florists in proportion to the population than farther west. Many towns having as few as 2,000 inhabitants provide all the business one florist can handle and one can recall many towns of 3,000 to 5,000 which give two florists all the work they can do. In the large cities it is calculated that, from the number of florists in the telephone directory, there is about one to each 4,000 or 5,000 inhabitants. No one, in his rosiest enthusiasm, has ever put the number of florists in this country above 20,000. In a country of 110,000,000 inhabitants, this indicates one florist to each 5,500 inhabitants. If 15,000 retail florists is nearer the mark, there would be one to about each 7,500 persons.

It is said that figures can be made to prove anything. But a glance at those presented here should indicate to any thinking person that the florists' business is only on the threshold of its opportunity in this country. As more aggressive sales methods and wider publicity educate the public into greater use of flowers, the demand for our product will be multiplied and the opportunity for able business men in this field will be much enlarged, though even today it is great.

THIRTEEN THOUSAND.

Thirteen thousand concerns in the trade now are subscribers to The Review. It is a rather large number, and the more you think about it the larger it seems. It accounts for letters like these:

Please stop my coleus ad; sold out for the season already.—George W. Mount, March 26, 1922.

In sending my check I will say The Review has no equal as a medium for moving stock.—George O. Overholser, March 27, 1922.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising, you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

OBITUARY

Henry Singler.

As the result of an automobile accident March 21, Henry R. Singler, of Morgan Park, Chicago, died March 23 without having recovered consciousness. Mrs. Singler also was so seriously injured that her life is despaired of, but their daughter, who was riding with them at the time, was only slightly hurt. It is said that the Singlers, whose home adjoins the greenhouses at 10707 Church street, were motoring toward the city along the heavily traveled Vincennes road and that a dog ran across their path at Ninety-seventh street. In the effort to avoid the dog Mr. Singler went too close to the tracks which parallel the motor pavement and they were struck by a swiftly moving trolley car going in the opposite direction. All three members of the family were taken to the Auburn Park hospital, where Mr. Singler died two days later. At the time of the funeral, March 25, his wife had not recovered consciousness.

Although one of the oldest florists in the southwestern part of Chicago in point of experience, Henry R. Singler was only 48 years of age. The greenhouses were established, under the name of Singler Bros., in Morgan Park many years before it was a part of Chicago, when market gardening was the principal industry in the neighborhood. Carnations and bedding plants were the firm's specialty. The business had been conducted for some time by Henry Singler individually.

Benjamin F. Rodman.

Benjamin F. Rodman, for many years gardener at the famous estates of the Rowland Hazard family, at Wakefield, R. I., died at his home on East street, Peace Dale, Thursday, March 16, after a short illness from pneumonia, his death occurring on the same day his wife's funeral took place. He was in his fifty-sixth year.

He was born at Wakefield, R. I., in 1866 and was a son of Robert Rodman and Mary (Gardner) Rodman. He was in charge of the Hazard estates for many years and was engaged in his duties up to the Saturday previous to his death. He is survived by a stepson, a brother and two nieces. He was a member of the local volunteer fire company and of the Junior Order United American Mechanics.

W. H. M.

Arthur W. Potter.

Arthur W. Potter, head gardener at the estate of Marsden J. Perry, Bleak House, Ocean avenue, Newport, R. I., died at his home there Friday morning, March 17, from double pneumonia, following a stroke of paralysis suffered a few days previously. Mr. Potter was 69 years of age, having been born at Colchester, Essex, England, in 1853.

In 1874 Mr. Potter came to this country and went directly to Newport, where he found employment in the gardens on the Gardner Brewster estate on Bellevue avenue. After serving a period there he returned to England, but later, in the early eighties, he returned to Newport, entering the employ of Hummick & Riggs, florists, on Bellevue avenue.

In 1890 Mr. Potter took charge of Ross R. Winan's estate as head gardener and superintendent, and after the death of Mr. Winan he remained in charge of the estate under the present owner, Mr. Perry.

Mr. Potter was well and favorably known, being a most kindly and agreeable man. The only organization with which he was affiliated was the Foresters of America. He leaves, besides his widow, three sons, one of whom, Walter H. Potter, was foreman for his father for many years, and a second, Arthur W. Potter, Jr., is head gardener at the estate of Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss; and three daughters. W. H. M.

Mrs. J. C. Moore.

Mrs. J. C. Moore, mother of Mrs. Minnie B. Hug, of the Austin Flower Shop, 623 North Cicero avenue, Chicago, passed away March 22, after a lingering illness, during which her daughter was in constant attendance. Services were held March 23, after which the body was shipped to Constantine, Mich., for burial.

Benjamin E. Thornton.

Benjamin E. Thornton died at his home, 33 Elm street, Methuen, Lawrence, Mass., March 19, after a brief illness. Mr. Thornton was born in Andover, but resided in Lawrence for the greater part of his life. He was one of the firm of florists which conducted the business known as Thornton Bros. for over forty years. The deceased conducted the growing end of the business.

Mr. Thornton is survived by his wife, Mary; one son, Benjamin E., of the firm of Thornton & Crouch; three daughters, Mrs. Daniel Collins, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Harry C. Brainerd; two sisters, Mrs. Harriet McLearn, Mrs. Martha Gould; and two brothers, Roswell C. and Frank D. Thornton.

The funeral was held March 22 at the home. Interment was in the family lot in Bellevue cemetery.

TORONTO, ONT.

The Market.

Stock is plentiful and of good quality. There is an abundance of bulbous stock, but roses are not too plentiful. The outlook for Easter is good. The reports from the greenhouses are encouraging and there will, in all probability, be lots of good stock for that day.

Club Doings.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Association held its regular meeting March 20, when Professor Macoun gave an excellent talk on native trees and shrubs for use in landscape gardening work. There was a large meeting and all members present listened with pleasure as Professor Macoun, who is the Dominion horticulturist, told of the experiments at the Dominion experimental farms, at Ottawa and elsewhere. Several new members were received. There was a good display of plants and ferns.

The membership committee of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association met at the clubrooms of the Toronto Retail Florists' Club, March 20. Harry Groves, of Hamilton, chairman, presided. Others present were Mr. Carr, of Oakville; Mr. Downing, of Kitchener; A. Simpson and S. A. McFadden, of Toronto.

A resolution was passed viewing with alarm the dismissal of Professor Crow from the Ontario Agricultural College.

Various Notes.

Fifteen Toronto florists started cooperative advertising last week, with good results. This week the advertisements contain the names of twenty florists. Others are ready to join next week. The advertising has stimulated buying, as the florists have received some excellent stock which they can sell at a reasonable rate. The growers are cooperating and Carl Grobba sent along an unsolicited check for $50 towards the advertising. The idea is to get the public to order a few flowers on Saturday, for their Sunday tables, and secure regular customers, thus creating the same situation as existed before the war.

Several Toronto florists took in the flower show at Indianapolis. Among them were J. H. Dunlop, Fred Miller, Joseph Weis, G. M. Geraghty, Mrs. Waters, Mrs. Barber and Mrs. Moore.

Carl Grobba will have a fine lot of lilies for Easter. The private bill fixing his assessment in the village of Mimico for a term of years was passed by the provincial legislature at Toronto, March 24. J. J. H.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Last week everyone who had flowers must have done well, as the demand was strong enough to keep the market clean and produce a sharp rise in prices, especially for carnations. There are reports of scarcity of stock, but there was no real shortage—the scarcity was only of the cheap flowers the buyers have learned to expect at this season of the year, there being enough of everything to satisfy the needs of all who were willing to pay prices in keeping with present costs of production.

It was, however, a most unusual condition for mid-Lent. "Where are the spring crops?" It was a question asked hundreds of times by buyers accustomed to see the market overloaded in the vernal season. That flowers are in reduced supply over the greater part of the central states was apparent from the orders received. The growers appear to be timing their crops for the later Easter, although it must be considered that the market for flowers has broadened year after year without a corresponding recent increase in the production. Also, general business is showing the increased activity which always comes in the spring, and it unquestionably is helping all florists.

The special feature of last week's market was the demand for, and consequent rise in price of, carnations. Buyers protested at the advances made without notice, but they continued to order, with the result that prices went up another notch. Saturday found the market stiffer than on any preceding day in the week. Monday always is a busy day in this market, much more so than Tuesday. Sometimes Wednesday and Thursday are dull, but usually there is a daily increase in activity after Tuesday. Wholesalers are looking for a drop in carnations, but it had not appeared up to March 27.

Roses have been, relatively, in better supply than carnations. There has been plenty of fine stock for all who could pay from 20 cents up, but the bulk of the demand is for shorter stems and the lowest grades advanced in price without affecting the price of the specials. Columbia, the most generally grown rose here, has been off crop. The bulk of the offerings, therefore, have been Premier.

Early tulips are passing, but Darwins continue plentiful. Valley is abundant, as are giganteums and callas. Jonquils from southern Illinois, arriving in considerable quantity, show the near approach of spring. Sweet peas are plentiful and many of them are excellent. Lupine is good and snapdragons of better quality are appearing. Violets are passing, but it matters little. Good calendulas are selling well.

The present week opened with a new set of conditions and the outcome is not yet apparent. Warmer weather and the passage of time resulted in a noticeable increase in supply, especially of roses but also of carnations. Sunday was a wet, disagreeable day over nearly all the middle west, a day on which few florists sold the stock bought Saturday. Monday was the same. The result was a marked reduction in demand; city business was dead and shipping was much lighter than usual. The result was a softening of prices, although there are some who believe the market will stiffen as soon as the weather clears.

Chicago at the Show.

Chicago has been strongly represented at the big show at Indianapolis this week. Two parlor cars on the Monon train Sunday night were filled by the party which went down for Chicago day, March 27, and in the baggage car ahead were scores of boxes containing special exhibits. But the Chicago attendance was by no means measured by the delegation led by W. J. Keimel and his Chicago day committee; dozens went ahead with exhibits and many followed on the early days of this week.

Visitors to the show began returning several days ago. All speak in warm praise of the size and quality of the show, but it is apparent the members of the trade who spend more than a day or two at Indianapolis are limited practically to those who are greeting customers.

Gould and the Peonies.

Leo Gould, of Gould's Nursery, Onarga, Ill., was in town last week for a conference with Eric Johnson, of the A. L. Randall Co., who markets his firm's annual crop of peonies. The Goulds deserve the title of the peony kings of America, as they are much the largest producers of cut blooms. They are bringing in a new southern farm this year, a Mississippi plantation which will give a thousand dozens for Easter. Then will come the Mothers' day cut from forty-seven acres at Halls, Tenn., followed by a Memorial day crop at Grayville, Ill., an early June crop at Onarga and a late crop at Oconomowoc, Wis. This might be considered as covering the peony season, but the Goulds have in mind a sixth farm, to be planted up near the Canadian border, which would prolong the season into midsummer.

Charles Grabig Sells Out.

Charles Grabig has sold his business and leased his store building and conservatory at 1843 Irving Park boulevard, to J. Hutmacher and wife, who recently disposed of their south side place, the Washington Park Flower Shop, 558 East Sixty-third street, to Howard A. Muir. Mr. Grabig has been in the florists' business in Chicago for thirty-five years, the last fifteen of them at the present stand, where he has acquired a competence and the desire to take a rest. Mrs. Hutmacher is the daughter of F. W. Heckenkamp, the well known florist at Quiney, Ill.

Various Notes.

Greenhouse building, while not especially active in the Chicago district, is on the boom in the middle west. R. E. Kurowski, general manager of the John C. Moninger Co., says his company has booked more orders in the first three months of 1922 than were booked in the first four months of last year.

A. L. Randall and his brother, Webster, were called to West Springfield, Pa., last week by the death of their mother, at an advanced age.

A store will be opened opposite the Drake hotel by Easter time by M. Bokedis, formerly in the employ of Mangel's. His fixtures will be furnished by the A. L. Randall Co.

Fourteen members of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association were in the party to Indianapolis March 26.

Bassett & Washburn have planted 2,000 of the Montgomery-Pierson rose, Priscilla, also 2,000 of Angelus, and are cutting a few blooms from the young stock. Mr. Washburn thinks pink is overdone and that the need is for good white and other colors.

H. L. Keun, 6850 Wentworth avenue, has a new Ford with an attractively lettered panel body.

The death of Henry Singler, of Singler Bros., as the result of an automobile accident, is reported in this week's obituary department.

Accompanied by A. M. Anderson, Charles Manhoff and Arthur Hanson, F. M. Johnson drove the new Packard to Indianapolis, March 25.

"The Romance of Your Easter Lily" has been reprinted in poster form and a copy mailed to a large list of florists by the A. B. C. The inscription was: "This should be a good sales help—paste it in your window."

John Weiland, Jr., is soon to open a store of his own, on Howard avenue, near Sheridan road, and has placed an order for Randall fixtures for it.

The Kansas City division of the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., in charge of W. S. Dolan, reports a revival of western building. Mr. Dolan has just booked an order for R. V. Davis, Wheatridge, Colo., for two steel-frame houses, each 39x200 feet.

P. L. McKee, president of the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., says prices on greenhouses are at low ebb and, with the increased building activity now panied by Mrs. Nichols, was here several days, combining business and pleasure.

O. H. Carlson and R. A. Latham, of Minneapolis, devoted March 25 to an inspection of the market.

Hans Tobler, of Three Rivers, Mich., was here on a flying trip, buying supplies. "Business is just great," he says; "we have all we can do."

Frank Stuppy and his brother-in-law, Dr. Murphy, of St. Joseph, Mo., and Glenn Parker, of Kansas City, were here

March 25 and 26, on their way to Indianapolis.

The Market.

Business continues to hold up surprisingly well. Hot weather March 26, following a clear but cool week, increased supplies materially and softened prices a little, but the general market tone is remarkably good and supplies are still well cleaned up. We are now getting so near Easter that there is little likelihood of any glut period before that great holiday. Retailers are all doing a good business and this is the more surprising with strikes prevalent in the great textile industries all over New England. It all goes to show how strong a hold flowers now have on the public.

Roses have continued to clean up well in spite of the increased supplies. The heat wave of March 26 caused some recession in prices, however. Quotations average a little higher than a week ago. Carnations continue to sell well, with Laddie up to $10 and other varieties from $4 to $6. Rosalia, Rosette and Maine Sunshine have been making $6 to $8. Violets are slacking up and singles are near the end, with values from 50 cents to $1 per hundred. There are great numbers of remarkably fine sweet peas and $2 now buys the best. The finest color seen is Zvolanek's Rose.

Bulbous material holds up extremely well in price and there is no surplus to sell at ruinous prices, as in former years, of either tulips or narcissi. There are moderate-sized quantities of Spanish iris, which sell at $3 per dozen. Snapdragons are not seen in great numbers yet and so far have sold well. Yellow marguerites and bachelor's buttons are arriving more freely; so are other miscellaneous flowers.

Lilies are low in price. Callas also are selling rather cheaply. Pansies are on the wane, although a good many still come in.

Supplies of cut acacia are nearing the end. Valley has been selling better. Cattleyas are not selling particularly well. A good number of Mossiae are now available. There is a fair supply of gardenias.

Pot plant trade continues good, with Darwin tulips, roses in variety, hydrangeas, ericas and genistas the leaders. Some good calceolarias also are offered, as well as late cinerarias and Azalea Kaempferi.

Club Meeting.

There was a splendid attendance at the monthly meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, March 21. The banquet committee report showed a substantial balance on hand. It was voted to offer $25 in prizes for the annual exhibition of the American Sweet Pea Society, June 24 and 25. One new member was elected. Exhibits included a collection of Darwin tulips in pans from the W. W. Edgar Co., awarded honorable mention; a display of isolomas, from Harvard Botanical Gardens; formosum lilies and seedling lilies from Florida bulbs, from W. N. Craig, who also showed a collection of narcissi. Walter H. Golby showed a collection of tulips and narcissi and James Donald a fine vase of Carnation Laddie.

Eugene M. Naukam, secretary of the New England Florists' Alliance, who was present, made a short address on the progress being made by the society and received a hearty reception. Secretary Craig reported that there would be a lecture by Prof. C. L.

Thayer, of Amherst, April 18, and at the May meeting Harold L. Frost, of Arlington, would be the lecturer. Addresses were made on "Bulbous Plants," by Herman H. Bartsch, from the commercial standpoint, and by Walter H. Golby from the viewpoint of the professional gardener. W. N. Craig spoke on "Lilies for Greenhouse Culture." Good discussions followed the several practical talks.

received a basket of flowers March 25, presented by Eugene M. Naukam, secretary of the New England Florists' Alliance, on behalf of the S. A. F. at Indianapolis, and issued a formal invitation to the national organization to meet in Boston in 1924, by which time a new park system would be developed. The mayor, with the consent of the donors, bestowed the flowers on a baby, present at the time in his office with her mother, who had just won a beauty contest.

William T. Walke, of Salem, has a splendid lot of lilies, hydrangeas and roses for Easter. He has the finest commercial lot of amaryllis in New England, the strain being a remarkably fine one.

Rocco Zeparo, formerly grower at the Bay Street Greenhouses, Taunton, has acquired the Winter Street Greenhouses, Arlington. After the present crops of vegetables are cleared he will plant all his houses with chrysanthemums.

Prof. Clark L. Thayer, of Amherst, spent March 24 and 25 in and around Boston with a class of floricultural students. They visited the flower show, wholesale markets, retailers, parkways, arboretum and leading commercial growers.

Frank Leith, formerly in the commercial business at Haverhill, has assumed charge of the Francis Blake estate in Auburndale.

The William W. Edgar Co., of Waverley, are first in the market with a fine lot of Lilium candidum. They have many thousands of giganteum just right for Easter.

the Indianapolis show were unusually few in numbers. With exhibitions in New York and Boston, growers seemed to find no time to go farther afield. All who went came back enthusiastic.

Among the growers who specialize in bulbous plants, William A. Riggs, of Auburndale, ranks high and he showed an ability to hold his own with the most skillful private growers at the recent spring exhibition.

Neal E. Boyle, of Malden, has as fine a lot of giganteum lilies as anyone in this section. Out of 8,500 bulbs he only had 650 diseased ones, a much smaller proportion than other growers. He is now growing Columbia more than any other rose and says it is the best money-maker.

All members of the trade are reminded of the meeting of the New England Florists' Alliance April 1. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock at the City Club. Any who do not come in time for dinner can come to the regular meeting, commencing at 8 o'clock. A large and representative attendance is looked for.

Among recent visitors were Chester Jay Hunt, of New Jersey; W. E. Cahill, representing Roman J. Irwin, New York; N. C. Osborn, Hartford, Conn., and John C. Wister, Philadelphia.

During the heavy snow storms of the winter of 1920-21 the greenhouses at the Arthur F. Coolidge establishment, in Cambridge, for many years a noted growing range, collapsed under the weight of snow. March 23 the whole estate was sold at auction and the land will be used for building lots.

Walter H. Golby is confined to his bed with a severe attack of pleurisy. Mrs. Golby is also on the sick list.

F. E. Palmer, of Brookline, is cutting some hardy delphiniums.

With a shade temperature of 80 degrees, March 26 proved to be the warmest day of the year. Ice on ponds and in woods is rapidly disappearing and spring bulbs are commencing to bloom.

There will be a great show of native ferns and native flowers, including shrubs, herbs and bulbous subjects, in Horticultural hall May 4 to 11. This show, it is believed, will prove even better than the grand display of native orchids in May, 1921, which attracted 25,000 visitors.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Aided by perfect weather, the market has shown strength. Last week was good throughout and at the close there was little stock left, less than on any preceding Saturday in March. Excellent quality and moderate prices helped to make flowers popular. While shipping was brisk, the local demand was the chief factor in the result, the city buying being particularly heavy Saturday, March 25.

The carnation crop is going off. The price on really good carnations has, in consequence, held more firmly than on other flowers. Sweet peas experienced active trading at prices that are considered moderate. It is thought that the poor demand for orchids is due to the extremely fine peas being much used in their place. As the orchid crop is going off, rivalry now is not serious for the tropical beauty.

Roses of moderate price are in excellent demand, but there are few orders for fancy roses. Large quantities

CATTLEYAS. We have always filled our Cattleya orders for Easter, and we expect to do so again this year. You can depend on us for a good grade of flowers, and carefully packed.

GARDENIAS and WHITE LILAC. These are two items that we specialize in, and for Easter we expect to have a big supply of them.

SNAPDRAGON is another item that we recommend to you, and we have some extra fine stock to offer you. It is inexpensive and makes a big showing.

YELLOW DAISIES. Very desirable for corsage work. Don't omit them from your order, and you will find that there is a good demand for Yellow Daisies.

DELPHINIUM BELLADONNA. A Novelty that we will have in quantity. There is no other flower in blue that makes the same showing as Delphinium, and for so early in the season it is quite a novelty.

Place your order early, as there will be a demand for all the cut flowers that the market will produce for Easter.

of snapdragons are being marketed daily. Daffodils are popular, with Emperor in the lead. There is activity in greens.

Easter Flowers.

There is a general feeling in the wholesale market that cut flowers will be popular this Easter. There is strong reason for the belief that, even should the weather become warm, the quality will be good and that the stock will give satisfaction. The wholesalers are not keen about shipping orders for cut Easter lilies. They will accept these orders and fill them with fine stock, but the disposition on the part of the growers to count every bud and on the part of the buyers to count no green buds makes their lot an unhappy one. They would rather sell valley, now moderate in price, sweet peas, roses and carnations. They think that, with the possible exception of orchids and violets, they can fill orders in good shape.

The Big Event.

There is an air of suppressed excitement pervading floricultural circles. The national flower show is on at Indianapolis and some good stock has gone thereto. Word was passed around that

Their new rose, Celestial, won the gold medal for the best new variety and also the American Rose Society silver medal.

The Joseph Heacock Co., with five varieties—Hadley, Crusader, Pilgrim, Ophelia and Butterfly—had seven entries, capturing seven first prizes, a marvelous record.

Grading Roses.

Peirce Myers has put into operation for his firm, Myers & Samtman, a system of grading roses by inches instead of by names that may not be uniform.

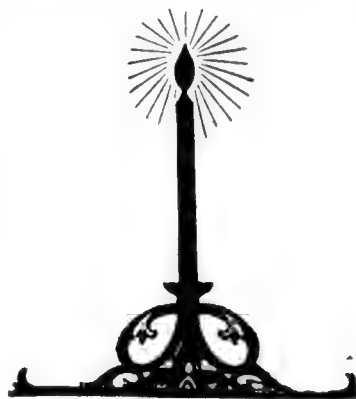

His grades are ten inches, fifteen inches, twenty inches, twenty-four inches and twenty-seven inches. The firm's customers find the method satisfactory, because they can tell what they are getting, whereas the length of stem of a special, an extra or a first is not necessarily binding.

Various Notes.

The Bickmore Greenhouses have probably the most wonderful collection of bulbs on their place, at Wallingford, Pa., that have ever been flowered there at Easter. They have 60,000 hyacinths, daffodils and tulips in pots and pans. Their lilies, giganteum and formosum, are extremely fine. They also have good roses, hydrangeas, ferns and miscellaneous plants.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., has sent an exhibit of choice stock from Riverton to Indianapolis.

Rutherford W. King is planning to erect two greenhouses, 50x200 feet each, on his place, at Holmes, Pa.

18. The business will be continued by Richard Umphried, under the name of Fox's Floral Shop. The store, which is on Broad street above Thompson street, is that formerly conducted by Charles Fox.

William K. Harris sent a choice exhibit of bird's-nest ferns to Indianapolis.

Edmund Dornheim will devote himself to his retail store at Sixtieth and St. Catherine streets.

James W. Heacock, Robert Jamison and William Lausterer have gone to the national show.

Robert A. Craig says that the roses of the Robert Craig Co. are the best Easter rose plants he has ever seen.

Charles Henry Fox will speak on "An Analysis of the Flower Business," with practical illustrations, before the Florists' Club at the Adelphia, Tuesday evening, April 4, at 8 o'clock.

Joseph S. Myers, Martin Samtman and Clarence Upton left for Indianapolis March 26.

Recent visitors were John Small, Jr., of J. H. Small & Son, Washington, D. C.; Harry O. May, Summit, N. J.; Harvey Sheaf, of Mrs. E. A. Williams, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa., and George Shaffer, of Washington, D. C.

The Sydney H. Bayersdorfers are going to the land of the midnight sun.

William Berger's Sons held a special daffodil sale Saturday, March 25. Seventy-five cents per dozen was the price. Electricity was the magnet to "Say It with Flowers."

Captain George C. Thomas won the gold medal with his fine rose at Portland, Ore., last week.

William K. Harris has a wonderful block of Easter lilies. They are as near perfection as it is possible to grow them. By the way, through an unfortunate mix-up two weeks ago some of these lilies got where they are not—in 4-inch pots—all are in 6-inch pots. It was part of the genistas that were intended for the 4-inch pots. They disappeared altogether. As a matter of fact, these genistas, both in 4-inch pots and in 6-inch pots, are much too good to be slighted.

John R. Andre, George Burton and William A. Geiger have gone to the big gathering at Indianapolis.

Robert Crawford, Jr., has, I regret to say, suffered a stroke. Mr. Crawford is one of the oldest retail florists in this city. His illness will awaken widespread sympathy. His son, M. M. Craw-

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

Business last week was good and stock of all kinds has cleaned up nicely each day. Roses and carnations were scarce all through the week and carnations sold as fast as they came into the wholesale houses. Sweet peas are coming into the market in large quantities at prices ranging as low as $7.50 per thousand to $2 per hundred.

Orchids have been plentiful and some of them were sold as low as $25 per hundred. American Beauty roses are good and can be had at from $6 to $9 per dozen. Easter lilies are plentiful at $20 and $25 per hundred for the best, although some could be had for $15 per hundred.

Snapdragon is extra fine and the supply was pretty well used up. This is always popular at this time of the year. A large quantity of jonquils have been coming in from the south and are selling at an average of $10 per thousand. The quality of these flowers is poor. At the same time, some fine local jonquils were to be had at prices ranging from $4 to $8 per hundred. There has been a considerable demand for tulips and these are bringing good prices.

Various Notes.

The automobile show at Convention hall was responsible for the sale of a large amount of stock. This was true particularly of rambler rose bushes, which are excellent in quality and are meeting with a ready sale at from $2 per plant up. Some of the specimen plants brought as high as $7.50 at wholesale. These were used in decorating the hall and many orders were placed by individual automobile shops and accessory stores for these plants to be used as decorations. Magnolia branches are to be had and these sold for use at the show. This activity was also responsible for a heavy demand being made for southern smilax.

A. Gude Sons Co. took advantage of the large display of amaryllis at the government greenhouses to move a great many plants of the same flower. Mr. Gude states that the plants were bought by the retailers as fast as they came into the store. A great deal of publicity was given to the department's show and this made possible the sale of the plants in the retail establishments.

William F. Gude, of Gude Bros. Co., accompanied by the Misses Amelia and Wilhelmina Gude, represented Washington at the national flower show, at Indianapolis. They left Washington Friday evening, March 24, for Cincinnati and intended visiting also Richmond, Ind., before going to the show. On the same train was Richard Vincent, of White Marsh, Md.

Elmer C. Mayberry, of the Du Pont Flower Shop, was on the sick list last week, being confined to his home with the "flu."

sent to him with the compliments of the mayor of Indianapolis. The basket was made up of Butterfly roses and King Alfred jonquils. At the same time a large basket of American Beauty roses was presented to the commissioner of the District of Columbia, Cuno Rudolph, better known as "Washington's mayor," and another basket of mixed stock of spring flowers on the first real day of spring was similarly sent to Crawford C. McCullough, of Fort William, Ontario, president of the International Rotary, who is here for the meeting of the fifth district of Rotary. These two baskets were also presented with the compliments of the Indianapolis mayor, and were transmitted by William F. Gude, of Gude Bros. Co.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

One naturally expects to find dullness throughout the whole of the Lenten season, but such is not the case in this city up to the present time. Stock during the last week has been more plentiful than it was a week ago. Although the weather during the first half of the week was far from pleasant, the latter half brought forth considerable sunshine, and stock became more plentiful.

Bulbous stock continues to arrive in good supply and clears each day. Sweet peas are quite plentiful. Violets are fairly plentiful, but are poorer in quality. Cattleyas and cypripediums are in fair supply. Valley is plentiful and sells well. Roses are in good supply and the quality keeps up well. There is a good crop of carnations on just now.

Various Notes.

The A. W. Gilman seed store reports satisfactory seed business so far this spring, and says that the outlook appears to be most encouraging.

G. E. McCoy, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, called on the trade last week. Miss Margaret Kratz, of Henry Morris, of Syracuse, N. Y., was also a visitor.

Edwin P. Wilson, of the H. E. Wilson store, reports unusually good business during the last two weeks, mainly in pot flowers and funeral work. The greenhouses are well stocked with flowers and plants, which will be in readiness for Easter.

An advance Easter flower show was held at the Lamberton conservatories, in Highland park, Sunday, March 26. The park band played selections of music during the afternoon. Large crowds of people attended, despite the fact that the weather was inclement.

John Vick, of Charlotte, N. Y., reports good business at this time and looks for a good, brisk Easter trade.

Harry Brush reports satisfactory business during the two weeks that his store has been open.

Joseph Murphy, of the sales force of George B. Hart, has been confined to his home for the last ten days with sickness, but he is making good progress towards recovery.

BRITISH TOMATO CAMPAIGN.

The growers of tomatoes under glass in Great Britain have organized the British Glasshouse Produce Marketing Association, Ltd., to carry on an advertising campaign in behalf of their product. Their total annual production is estimated at 80,000,000 pounds. It is planned to raise a fund of $60,000 for the first season under an assessment of 1 penny, or 2 cents, per package of twelve pounds to the extent of a maximum of twenty-five pounds, or roughly $125 per acre of glass area. The large London newspapers will be used, posters will be placed in subway stations, and show cards will be hung in stores.

At the meeting at which the association was formed, Major Munro, telling of the advertising done by the central committee of the National Federation of British Growers in behalf of the fruit growers, said: "Last year we saw the green gooseberry coming rather low in price. We sent out posters throughout England. Within a week of the poster the gooseberry had doubled its price. This year oranges were down to 13 and 14 shillings a case. I got a poster out on the efficacy of orange juice for combating influenza. I also got a lot of letters written by doctors bearing out the same opinion. Three days after that poster was issued, oranges, although we were getting considerably more in, went up to 20 and 22 shillings. That shows what can be done in England."

FOR SALE

A place in one of the finest suburbs of Chicago that can safely be called one of the best establishments in the country doing a retail and wholesale florists' business, is to be sold. A sound, successful business that has thrived for forty years, serving a high-class retail trade and doing wholesale business with Chicago's leading florists.

Everything is new and in the best of condition, the entire place having been rebuilt recently and new equipment installed. There are eight new and modern Moninger iron-truss greenhouses covering 30,000 square feet, equipped with a new heating plant and devoted to a general line of pot plants. The spacious store is equipped along modern lines with new fixtures and is connected to the greenhouses by a large, well arranged service building. At the rear of the range is a fine 10-room residence and a heated garage big enough for six cars. There are three motor trucks and all other necessary equipment. In addition there are thirteen 50-foot city lots next to the store and greenhouses.

It is situated on a busy thoroughfare that divides two large suburbs of Chicago that are populated with the flower-buying class of people. It is not far from several very large cemeteries, there are railroads, Chicago elevated railroads and trolley lines and many other things that make for an ideal location. The amount of business that can be done is limited only by production, for there is a ready market for all that could be produced in a place two or three times larger.

Offering for sale a florists' business of as high standing as this one is not a common occurrence, and it presents a rare opportunity to a person who has enough capital and knows the florists' business. This is a big proposition and will require a large amount of cash. Replies are wanted only from persons who command a good amount of capital, and such persons will be supplied with full particulars on request.

ROSE ANNUAL OUT.

The 1922 American Rose Annual, which is just being mailed out, includes 192 pages of text, plus sixteen inserted sepia plates and two color plates, the frontispiece being a double-sized plate of a rose, not yet introduced.

Inasmuch as the members of the society make the American Rose Annual by their contributions and experience, it closely reflects the growing rose spirit of America. In 1922 there are some outstanding features. Three articles on backyard rose gardens, beginning on page 32, tell the story of success under unfavorable conditions. A symposium, participated in by all the important rose hybridizers of America and by many amateurs, tries to answer the question, "What New Roses Does America Need?"

"Experience and Possibilities in Local Rose Shows" is the subject of four articles beginning on page 60. The preparation of the soil in which roses are to prosper has been discussed by two authorities, and there is also an interesting suggestion as to a clearing house for rose information.

Responding to many requests, there is presented a complete compendium of information concerning insects and diseases that bother roses, probably the best and most useful information of the sort ever provided in America.

Reports of the society's test gardens, observations concerning roses abroad, an accurate list of all the new roses of all the world, an intelligent account of the new English roses by the secretary of the National Rose Society of England, and a thoughtful survey of the rose cut-flower situation, carry on the breadth of the book. There are, as well, many interesting rose notes provided by the members, and a dozen or more additional articles, all original and all forceful. The life and work of America's greatest rosarian and plant hybridizer, Dr. Walter Van Fleet, are presented in a symposium of appreciation.

One of the authoritative features in the book is the list of American roses, covering considerably more than a century of observation, and cross-indexed, so as to be both convenient and informative. It even takes account of the Mary Washington rose, which is said to be a rose raised from seed by George Washington at Mount Vernon, and by him named in honor of his mother.

One of the color plates is of a lovely rose which, though raised near Philadelphia, has recently received three gold medals at the closely contested test conducted at Portland, Ore.

The annual is thoroughly indexed.

LARGE POSSIBILITIES.

The possibilities in the wholesale plant business are greater than most florists appreciate. This is a large country and over great sections of it the demand for plants exceeds the florists' facilities for propagation. The result is that a large business awaits those who grow good stock and offer it in the Classified section of The Review. Like this:

Please change my ad as enclosed. I am sending checks back because I did not expect this demand and did not prepare enough stock.—H. J. Potomkin, Muncie, Ind., March 18, 1922.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising, you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

BOSTON'S SPRING SHOW.

Bulb Classes Featured.

The schedule of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society for the spring show, which opened March 23, contained nothing but bulb classes. These in themselves do not make a show sufficiently interesting to enthuse the general public, but groups and displays of miscellaneous flowering and decorative plants gave the show the needful variety to make it interesting. All exhibits were staged in the main hall and loggia, the show being of not over half the dimensions of the preceding years.

The attendance was far below that of former years, and if, instead of charging a small admission fee, the show had been made free throughout, it would have attracted thousands of visitors and been productive of far more good. The bulbs shown were of remarkably fine quality, the best ever seen in Boston, and attracted much interest from visitors. Allen J. Jenkins, superintendent to Mrs. Homer Gage, Shrewsbury, Mass., staged the early bulb garden. It received a gold medal and $200. A cedar hedge surrounded it, higher plants being used at the sides of the four entrances. Forsythias and Azalea Kaempferi were effectively used at the back of the borders, the balance being occupied by a fine assortment of well grown tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and Spanish iris. The edgings were of polyanthus. The garden plan was well conceived and reflected much credit on Mr. Jenkins.

Splendid Displays.

There was a splendid show of 12-inch pans of hyacinths. For six pans competition was strong. First place went to Peter Arnott, gardener to E. I. Webster, for General de Wet, Electra, King of the Blues, Czar Peter, Lady Derby and City of Haarlem; second prize went to William Thatcher, gardener to Mrs. J. L. Gardner.

Ever Been Called "The Original Iceberg?"

Made you hopping mad, didn't it?

Well, I'm not mad. Just sorry. Sorry somebody got us mixed with somebody else.

Here are the facts.

The florist who called us that, came to New York, expecting to call on us; and going up Fifth Avenue, by mistake, went into one of the most ultra of the ultra flower shops.

He was given such a chilly reception that he had to turn up his coat collar to keep his ears from being frosted.

He went back home and wrote us a letter, saying that it might be all right for us to talk in our Ads. about my $5 Hobby Box, but unless he had a fur coat, ear lappers and felt boots, he would never dare come in our shop again with less than $50 in his jeans.

Of course, I promptly wrote him exactly what you would have written him.

Happy to say, back came a most cordial letter, saying how "pleased he was to know that the Stumpp he thought he knew by his Ads. was the very same Stumpp when you got to know him."

All of which reminds me what Suko the Jap says—"Ice, Meester Stumpp, he very fine to keep the flower; but he no good for to make much customer feel good when he in come your shop."

peas and a new seedling rose of a fine orange color. L. D. Towle showed a glorious and huge plant of Azalea indica alba, awarded a silver medal; also, a group of Pink Pearl rhododendrons, marguerites and acacias. George F. Stewart in his group had clivias, bulbous plants and some fine azaleas.

J. B. Reardon, from the Harvard Botanical Gardens, had a group of isolomas and a table of Lantana Sellowiana. Henry Stewart had a pair of big specimen Dendrobium nobile. L. C. Seagrove, gardener for R. M. Saltonstall, had a nice group of schizanthus, cinerarias and lachenalias. From the Walter Hunnewell estate, T. O. Hatfield had a pleasing group of the new azalea, Louisa Hunnewell, and another of Azalea Kaempferi.

From E. S. Webster came a display of rare and grandly flowered orchids, including Brassocattleya Cliftoni, variety Sir John French, Sophrocattleya Brilliant, Cymbidium Gottianum, Laeliocattleya Momus, Laeliocattleya luminosa aurea, Odontoglossum Cleopatra

C. Warburton, Fall River, Mass., had a vase of a promising new scarlet carnation, named Remington Red. James Marlborough had a superb vase of Laddie and John L. Smith one of assorted flowers, all of superior size. H. R. Comley, the Park street retailer, made his usual fine display of baskets of flowers, corsages, etc., and also showed some handsome cibotiums. E. E. Randall had a display of his new plant supports, which attracted much favorable notice.

In connection with the show there was a largely attended conference of New England members of the National Association of Gardeners March 24. Robert Cameron presided and W. N. Craig acted as secretary. Members were present from Newport, New Bedford, Worcester, Ipswich, Manchester, Wellesley and other points and many matters of interest were discussed, some arrangements for the national conven-

Washington, N. J., October 11 and 12.
Paterson, N. J., October 13 and 14.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

Last week there was little change over the week previous. Prices changed little and during a great part of the week market quotations remained stationary. All spare time from now on will be used in preparation for Easter. Stock of all kinds was plentiful all last week, but it moved satisfactorily daily.

Roses are coming in finely and are of fine quality. Premier, Ophelia, Butterfly and Russell hold top prices in the fancy grades. White Killarney cleans up well each day. In other grades prices do not hold so well, as the consignments were too heavy.

Carnations are holding up better in price than in any previous year. Violets show the effects of the warm spell and their season will end long before Easter if it keeps up. The same is true of bulbous stock of all kinds, as the market at present is loaded up with everything in season in the bulb line. Sweet peas are fine and many. Butterfly holds up well in price, but the short stock is jobbed off cheaply. Easter lilies are fine and reports are that they will be in plenty for Easter, in both cut stock and plants.

Valley and orchids are not in brisk demand at present. Callas, too, promise to be plentiful for Easter. Other stock coming in daily consists of tulips, calendulas, freesia, jonquils, irises, pansies and snapdragons.

In greens we are well supplied daily and the demand cleans up.

Various Notes.

The St. Louis Flower Growers' Publicity Association will hold an important meeting Tuesday afternoon, April 4, at publicity headquarters. Special notices are being prepared by the secretary. All growers contributing to this fund are members of this association. These are requested to attend, as there is a great deal of important business to transact, including the election of officers and nine directors. The meeting will open promptly at 2 p. m.

L. P. Jensen, arboriculturist at the Missouri Botanical Garden, left March 25 for Indianapolis to attend the national flower show. Arthur Jensen, his son, who is with Grimm & Gorly, accompanied him. Owing to pressure of business, both expected to return March 28.

The St. Louis County Growers' Association will hold its monthly meeting April 5 at the Eleven Mile House. As the association has failed to hold meetings for the last three months, Secretary Deutschmann says the attendance should be large.

The preliminary list for the third annual free spring flower show will be ready for distribution this week, according to President Duggar, of the Garden Club of St. Louis. The show will be held in the floral display house at the Missouri Botanical Garden, May 20. The local florists are taking great interest in this show. W. J. Pilcher, Julius Schaeffer and C. E. committee appointed by the St. Louis Florists' Club, will look after the florists' interests during the show.

Walter A. Amling, president of the St. Louis district of the National Flower Growers' Association, says that the Rotary Club will entertain the executive committee of the district with a dinner at the meeting in Pana, Ill., April 17.

The executive committee of the St. Louis Flower Show Association, which consists of the officers and twenty-two chairmen, will meet April 4 at 3 p. m. at publicity headquarters. It is important for all chairmen to be present for reports of the doings of their committees. The national flower show will also come in for a discussion.

The daily press of March 24 gave a great deal of publicity to the wine palm which is about to bloom at the Missouri Botanical Garden. They called it "the hooch tree," and stated that this was its last year for blooming, on account of prohibition. It is a native of the Philip-

The officers of the St. Louis Florists' Club will be entertained by Trustee Oscar Ruff April 6, at his home, when an attractive program will be planned for the next club meeting. This and the meeting place will be announced by special notices to all members.

Julius Dilloff, representing Wertheimer Bros., New York, and I. M. Bayersdorfer, of the H. Bayersdorfer Co., Philadelphia, were visitors last week.

All those recently reported sick in the trade are back on the job, except George Waldbart, who was removed home from the hospital after a successful operation. From reports, it will be some time before he can enjoy the outdoor air.

Mrs. Oscar Ruff entertained the Lady Florists' Circle March 22, at her home, on South Grand avenue. All were present and an enjoyable afternoon was spent. The circle will meet again April

The St. Louis party that was to attend the national flower show left March 27 via the Pennsylvania at noon in a special car, to be present St. Louis day, March 28. Those going in advance and on the special numbered over the half hundred mark. J. F. Ammann left ahead of all, to be present at the opening. President Rowe, of the Florists' Club, left March 26. Oscar C. May, state vice-president of the S. A. F., had all arrangements perfect, and St. Louis was well represented during the life of the show.

The "Say It with Flowers" bowling league enjoyed some splendid bowling March 22. As the season of closing is near, all want to show averages above those of last season. The Orchids met defeat at the hands of the Violets, who won two games. The Sweet Peas assured themselves of first place by winning all three games from the Carnations, while the Roses surprised by winning all three games from the Daisies. The standing of the teams to date is as follows:

|                  | Won | Lost |
|------------------|-----|------|
| Sweet Peas ..... | 54  | 27   |
| Violets .....    | 42  | 39   |
| Orchids .....    | 40  | 41   |
| Carnations ..... | 39  | 39   |
| Roses .....      | 39  | 39   |

The Market.

Roses were a little short last week, due to several cool and cloudy days. Some fancy Columbias were on the market at 25 cents. The other rose stock was good and was eagerly taken. Carnations were in good supply. Sweet peas were heavy. Jonquils dragged a little. All other stock moved well.

Various Notes.

ings and best wishes for your fifth national flower show from Kansas City."

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. has two standards of Genista fragrans. One of the standards was placed outside the store and attracted much attention. They are beautiful specimen plants of a quality rarely seen in an average greenhouse. The plants were intended for Easter, but bloomed too early.

Hail and rain, driven by a high wind, cracked windows in homes and did much damage to greenhouses on the south side between 8 and 9 p. m., March 23. In the W. L. Rock greenhouses, Sixty-third street and Troost avenue, 10,000 square feet of glass were broken. The damage amounted to about $2,000. The hailstones ranged from the size of hazelnuts to the size of walnuts. Some irregular chunks of ice, as large as eggs, fell and broke to pieces when they struck. Motor cars stopped in the storm, their drivers being unable to see their way. Car service was hampered seriously. The storm, which broke unexpectedly from a heavy cloud in the southwest, was accompanied by sharp lightning. It extended from the neighborhood of Forty-seventh street over most of the southern portion of the city. There was no hail and only a light rain in the rest of the city.

O. O. Boston, of the Boston Floral Co., Tulsa, Okla., spent March 24 in St. Joseph, Mo. He stopped over in Kansas City on his way home.

The publicity committee of the Florists' Club last week called upon the florists who had not paid their quota to the advertising fund. The drive was made to clear the accounts before April 1, which completes the year of the publicity contributions. It was desired to find how much money would be available for Easter advertising. Contributions were cheerfully paid, the florists feeling that coöperative advertising has been a great benefit to them.

J. E. K.

BALTIMORE, MD.

The Market.

On some days business is exceptionally good and on others it is slow. The market supply about equals the demand. These few weeks before Easter keep the members of the trade, both the retailer and grower, busy preparing for the grand rush. Easter stock in and around the city looks promising, and it is hoped that weather conditions will prove favorable and then retailer, grower and wholesaler will be able to say: "The best Easter since the war." There is a rather limited supply of carnations, but a good supply of roses. Orchids are plentiful and the demand is small. There is a good supply of potted plants.

Mr. Ekas is the owner and Mr. Personette, the manager, of the Baltimore Wholesale Florists & Supply Co.

Arthur Richmond has a splendid lot of cinerarias. He also has some fine potted stock for the Easter market.

Wm. J. Johnston, chairman of the F. T. D. hotel reservation committee, has selected the following men to serve with him on this committee: John J. Perry, Clarence Ritter, Joseph S. Merritt, Claymore Sieck, William F. Keys, Jr., and Robert W. Johnston.

William Feast, of Samuel Feast & Sons, has been on the sick list the last ten days. The name of Ned Stevenson appears on the same list.

The following are attending the Indianapolis show: Richard Vincent, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Moss and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Graham, Sr.

Saturday, March 25, each of the local members of the F. T. D. sent Mayor Broening a floral offering, with a card attached bearing the name of the mayor of Indianapolis and announcing the opening of the national flower show.

The Baltimore trade is invited to attend the meeting of the Florists' Club of Baltimore. J. Horace McFarland will

The Market.

The market fluctuated a little last week. Stock was scarce and everything cleaned up rapidly. Toward the latter part, however, the weather moderated and some stock became more plentiful. There was an abundance of sweet peas and other stock on the market the last two days of the week. The demand, however, has been good, and little stock had to be sacrificed at low prices. Lilies have been scarce, and cut lilies, no doubt, will be scarce up to Easter. Roses are of fine quality and there is a heavy demand for short and medium grades. The sweet peas never were as fine as the present stock, but prices have ruled about $1 per hundred for

The Market.

Last week found the florists in this vicinity exceptionally busy. The wholesale houses have found stock of almost all kinds moving easily. The demand for carnations exceeds the supply, and it is believed that the carnation supply for Easter will not be as large as last year. Plenty of bulbous stock, such as tulips and daffodils, is on the market and roses of an exceptionally good quality in the usual varieties have been supplied.Funeral work has been exceptionally heavy and, together with the large supply of blooms being sent to the sick, the florists find business good. As Easter approaches, the supply departments of the wholesale houses are working evenings to keep up with their orders, and the outlook for Easter, both in the cut flower and supply lines, looks promising.

Various Notes.

H. J. Hook, auditor of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., left Thursday, March 23, for the Indianapolis flower show, where he was joined by Messrs. Hoffman and Sawyer, road representatives.

Ira Harper, of the A. W. Smith Co., has returned to work after a prolonged illness.

S. J. Stillwell, of Bellaire, O., was a visitor last week.

Mrs. E. H. Carey, of New Brighton, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. August Lehman, of the Lehman Flower Shop, Tarentum, Pa., were business visitors. H. J. H.

CLEVELAND CLUB NOTES.

The Cleveland crowd were all headed for Indianapolis this week, some for the entire week. Our two cars loaded to the hilt were safely landed at the big show.

Our next meeting will be held April 3, at the Hollenden hotel. It is to be special, as there will be several reports from the national show.

The club had several members at Indianapolis whose special duty it was to attend all of the lectures and learn all the pointers on putting into successful operation the one-per-cent-for-advertising campaign.

The writer visited all the wholesale houses and interviewed the managers. The general report was that business was slow. There was plenty of stock and some extra fine calla lilies. Paul Backofen, from the Daisy Hill Farm, was at the Cleveland Cut Flower Market with the best display of sweet peas I have ever seen. Some of the stems were eighteen to twenty-two inches long.

The Indianapolis show management sent Mayor Kohler a beautiful basket of roses. A note was pinned to the bouquet, signed by Mayor Lew Shanks, thanking Cleveland's mayor for giving Indianapolis such a great opportunity of putting on the national show. The Cleveland mayor sent a telegram urging the Society of American Florists to come to Cleveland with the national show next year.

The Cleveland Club especially invites all readers to our special meeting April 3, at the Hollenden. You do not need to be a member. We want to get acquainted and let you know a real live-wire crowd. Come and hear about the big show. You will learn new methods of putting over specials. Our question box is also a winner. A. T. F.

WORCESTER, MASS.

Flowers in greater variety and of good quality are being sold here. Business seems to be good on all sides. Window displays are unusually attractive.

A little alarm is felt regarding the reports from growers of lilies, and there is no doubt that the situation is serious. However, everybody is looking forward to a busy Easter.

A considerable amount of outdoor work is anticipated, weather conditions becoming more spring-like. E. A.

CLEVELAND, O.

The Market.

Even though Lent is on, there is no apparent change in business. Stock has been cleaning up fairly well, although it takes considerable plugging to dispose of all of it and often it becomes necessary to close out a large portion at a special price. Sweet peas are not bringing the prices they should, and sometimes it is impossible to dispose of all of them.

Roses have been moving briskly, with the exception of white, and have been bringing a good price. The end of the week found a decided shortage of car-

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

An item of more than passing interest to the trade appeared in Railway Age for March 13, making mention of the shipment of five carloads of roses by fast freight from Los Angeles to Riverton, N. J., the trip being made in twelve days, averaging 276 miles each day. It was routed via the Southern Pacific, Southern and Pennsylvania. The total weight was 129,360 pounds. When William Scott, of the William Scott Co., Buffalo, N. Y., heard of this rapid transit, he saw the beginning of what means life for rose plants of American production and death to Holland stock, so long unsatisfactory, but until now indispensable. and other flowering stock are in fine shape at the Cold Spring, N. Y., place, while David Scott is sending the usual high grade of sweet peas from Corfu, N. Y.

John Cokely, of B. E. & J. T. Cokely, Scranton, Pa., gave an interesting account of his visit to the international flower show, at the Grand Central Palace, New York, vividly portraying the wonderful effects which are the secret of continued novelty. He gave great credit to Manager Arthur Herrington, who had the directing down to perfection. Mr. Cokely predicts big things next fall in the local show; he got some ideas when he was in Manhattan.

John Bockman, of the Henry F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, sees a stronger demand for the highest quality in bulbs for future use. Education of the public at the flower shows and elsewhere is responsible. We shall have no further use for second-quality stock. The same remark applies to flower seeds. Each year finds the florist more exacting.

A KANSAS "COME-BACK."

Coöperation counts! Another proof of this is offered in a recent occurrence in the state of Kansas. February 28 William Hasselman, of Independence, suffered a heavy loss by fire at his city place. Within forty-eight hours the secretary of the Kansas State Florists' Association had an S. O. S. notice in the mails, asking brother florists to respond to the needs of Mr. Hasselman. As a result, a large percentage of the florists tendered Mr. Hasselman their entire surplus of cut flowers and plants. Mr.

PROPAGATING ARAUCARIAS.

When they were imported in quantity from Belgium, araucarias were much used in house decoration, particularly at Christmas time, as they are not only attractive but will stand much hard usage. A. excelsa was the most common variety sold by florists.

Propagation of these plants is by seeds and cuttings. Symmetrical plants are secured from the leading shoots. Side shoots are likely to make misshapen specimens. The araucarias need cool treatment. The temperature should not be above 60 degrees at night. If kept too crowded or not given sufficient light, they become ragged and straggling. In summer the plants should be protected from direct, burning sun.

When grown from seed the plants of A. excelsa grow rapidly and the branches are invariably disposed in tiers with wide internodes, sometimes as much as two feet separating the tiers of branches. Such plants are of little use for florists and recourse is made to plants grown from cuttings. Plants from cuttings assume a dwarf, compact habit, with tiers of branches placed close together, and they do not grow into large specimens until many years old. The plants for stock purposes are usually grown from seed, and when they have formed from three to six tiers of branches the tops are taken out and put in as cuttings in a light, sandy compost in a close house or case at a temperature of about 60 degrees F. They are kept shaded from hot sun and damped over frequently until rooted. The stock plants are kept growing and soon break out into new growth in the axils of each of the upper branches. These are all "leader" growths, and when long enough they each furnish a suitable cutting, which is treated in the same way as the primary growth or leader. After each of these has been removed for stock, the stem of the stock plant is cut off to the next tier of branches, which in turn will furnish another set of cuttings, and so on until the plant is reduced to the bottom layer of branches, when it is discarded and another stock obtained from seed. It should be pointed out that the branches themselves may be rooted as cuttings, but they always retain their flat, asymmetrical shape and are useless for stock purposes.

Not many araucarias are seen in this country, in comparison with the numbers in the days before quarantine 37. Attempts are being made to grow them commercially here, but at present the labor and time necessary to produce salable plants are so great as to make the price quite high, particularly in comparison with that of the stock which used to come here from Belgium.

GROWING GLADIOLUS BULBS.

For the successful cultivation of gladioli for bulbs, sandy soil is essential. The ground should be prepared so that it is in a loose, friable condition. Ideal soil is probably a sod, plowed in the fall and then thoroughly worked in the spring. If the soil is not sufficiently rich in plant food, any strong manures are best used on a crop of some kind other than gladioli the season before the latter are planted. Fresh stable manure should be avoided for gladioli. Any complete fertilizer is beneficial when thoroughly worked into the soil, at the rate of 600 to 1,000 pounds to an acre.

Planting should be begun as early in the spring as the proper working of the soil will permit. When the ground has been prepared, furrows should be made four inches deep and from two to three feet apart, according to the methods of cultivation. If the bulbs for planting exceed one and one-half inches in diameter, they should be placed right side up in the furrows by hand, either in single rows or in double rows two inches apart. Bulbs of smaller size may be scattered, as evenly as possible, along the furrow, with an average of ten or twelve to the foot. Good culture through the growing season is necessary. The flower spike is often cut to increase the size of the bulb.

Maturity of the bulbs is reached in four months. When the bulbs are to be harvested, the soil is loosened and they are lifted out by their tops and laid on the ground to dry and ripen. If the weather permits, they can be completely ripened outdoors. The tops should be cut off close to the bulbs and the old bulbs and roots pulled off. Then the bulbs should be placed in thin layers in crates and stored in a cool, dry place. The tops may be trimmed off at the time of lifting, if circumstances make it necessary, and the bulbs may be taken under cover for crating and drying.

AZALEAS AND CAMELLIAS.

Will you please give me explicit instructions for growing cuttings of azaleas and japonicas, and state how to root them in a greenhouse heated by an oil stove?

P. R. I.—La.

I presume you refer to the Indian azaleas in common culture under glass, and by japonicas you probably mean camellias. A great many plants have the name japonica, which simply means Japanese. Azaleas will root best in August, when the wood is in a half ripened condition. Camellias can be put in at the same time, when their wood will be well ripened. While some propagators prefer to use clean, sharp sand for the cuttings, I find camellias do better with a little fine peat mixed with the sand.
Use well-drained pans or flats. Square pans are especially suitable. Cut both camellias and azaleas below a joint and remove two or three of the lower leaves.
Rubbed off with a heel, they need no trimming with the knife. Keep in a case inside the greenhouses, where they can be protected from sun and air currents, and water carefully. On no account allow them to become dry. The azaleas will make roots much earlier than the camellias, many of which may not be rooted sufficiently to pot for a year. Pot in a sandy loam or peat when rooted and keep them close until they are established, and then grow them where they can get more light and air. You cannot propagate these plants like geraniums, carnations and coleus. You will need lots of patience. It also requires close attention in the matter of shading and watering to achieve success. # Take Bigger and Better Orders

BY USING THE REVIEW'S

"Album of Designs"

EDITION

With this Album the Florist can show his customers, in handsomely printed pictures, how the completed design will look. It makes it easier to close a sale and leads to bigger and better orders.

No other book for Florists ever has enjoyed so large a sale or been so universally used as The Review's "Album of Designs." Six editions have been sold. A seventh and revised edition now has been printed. 96 pages, over 200 designs and decorations.

Single Copies, postpaid . . . . $ 1.25
Per dozen, postpaid . . . . . 12.00

Why show your trade an old, soiled Album when you can get a fresh, clean new one, postpaid, for only $1.25?

LANCASTER CLUB MEETS.

The Lancaster County Florists' Club held its monthly meeting March 16, in the ballroom of the Hotel Brunswick, Lancaster, Pa., where Samuel S. Pennock, president of the S. A. F., gave his lecture on "Conditions Abroad," which was accompanied by illustrations taken by himself. His garden pictures and the pictures taken on his visits to the celebrated rose specialists were most interesting. He also gave his impressions of the newest foreign roses, mentioning in particular the wonderful new yellow garden rose, Claudius Pernet.

Mr. Pennock was accompanied by Mrs. Pennock and Alfred and Mrs. Campbell. Mr. Campbell, being president of the Philadelphia Florists' Club, gave a delightful talk to members of the club.

The five new members elected were as follows: Miss Mary Weaver, Mrs. Phares S. Hostetter, Mrs. R. C. Smallwood, Miss Eva Deffenbaugh and Robert Kohr. The meeting was preceded by a dinner, at which more than fifty members were present. President Harry K. Rohrer presided.

In the afternoon preceding the meeting a visiting trip was taken to the establishment of M. J. Brinton, at Christiana, Pa., where we met the genial proprietor. His houses are in tip-top shape; his bulbous stock for cutting is fine and his carnation and lily houses are full of blooms of high quality.

A call was also made at the establishment of J. Rutter and J. Ralph Hess, at Gap, Pa., where carnations are the specialty and are well grown.

At the place of Charles and Elmer Weaver we were again impressed with

The Market.

The warm, balmy, springlike weather of last week created an increase in volume of business over the preceding weeks and gives much encouragement to the florists. The approaching Easter-tide is being amply proclaimed in increased offerings of potted plants, which everywhere fill the florists' windows. Reports indicate that the supply, especially of bulbous stock, will be the largest ever offered here. Lilies will, undoubtedly, be in sufficient quantity to supply all demands, but there will be little or no excess. Violets are reported as scarce.

The spring-like conditions were reflected in the increased activity among the seed houses and dealers in agricultural supplies, as well as among the forestry and landscape men.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Dillard, Ore.—Fred Schmidt is planning to build some greenhouses in this town.

Portland, Ore.—Charles Baumgardner is entering the business of growing bulbs and flowers. He has a 5-acre place just outside the city limits of Portland, and at present he is stocking it with dahlias, gladioli, cannas, perennials, etc., which he will put on the market next season.

Bodega, Cal.—A greenhouse for spring planting has been built by A. Ellis, who will specialize in potted plants, dahlias and gladioli. This business will operate under the name of the Valley Gardens. Mr. Ellis has been interested in gardening and landscape work for several years and expects to build a larger greenhouse for the winter.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

For the first time for many weeks there was an oversupply of flowers on the market, and even good daffodils took a heavy fall. Flowers that a week ago were bringing $6 per hundred slumped to $2 and less. Indoor carnations and roses were the best sellers and, for the first time since the frost, there was an abundant supply of callas.

Shrub blossoms still meet with a good demand and anything with long stems suitable for basket work is snapped up at once. Retailers all say that business is not as good as it has been, and if it were not for a liberal demand for funeral work, trade would be quiet. Sick room flowers are more in demand than is decorating work, and there is little chance of any better business before Easter. Greens of all kinds are in better supply and of better quality than they have been for some time.

Various Notes.

W. B. Clarke, the well known horticultural broker, of San Jose, was in this city and nearby territory last week, calling on his trade and sizing up conditions generally. His observations among the northern freesia growers show that they are in just as bad a way as the southern growers and, doubtless, prices will be high and bulbs scarce, especially in the larger sizes.

F. L. Morris, of Santa Ana, left last week to attend the national flower show at Indianapolis, leaving his son in charge. The son says that the firm is well satisfied with the way business has come to it since opening in this pleasant city.

Jack D'Ortignac has again left the city for Fresno, where he has opened a retail store. He is buying considerable stock on this market.

S. Murata lost a valuable Stutz car last week. The car was taken from in front of his store, where it stood.

M. S. Warner and N. Kent, of the American Florists' Exchange, took a trip to San Diego and Tia Juana. Last week Mr. Warner's father, Frank Warner, and W. B. Clarke, of San Jose, made the trip in Mr. Clarke's car. It may be noted that Mr. Warner brought the first good Dutch irises to the market last week. His King Alfred daffodils have also been excellent.

John Finken has a fine assortment of all classes of fruit trees at his place. Mr. Finken is the first to grow really good trained espalier and other forms of trees, and the success he has attained is promising for the future. He has also planted out a patch of Erica melanthera.

Business continues good with Herbert Bateman, Inc. The demand for medium-priced baskets is especially good. This condition was stimulated by the distribution of an elegant booklet to customers.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the American Florists' Exchange a new board of directors was elected, which elected the following men as officers:

President, F. R. Hills; vice-president, Peter N. Priamos; secretary, H. R. Richards; treasurer, F. Warner; manager, John Polder. The finances of the association are in first-class shape and the end of the first year's business shows that the market was needed.

W. Armacost & Co. have a splendid cut of roses in now, and reports from the greenhouses indicate that the Easter cut will be larger by far than ever before. Easter lilies, too, are in fine condition and an immense stock is being handled.

The E. C. Amling Co. has practically finished the new supply department, and it is a fine, roomy, light place, giving plenty of space for the showing of the large and varied line carried.

At Howard & Smith's Montebello nursery there is just now a wonderful collection of amaryllis. For many years Mr. Howard has been hybridizing and crossing these showy plants, with a

The Market.

Business last week remained the same. Darwins are coming in more plentifully and are well taken care of by the trade. Carnations are scarce, as many growers are off crop at present. Callas are becoming more plentiful and are of better quality. Potted tulips have still the lead in pot plants. However, there are some fine azaleas in the market. Sweet peas are scarce, on account of the dark weather we have been having, and many growers seem to have trouble in bringing them along during the months of February and March.

Various Notes.

W. Thompson, greenhouse constructor of this city, is erecting a 240-foot house for the Rahn & Herbert Co., of Clackamas. One-half will be devoted to the growing of mums and the other half to pot plants. Mr. Peters stated that the firm intends to erect several new houses in the near future. This firm has a large stock of palm seedlings coming along nicely. The firm is trying out several new carnations this year. One is Red Matchless, which looks promising. Lilies are looking excellent at this time and hydrangeas are running a close second.

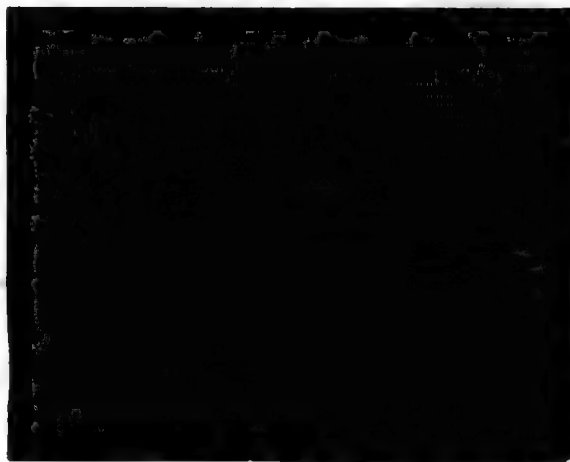

The Holden Floral Co. has several thousand lilies for the Easter trade. This firm is well able to take care of its out-of-town trade. Daffodils, Darwin tulips, hyacinths in pot and cut are strong leaders with this firm. Some fine pots of Van Waveren's Giant daffodils could be seen; also, many novelties in early tulips, double and single.

C. F. Breithopt, of Sedro Woolley, Wash., bought recently the greenhouses of Mr. Clancey, of Salem, Ore. C. F. Breithopt is also running his place at Sedro Woolley, but intends to move to Salem entirely.

The Wilson-Crout-Gehr Co. is receiving a considerable number of inquiries for Easter lilies and is making a few shipments of these to their out-of-town customers. R. E. Gehr is spending a few days at Eugene, Ore., on business.

According to reports, H. Newell, foreman for Fred M. Young, intends to erect two greenhouses in this city and to try his luck for himself.

The plan is now being considered by J. Forbes, director in charge of the festival center, to convert the south park strip, between Salmon and Jefferson streets, into an old-fashioned rose garden for the 1922 rose festival. Florists and nurserymen have signified intentions of assisting in the program.

The Villa Nurseries report a large planting of Manetti cuttings this spring for budding purposes. They are also large growers of fruit trees.

The Market.

There is a large and varied amount of good stock in the market. Daffodils dropped fifty per cent. It was not any deterioration in quality that caused the drop, for daffodils were never better than they are now. The same is true of the acacia sprays, which are a mass of excellent bloom. There are good stocks of cut roses, carnations, Scotch heather and many kinds of ornamental fruit blossoms. Violets are still in their prime and growers are sending in good freesias, sweet peas, snapdragons, primulas of various kinds, and flowers of the jonquil and narcissus families. Quantities of other spring flowers are being cut and a few wild flowers are finding their way to market. The season for the California poppy is just beginning. Pansies are good and anemones and ranunculi are coming in. Lileis of the valley are becoming more plentiful and the quality is good, while Butterfly orchids are seen in several of the leading stores in considerable quantities. The gardenia shortage is much less acute.

Various Notes.

Supervisor S. Stanwood, of Santa Barbara, Cal., has presented plans for the erection of a $1,500 county horticultural building, to be erected in the courthouse yard, Santa Barbara.

L. Picetti, manager of the San Francisco store of the Charles C. Navlet Co., says that the spring fever for amateur gardening is at its height. The rains delayed planting, but, now that sunny days have come, the Navlet force is doing a land office business in roots for planting and seeds. People are often waiting in line to buy stock for home gardens.

E. F. Axell, of J. A. Axell's, is back on the job again, after two weeks of illness. J. A. Axell is handling a large amount of splendid stock, including some remarkable poeticus and fine liles of the valley. In fact, this firm has enough lilies of the valley to supply the San Francisco trade. Among other stock are some handsome cut cyclamens.

"It's between seasons for Darwin tulips, although we still have them," said Mr. Axell. "The greenhouse Darwins are almost gone and the outdoor Darwins are scarcely in yet." Some beautiful Laddie carnations are being shown by Mr. Axell.

Enomoto & Co. are planning to have plenty of roses for Easter. They are cutting anemones and ranunculi and expect to have a large supply of spring flowers for Easter offerings, including calla lilies, tulips, poeticus, freesias, carnations and other flowers, in addition to a quantity of decorative greens.

The Growers' Floral Co. is cutting some choice carnations, including Laddie and Ward. This firm is still doing considerable business in its didiscus, which is much in demand for decorative purposes.

The C. Kooyman Co. has a room in the rear of the store that is kept warm by adjoining boilers of the hotel above. It was Mr. Kooyman's idea to try forcing lilies of the valley and hyacinths in this room. The result has been a success, as F. W. Davis, of this firm, has a number of lilies of the valley in sight for Easter and is now showing some potted lilies.

Domoto Bros. are showing potted roses, both ramblers and Tausendschoen. Dorothy Perkins potted roses will be in before Easter, and the Domotos have a good stock of them.

Brown & Kennedy have been busy with telegraph orders and funeral work.

Julius Eppstein has returned from a trip to Los Angeles, where he found all his florist friends satisfied with the business they were doing.

F. C. Jaeger & Son say that business is remarkably good.

George Mathisen, of the Suzanne Floral Co., says that theatrical and social work have kept them busy. The Flowers are also being used in offices. It is nothing unusual to find a vase of flowers on the counter of a stockbroker, although banks have not yet adopted this practice.

The United Flower & Supply Co. has been behind in its orders for its helichrysum, but I. Inoue, manager of the company, says that they have a new crop of strawflowers and are filling all orders. blossoms, shipped to points east of Chicago, have stood the journey well.

Joseph's is making a special window display of double white violets, palmata and Russian violets, grown for this firm. Hundreds of bouquets are shown and are sold rapidly.

The beautiful flower stands, fountains, etc., of imported marble in Podesta & Baldocchi's store look at their best when filled with ornamental fruit blossoms, as they are this week. One of the windows is almost devoted to Butterfly orchids. George Ventura, formerly one of the proprietors of the Fillmore Florists' Store, has joined the staff of Podesta & Baldocchi.

Louis Castiglio, head decorator for Pelicano, Rossi & Co., is the proud father of a baby girl. Frank D. Pelicano has made one of the first large dahlia shipments of the season. Mr. Pelicano's hobby is his dahlia farm, where he has originated many new varieties. Advance orders are being sent in for offerings to be presented to members of the Chicago Grand Opera Co.

David Lichtenstein, the Terminal Florist, has been busy with a rush of late orders for bon voyage baskets. As he is on the Embarcadero, his customers think he can make steamer sailings by crossing the street, although they forget the length of the Embarcadero.

Mr. and Mrs. Darbee and their son Andrew have returned from a motor trip to Hotel Del Monte, which is noted for its gardens. Mrs. Darbee found that the heavy and sustained rains delayed weeding and planting, so that the gardens at Del Monte and other places in Monterey county are backward this year. M. M.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

General business registered a small increase last week, mainly as the result of more funeral work. There has been a small increase in roses, but this has not been heavy enough to cut down shipments from Spokane and Portland. Local dealers have been buying lightly in California.

Some improvement is to be seen in the late deliveries of carnations, while local-grown peas are snapped up almost as quickly as offered. The sale of violets continues heavy, and cut tulips of the larger varieties are easy to move.

Various Notes.

The Wholesale Growers' Association has been organized by the white growers serving the Seattle market. The officers are: President, Thomas Wylie; vice-president, A. B. Matthiesen, and secretary, C. H. Benson. A committee to plan and circulate a questionnaire among these growers has been named and is composed of Frank Chervenka, B. E. Hammond, A. B. Matthiesen and C. H. Benson. It is expected that the committee will have this ready for distribution soon. The aim of this association is to gather information on the amount of stock being grown and probable time of cutting, so that an even supply may be assured the market without producing gluts.

Felix Rosaia has enjoyed a good general run of business lately, and has been moving large amounts of cut flowers. Several good-sized fraternal decorations were handled as well.

The Woodlawn Flower Shop has had splendid results from the showing of European novelty flower containers and small ornamental figures for use with low flower containers. These were of white alabaster type and quickly caught the buying public's eye. General corsage work has been holding up well, and cut flowers continue popular.

Melby's Flower Shop handled an elaborate theater decoration last week. Carl Melby was a week-end visitor to Vancouver, B. C.

Funeral work continues a feature of the business at McCoy's. A heavier cut of carnations is reported from the greenhouses.

At the last bowling session of the Seattle Florists' Association, James Wylie won the prize for high score on three games, Samuel Dunlap that for the most spares and strikes and B. E. Hammond that for high score on a single game. The prizes awarded were donated by Fred W. Winters, the Seattle Fern & Moss Co. and George M. Trafton.

The Hollywood Gardens last week made up an elaborate blanket of roses

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE demands of progress have been such that James Vick's Sons, of Rochester, N. Y., have opened another store at 36 Exchange street. This gives the west side of the city the same facilities that have been offered east siders for so many years in the store on Stone street.

HEARING ON NEW YORK BILL.

Marshall H. Duryea, of the Nungesser-Dickinson Seed Co., New York, correspondent of the American Seed Trade Association for the state of New York, has obtained from the governor of New York a hearing on the seed bill introduced by Senator Ferris, No. 751. Governor Miller has granted the seedsmen of New York state a hearing on this bill at 11 a. m., Tuesday, April 4. A preliminary meeting will be held by seedsmen, Monday evening, April 3, at 8:30, at the Hotel Ten Eyck, at Albany, for a conference. As this is considered a matter of vital importance, Mr. Duryea hopes as many as possible of the seedsmen of the state will be present Monday evening, as well as at the hearing before the governor.

PEACOCK IN COURT'S HANDS.

Banks Act to Equalize All Interests.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed, March 28, in the United States District court for northern Illinois, against the Everette R. Peacock Co., of Chicago, and against Mr. Peacock personally, Edwin Buell, 105 West Monroe street, being named by Judge George A. Carpenter as receiver to continue the business until the creditors elect a trustee.

For about four weeks a committee of creditors has been advising in the Peacock affairs, its head being Harry T. Ellis, former state bank examiner, now connected with the Belmont State Bank of Chicago. The committee was attempting to work out a plan to save the business, but some of the creditors would not join and recently suits had been filed which might have resulted in preferring some of the unsecured creditors. The result was that the banks threw up their hands and caused the petition in bankruptcy to be filed. Although the petitions are signed by individuals, it is understood these merely represent banks.

The petitioning creditors in the case of Everette R. Peacock Co., and the claims scheduled, are: R. A. Mann, $1,000; F. A. Blazek, $4,875; H. A. Flecker, $1,000, but on the petition, which bears evidence of having been hastily prepared, Mr. Flecker's name is written in where that of the Mechanics and Traders State Bank, $3,800, was struck out. It is alleged that an act of bankruptcy was committed in payments made to August Sass and the Gos Lithographic Co. All the claims were for money loaned and the notes are said to have been endorsed by Mr. Peacock personally. The attorney for the petitioning creditors is Julian C. Ryer, 1422 First National Bank building.

In the petition against Mr. Peacock personally the creditors named, and their claims, are: R. A. Mann, $5,-

McHUTCHISON & CO.

95 Chambers St., NEW YORK

187.50; F. A. Blazek, $6,000; Henry Pillinger, $1,000; A. L. Bigelow, $1,000. Receiver Buell took charge March 28. He said he could not make a statement until he had time to have the books examined.

From a banking source it is learned that eleven banks held Peacock paper and were cooperating. The creditors' committee organized by them believed the liabilities to be approximately $200,000 and that the assets would realize, under proper management, something over $100,000. The assets consist of seeds, machinery, equipment and real estate. The seeds to a large extent are in public warehouses, the receipts being lodged with the banks as collateral.

It is stated that of the $200,000 liabilities the banks hold approximately fifty-five per cent, with forty-five per cent among the seed trade and other creditors. It is believed the banks are fairly well secured.

The first meeting of the creditors will be held early in April.

Starting only a few years ago as a dealer in onion sets, the rise of Everette R. Peacock and the corporation which bore his name and of which he was the head has been phenomenal. The business grew with amazing rapidity and therein lay the cause of this week's developments.

COMMITTEE FOR WING SEED CO.

The plan outlined in The Review of February 16, whereby unsecured creditors of the Wing Seed Co., Mechanicsburg, O., were to receive prior preference cumulative preferred stock to cover their claims, has met with disapproval on the part of some of the creditors for large amounts. There is some doubt, therefore, of the plan's going through, and the creditors' committee appointed at the Urbana meeting, desirous that no further delay be suffered during the bulb selling season, proposes that a co-receiver be appointed, a person intimate with the seed business, who would add, to the present receiver's general business experience, special knowledge and ability in the lines of the Wing Seed Co. In a statement to creditors, the committee says it is "satisfied that the reason why Mr. Pershing has not been successful in selling any considerable amount of bulbs lies in the prices fixed for him by Charles Wing and a disregard of the resolution of the creditors' committee that low prices should be accepted in order to liquidate the bulbs on hand," which are almost the only asset available for unsecured creditors.

Motion for the appointment of a co-receiver has been filed and will probably be decided upon in about ten days. At the same time it will be determined whether the present receiver shall plant an additional forty-five acres of bulbs, a course opposed by the committee because of the large expense involved. In order that the creditors' committee may have standing in court, creditors of the Wing Seed Co. have been asked to sign an agreement whereby the committee is made agent and attorney, with full power to act in the interests of the creditors. The committee is composed of J. C. Robinson, Burnet Landreth, Jr., Ashby M. Long and Jerome C. Fisher. Any creditors signing the committee's agreement will be released if the preferred stock plan becomes operative.

AN APPRECIATION.

Dr. Will W. Tracy, Sr.

The horticultural interests of our country, and especially those concerned with vegetable growing, cannot fail to be grateful for the life work of the late Dr. Will W. Tracy, Sr. The passing of our old friend and master was signalized by a devoted gathering in Washington March 3. The funeral was held at the home of his son, John Tracy, where he had been warmly cared for by a devoted family for nearly two years. The service of the Congregational church was followed by the rites of the Grand Army, six comrades of the Burnside post of the Department of the Potomac participating. The wreath, the laurel, the rose and the flag, all symbolic of honors of other days, were laid upon the bier. Floral tributes from the Department of Agriculture, from government officials, from seedsmen and from many friends of by-gone years gave evidence of respect and affection. D. M. Ferry & Co. honored long and faithful service with a wreath of white roses and orchids. The pallbearers for the most part were co-workers in the department, men who had spent long days with Doctor Tracy in the Arlington trial grounds. Thus the final rites were performed.

One would indeed be ungrateful and of short memory to allow the passing of this old veteran to occur without a consideration of the rich heritage he leaves us. All horticulture has been materially advanced by his painstaking and consummate work. It is perhaps not generally known that he was improving plant types according to the Mendelian theory several years prior to the announcement of Mendel's law. He early recognized the possibilities of raising all stocks to levels of near-perfection. Fully realizing the possibilities for infinite work in this direction and deeply deploring existing conditions and practices, he determined to devote his entire life to the development of higher types, especially as relating to the commercial seed supply.

His vast wealth of experience and his willingness to impart his knowledge made him a true counselor in the best sense. His unselfishness and thoughtfulness endeared him to all who knew him. This especially applied to those of us who are younger and, therefore, less deserving. His warm and affectionate spirit has enriched the lives of all who came in contact with him. Doctor Tracy was a man who stood adamant for the old realities—simplicity, loyalty, virtue and truthfulness. In acknowledging the Spartan virtues of such a life, no one can be oblivious to the high standards which he has set for us. With this spirit, and this only, shall we say farewell. Francis C. Stokes.

are now so well known and are in such great demand that you, as a grower or florist, cannot afford to be without them. No other strains are now so popular, nor can you secure so many beautiful blooms from any other. They always bring top prices in the markets.

Heretofore there has not been a sufficient supply to afford growers a share in their great sale.

I offer you a Chance this Year

for the first time to secure a select collection of about ninety choice varieties listed and described in my wholesale price list. All authorities are agreed that my new strains represent by far the greatest improvement in gladioli today.

You will miss many of your best customers if you let them go elsewhere for their cut flowers and bulbs.

Send for my wholesale list above described, and also a copy of my new retail catalogue, both free.

logue. "A Patch of Perennials is a Paying Proposition"—so says a Weller slogan.

Burdell Floral Co., Bowling Green, Ky.—Wholesale list of rooted cuttings and small plants of miscellaneous stock, including chrysanthemums, geraniums, verbenas, coleuses, begonias, petunias, lantanas and many others. "Our specialty," says the company, "is rooted cuttings and 2½-inch pot plants."

Fr. De Laet, Contich, Belgium.—A comprehensive list of cacti, offering these in numerous genera and species; sixteen pages, printed in the French language, with the prices in Belgian francs. About three pages are devoted to assortments of "various large plants" of other classes, such as agaves, aloes, echeverias, euphorbias, mesembryanthemums, etc.

Clarke Bros., Portland, Ore.—"Oregon Roses and Other Beautiful Flowers," the 1922 edition, similar to its predecessors in general appearance, but different in many interesting details; sixty-four pages, clearly printed and well illustrated. Roses, being a specialty both of the state and of the company, occupy the first twenty pages; then follow general nursery stock and a comprehensive list of greenhouse and outdoor plants, with flower seeds in the closing pages.

J. K. Rugowski Seed Co., Manitowoc, Wis.—Seventh annual catalogue; sixteen pages, without descriptions. "It contains our novelties," says Mr. Rugowski, "and a full line of standard varieties of vegetable and flower seeds." Gladiolus bulbs, dahlia roots, strawberry and raspberry plants, vegetable and flower plants also are offered. Among the lines of stock of which Mr. Rugowski has developed special strains of seed are asters, tomatoes, wax beans, canners' peas and a "new blight-resisting potato." He is experimenting, also, with seedling gladioli.

Rosenfield Peony Gardens, Omaha, Neb.—This catalogue is entitled "Superb Peonies," and the book itself is superb, in conformity with its subject. It is not superb in the sense of being ornate or showy, but is pleasingly, substantially elegant. It contains thirty-two large pages, printed on cream-tinted paper and bound in a strong and handsome, brown-marbled, double cover, with an inscription in green and red. The illustrations, though in plain black and white, are of notably fine quality. Of course, the list of varieties comprises the Rosenfield introductions, as well as those of other well known hybridizers. The introductory pages contain much interesting cultural and historical matter.

Des Moines, Ia.—The Alpha Floral Co. has been incorporated. The capitalization is set at $25,000, and the incorporators are: President and treasurer, J. S. Wilson, Jr., and vice-president and secretary, C. J. Polity.

Portland, Me.—Walter M. Tapley, Jr., as referee, filed his report March 20 in the Superior court case of the Hub Floral Co., of Boston, vs. Benjamin Blumenthal, of Portland, doing business under the firm name of the Boston Cut Flower Store. The action was brought on an account annexed, the plaintiff seeking recovery of $271.25. Attorney Tapley found for the plaintiff for the full amount with interest, making the total judgment $282.91.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

LOUIS HERTLE is operating a nursery of evergreens in connection with his farming enterprise, at Lorton, Va.

It is recognized that circularizing has been overworked to the point of ineffectiveness, but many nurserymen know no other sales method and still are on the quest for lists of names.

AMENDING QUARANTINE NO. 45.

An amendment to federal quarantine No. 45, against brown-tail and gypsy moths, transfers the towns of Fitzwilliam, N. H.; Royalston, Paxton and Leicester, Mass., and Narragansett, R. I., from the highly infested area, as specified in said amendment, to the generally infested area. This amendment is effective on and after January 1, 1922, and will remain in effect until further notice by the secretary of agriculture.

DAY URGES CO-OPERATION.

Speaking before the Ohio State Nurserymen's Association at Columbus recently, H. S. Day, proprietor of the Fremont Nursery, Fremont, O., put forth some excellent reasons why the wholesale nurserymen should make it a point to do all in their power to help the retailers, who are their customers. He said that normally the success of the retailer is bound to redound to the benefit of the wholesaler and that it is up to the wholesaler to lend his assistance.

Such services as making prompt replies to inquiries often save the retailer from having to make explanations, which, at best, are unsatisfactory and may fail to retain a customer. In shipping orders to retailers, preference should be given to those orders which require reshipping by the retailer, in order that the plants may reach their destination in as good condition as is possible, thus increasing their chance of living when planted. Packing for shipment should be done as carefully and as economically as possible and an effort should be made to save the retailer as much as possible on the express charges. Thousands of shipments are being made in boxes much too large for their purpose. A shipment is often made in a box when it could have been baled and sent a good deal cheaper.

A case was cited of one small shipment of sixty rose bushes, which were packed in an 8-foot box, at an additional cost for the box of $2.25 or $2.50 and also for express charges, when a small bale could have been made for a mere fraction of the cost of the box. The very next day a second shipment was made to the same place, bringing the total packing charge up to $4.75, whereas, if the wholesaler had used a little discretion, he could have saved the retailer some money. In this way an order is often turned from a profitable one to a loss.

The matter of booking orders and then shipping all but a few items, making a note on the invoice that these items will follow in a few days, is an abhorrent practice and should be discontinued, he said. This makes the retailer not only pay an extra charge for express, but an additional packing charge as well, and it is only fair that when such circumstances arise the wholesaler should at least do the packing free. It was contended that if a wholesale firm took an order to deliver a certain number of plants, it was through no fault of the retailer that the wholesaler was unable to fill the order and ship it in its entirety, and that, therefore, it was an injustice to the retailer to make him stand the extra packing charges.

Mr. Day stated also that the wholesalers should use discretion in the matter of extending their plantings at this time, even though an acute shortage of stock does exist. He gave as his reason that unless care were exercised in the matter of increased planting, there would be an oversupply on the market in a few years that would savor of a glut, which, of course, will injure the market for nursery stock.

STOCK ON VIRGIN SOIL.

Makes Advantageous Growth.

The importance of growing nursery stock on land that has never been used for that purpose before was considered by Lee McClure, general manager of the Washington Heights Nursery, Knoxville, Tenn., too broad a subject for him to handle as it should be handled, in his remarks before the Tennessee State Nurserymen's Association. He told, however, what he had learned in his twenty years of actual experience along this line.

"I had some experience last season," he said, "that either apple or peach stock will be cleaner and freer from disease of all kinds, when planted on land that has never been used for growing nursery stock before, provided, however, that one secures stock to plant that is free from disease."

"I had some experience this last season which proved to my mind, beyond a doubt, that some of our apple seedling growers are sending out some inferior seedlings, due to the fact, I am sure, that they have been growing seedlings on the same land for a number of years, and the soil has become badly affected with crown gall, woolly aphis and other diseases and pests to which the apple is subject. Our nursery stock last year was all planted on land that has never been used for growing nursery stock of any kind before. We bought our apple seedlings from two different firms and kept them separate, both in grafting and planting. We grafted part of each lot of these seedlings to the same variety and planted them in the same kind of soil, side by side, at the same time, and gave them the same treatment all through the season. I found, on digging these trees last fall, when they were old, that one lot of these trees had developed only two per cent of crown gall and no aphis at all, while the other lot, in the adjoining rows, developed about twenty-five per cent gall.

Protection Needed.

"I think we ought to have some kind of protection in buying our apple seedlings. I believe they ought to be inspected by our state entomologist or by some expert who could tell crown gall in its mildest form. I do not believe that we should ever plant two crops in succession, either apple or peach, on the same piece of land, unless it be two crops of June buds, which would take the same time to grow as would one crop of apple or dormant peach. I have never seen so much as one-half of one per cent of crown gall on peach that was grown on land that had never been used for nursery purposes before, while I have seen as high as ten to twenty per cent of gall on peach stock that was grown on land that had been used for growing peaches for a number of years.

"My method of growing nursery stock is to grow one crop on a piece of land and then sow it to soy beans or some similar crop, and then plow these under. This furnishes nitrogen and humus for the soil and by the use of plenty of ground limestone and the right kinds of fertilizer, will keep the soil in good condition. Then I follow the next year with some kind of nursery stock which is different from the last crop that grew on that piece of land. In shifting crops in this way, you can use the same farm for a number of years and grow good nursery stock, but in the course of ten or fifteen years we shall have to buy a new farm, if we are going to grow the kind of stock that our planters are going to demand of us in the next few years."

SPRAY FOR SAN JOSE SCALE.

The San Jose scale is just now exceedingly abundant and destructive in some sections, and some orchardists and nurserymen state they are unable to control the pest adequately with the usual dormant tree treatments with lime-sulphur spray. The United States Department of Agriculture calls attention to results secured in the treatment of the scale by the use of a spray con-namely, one per cent, emulsified with potash fish-oil soap.

The surprising efficiency of a spray containing such a low per cent of oil suggested the desirability of testing sprays of this character against the San Jose scale. Investigations have included tests of lubricating oils of a strength of from one-half of one per cent to four or five per cent, thoroughly emulsified with potash fish-oil soap. The results showed practically complete killing of the scale by one thorough application of the spray of a strength as low as two per cent of oil.

A point yet to be established in connection with the present experiments is the possible injury from the oil spray which may result to the trees, twigs or fruit buds, and several seasons' experience will be necessary before a final decision on this question can be reached. In view of the experience in spraying citrus trees in foliage with one per cent of oil, it is felt that dormant deciduous trees will probably stand without injury one annual treatment containing two per cent of oil.

The following directions for making the stock emulsion are given:

Red engine oil, or oil of similar grade. 1 gallon
Water ..... 1/2 gallon
Potash fish-oil soap..... 1 pound

The oil, water and soap are placed in a kettle or other receptacle and heated until the contents come to a boil. A brown scum appears on the surface of the mixture as it first begins to boil. After boiling for a few minutes the brown scum begins to disappear and at this stage the kettle is removed from the fire and the entire mixture is pumped twice under pressure of about sixty pounds while still quite hot. A proper emulsion cannot be made by stirring, nor should the mixture be allowed to cool before it is pumped. Too much pumping will often break up the emulsion. During pumping, ordinary pump packing is burned up rather quickly by the hot oil mixture. For making the stock emulsion on a large scale an all-metal pump would be necessary.

The stock emulsion contains sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of oil. To make a two per cent emulsion for use in a 200-gallon spray tank it is necessary to use six gallons of the stock emulsion.

Precaution should be taken to prevent the stock emulsion from freezing, which occurs at a temperature of about 15 degrees Fahrenheit above zero.

In case difficulty is experienced in making a proper emulsion, due to hardness of the water, the water used should be softened by the addition of one pound of caustic soda or lye per hundred gallons of diluted spray. The caustic soda should be dissolved in two or three gallons of water and then added to the spray tank and thoroughly stirred, after which the proper quantity of stock emulsion can be added.

Any one of the following, or similar oils, may be used, some one or more of which can doubtless be obtained in most parts of the country: Diamond paraffin oil, 180 red neutral, Jr. red engine oil, Nabob oil.

DOES PRUNING LESSEN YIELD?

Orchard men at Cornell have found by experiment that the pruning of young fruit trees is detrimental to the growth of the trees and to their yielding capacity when they reach maturity. It is contended by these men that inasmuch as the crude materials drawn from the soil and the air are manufactured into plant food by the roots and the leaves, it is learned that a reduction in the foliage by pruning reduces the power of the tree to nourish itself properly while it is in the growing stage and consequently when it reaches the fruit-bearing stage its yielding capacity is curtailed.

In order to convince themselves that the theory which they had propounded was correct, they performed an experiment in the orchard at Cornell. A number of yearling whips had the foliage rubbed off the trunks, except for a few inches on the terminal ends. The check trees had no foliage removed. At the end of the growing season there were 149 leaves on the pruned trees; and carnations, one of the largest turned out here this season. Other funeral work has also been brisk. For St. Patrick's day an early showing of green carnations was made and cleaned up, while all of the small pots of shamrock were also disposed of. Some fine variegated tulips are being shown from the greenhouses.

SEATTLE NOTES.

The Woodland Park Floral Co. has a fine lot of potted hydrangeas ready for delivery, and will have its supply of Easter lilies ready in ample time. From present indications, growers in this section are pretty well agreed upon the price they will charge for their stock this year.

Henry Morgan advises that each month in the new shop sees a good increase in business, especially from transients, who have ample time to study the display windows.

The Kitsap County Rose Society has been organized at Bremerton, with Herbert Oldham as president, and George N. Crockett as secretary. A rose show is planned for this summer.

The Pinehurst Floral Shop had two good-sized decorations on St. Patrick's day, using green flowers throughout. General business has shown an improvement.

Irving Harris reports a good demand for seeds during the last two weeks, although weather conditions for the last couple of days have served to slow up this demand.

Kenney's has enjoyed a good run of funeral work, which has served to take care of the light deliveries in good order.

The B. E. Hammond Co. has added G. F. McCarty as bookkeeper, and reports a most satisfactory continuation of shipping business.

Better transient business continues the rule at the store of the Orpheum Floral Co., with potted offerings leading in volume.

At the last meeting of the Seattle Florists' Association, the ball committee filed a partial report which indicated that in the neighborhood of $200 had been realized on the dance, and the association voted to place this in a special fund to care for a picnic and dance to be held sometime in July of this year. P. F. Rosaia was named chairman of the picnic committee, with instructions to appoint his own assistants. It was urged that a committee of retailers would be needed to work with the recently organized Wholesale Growers' Association in preventing gluts, and this was left to the discretion of the chair. The matter of holding some sort of mum show this fall under the auspices of the association was taken up, and the chair appointed a committee composed of C. H. Benson, A. B. Matthiesen and George M. Traf-ton to confer with a retailers' committee on this subject. Carl Melby was appointed to take up with the proper city authorities the matter of enforcement of the city ordinance against indiscriminate peddling of flowers on the street corners. The secretary reported that the Post-Intelligencer had agreed to run each Sunday a general article on floral topics, to be supplied by the secretary and carrying credit for the Seattle Florists' Association. Frank Chervenka read a short paper on the subject of "Coöperation," and William Desmond, chairman of the bowling committee, announced that a match would be rolled with a team representing the Tacoma Florists' Association later in the month. Forty were in attendance.

Ronald Baccus, of the Pinehurst Floral Shop, has been confined to his home for a short time as the result of ptomaine poisoning following the eating of improperly canned food.

The City Flower Shop continues to secure good sales on some fine potted cinerarias of good size, which have been featured in recent window displays.

Rosaia Bros. have found a ready sale for bulbous stock, both potted and cut. All stock at Thomas is reported as making good progress, and a heavier cut is noted on Premier roses, of which this shop has the bulk of current deliveries. There is still a short cut of orchids.

The Seattle Fern & Moss Co. is enjoying a steady shipping demand for dagger ferns and other current offerings, with orders coming from widely separated points.

Potted offerings have been the best sellers with the Art Floral Co. Funeral work has also been active. H. M.

Attica, Ind.—W. H. Francis and Earl E. Francis, who have operated the Attica Floral Co. for the last two years, have sold the establishment to Otis L. Bullock, who took possession March 25. Mr. Bullock's parents have operated a greenhouse establishment at Elkhart, Ind., for nearly thirty years. He attended Cornell University and the University of Illinois, taking the floricultural courses at both these institutions, and has spent four years in the employ of Vaughan's Seed Store, at New York and on the road.

Mount Vernon, O.—Charles E. Sharp is handling all business as usual at his store, in spite of the fact that his greenhouses and boiler room were partly destroyed by fire, March 21. Difficulties arising from the fire will be but temporary and will be removed as quickly as possible. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have started from an overheated chicken brooder, which had been placed in the office of the building. The damage is estimated at between $13,000 and $15,000, but Mr. Sharp carried no insurance.

Easter Plants

REARRANGING OLD SYSTEM.

I have one greenhouse 30x150 feet, which is behind a hill and partly protected by woods. This house has a 2-foot concrete wall on the north side and four feet of glass on the south side. The west end is three-quarters glass. The ridge pole is twelve feet high. In addition to this house, there is a second house, 16x64 feet, the floor of which is eight feet higher than that of the large house. There is a 6-foot space between the two houses, but the walls of the second house are the same as those of the big house. The ridge pole of the second house is nine feet high. The boiler with which I expect to heat this range is a Lord & Burnham 5-section boiler, with grates 3x4 feet. This boiler is located in the middle of one end of the big house and has a 4-inch main, branching to each side wall of the house. The floor of this house has a 2½-foot pitch and the lower side has four 2-inch flows and four 2-inch returns. The upper side is fitted with three 2-inch flows and three 2-inch returns. Would this boiler give more heat if more flows and returns were added? Would you advise adding more sections to the boiler or yoking another boiler to it, in order to heat the second house? O. C. E.—Md.

It is uncertain, from the above question, whether more heat is desired in the present house or if merely some idea of the capacity of the boiler is requested. With the present amount of radiation it will require quite heavy firing to raise the temperature above 45 degrees in zero weather. While it would not be advisable to suggest any change in the piping if 45 degrees is as high a temperature as is desired, it would be better to use one more return if you are to rearrange the piping, using an additional return for 50 degrees.

The boiler is amply large to heat an additional house of the size mentioned, provided, of course, that the size and height of the chimney and smoke flue make it possible for it to work up to the full capacity of its grate.

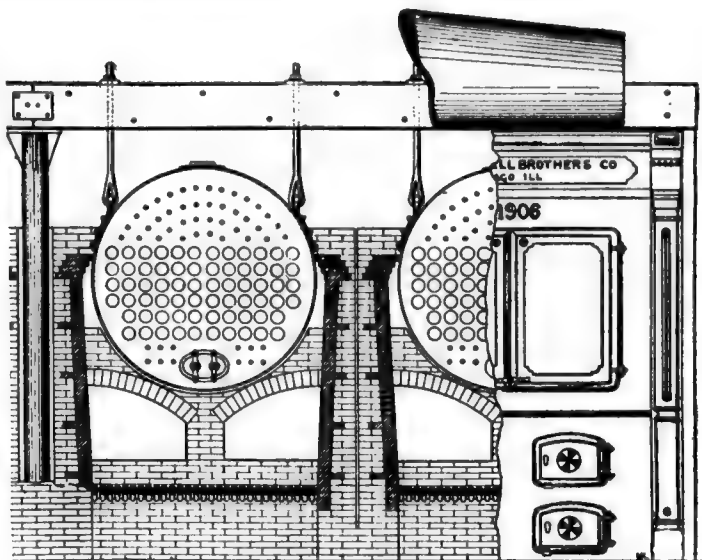

No 5-section boiler with a grate 3x4 feet is found in the catalogue of the Lord & Burnham Co. The nearest to it is their W.-36-7, which has seven sections and a grate 36x46 inches. This is rated for about 4,000 square feet of radiation. If the boiler on hand has five sections and a grate or even a fire pot measuring 3x4 feet, it would handle the two houses.

For piping the proposed house, use three 2½-inch flows and six 2-inch returns for 50 degrees or three flows and nine returns for 60 degrees. This allows the use of three feet of glass in the south wall.

Run the flow pipes overhead and the returns under the benches.

SYSTEM INADEQUATE.

I have installed a 7-section Ideal Arcola parlor heater. The system includes one radiator in the bathroom, one in the parlor and one in the dining room. The greenhouse is 16x25 feet, and has one 2-inch flow pipe near the ridge, four 1½-inch returns under each side bench and five 1½-inch returns under the center bench. I wish to be able to heat these to 70 degrees during zero weather,

KROESCHELL FUEL ECONOMY

Higher production efficiency with lower costs is what every business is striving for nowadays. To the greenhouse man this means more and better stock with less operating expenses.

Coal is the big item for the grower. Each ton of coal he can save adds greatly to his profits.

For fuel economy there is no better boiler than the Kroeschell High Pressure Steam Boiler. It burns the lowest grades of coal, requires less, and gives more heat.

Kroeschell Boilers can be depended on at all times. They insure conditions necessary for raising the highest grade stock. The profits of hundreds of growers have been increased by raising better stock with less fuel in houses heated by Kroeschell Boilers.

NO MORE JOINTS

In a furnace lining, trouble usually starts in the joints—bricks fall out and mortar crumbles. BUT THERE ARE NO JOINTS IN—which we seldom have. I have not been able to get more than 60 degrees in the greenhouse or 70 degrees in the dwelling on cloudy days when the outside temperature was 25, 35 and 40 degrees above zero. What is wrong?

PLIBRICO, applied when plastic, when baked and properly vitrified forms arches, baffles, side-walls and bridge-walls—all parts of the boiler settings—that are hard, smooth, jointless, resistant to heat up to 3100° F., and outlast ordinary fire brick from two to four times.

If you want service, permanent settings that are air and gas tight, eliminate the joints. Use PLIBRICO.

J. W. M.—Colo.

While there appears to be a slight discrepancy in the amount of radiation in the greenhouse, the real difficulty is probably due to the number of returns which are supplied by one 2-inch flow pipe. The sketch shows that the greenhouse has three feet of glass in the two side walls and one end wall. At least 250 square feet of radiation should be used, if a temperature of 70 degrees is to be maintained in zero weather. If all of the radiation were in the form of four to six long returns, the amount required would not be so much in excess of the amount which one 2-inch flow pipe could supply, but with thirteen returns and what is estimated to be rather less than 200 square feet of radiation, it is not strange that there is difficulty in holding the desired temperature.

Instead of using one 2-inch main for the entire house, it would be advisable to run one flow for each of the three coils. With careful firing it will then be possible to obtain 70 degrees, but it will be more economical in fuel and labor if the number of return pipes is increased to sixteen. Place one flow on each side wall plate and the other two feet below the ridge, giving all of them a fall of one inch in ten feet.

While the size of the rooms in the dwelling and the number of sections in the radiators are given, the height of the rooms, the construction of the walls, the height and number of columns in the radiators and the size of the windows are not stated. If the walls are well built and not more than eight feet in height, and if the windows do not have more than twelve square feet for the full size of the openings, with eight feet for the bathroom window, it is probable that sixty-five square feet of radiation will heat the parlor, fifty the dining room and thirty the bathroom. This will be furnished if each section in the radiators has five square feet, but it will require rather heavy firing to keep up 70 degrees if the sections only supply four square feet.

We do not have a catalogue of the Arcola heaters at hand and are not sure regarding the sizes and ratings, but for 400 square feet of radiation, which is the amount that will be required for the dwelling and greenhouse, in addition to the mains, it will be desirable to have a heater with a grate twenty-four or twenty-five inches square.

NEWPORT, R. I.

The Newport Horticultural Society held a special meeting March 22, at the John Clarke school, at which there was an unusually large gathering. The entire evening was given over to a lecture on "Old New England Gardens," by Loring Underwood, landscape architect of Boston. The lecture, which was one of the most interesting and instructive ever delivered before the local horticultural society, was closely followed by the audience and was illustrated with colored stereopticon slides.

At the conclusion of Mr. Underwood's lecture he answered questions asked by the audience and opportunity was given for a general discussion.

The Market.

Business is good and stock is plentiful. Roses of medium length are much in demand. Some fine snapdragons are being shown. Carnations are not so plentiful and the price has stiffened. Not many Easter lilies are seen, but the supply of callas is good and they seem to be popular. Sweet peas are plentiful and of good quality. In the greenhouses spring bedding stock is coming along nicely. The demand for shrubbery is increasing. The general trend is toward permanent planting.

Various Notes.

The Doswell Floral Co. reports a fine business for last week. This firm has a fine showing of all seasonable plants. The different members of the firm attended the national flower show at Indianapolis.

The Flick Floral Co. is busy with several specials, in addition to the usual run of funeral work. Miss Della Dexter, bookkeeper for the firm, fell on the ice recently and splintered a bone in her left arm.

Ralph Tinkham reports business good, with a large amount of funeral work. This firm had the church decorations recently for the funeral of a prominent physician. Orders are being booked each day for parties of different sorts. Miss Jeanette Schock, formerly with the Flick Floral Co., is now with Ralph Tinkham.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey report business, both wholesale and retail, as on the increase. Some especially fine baskets were sent to the "Dime" bank's opening. One effective item was a group of orchids and sweet peas arranged in a holder.

Knecht & Freese are making plans to enlarge their boiler room and erect a large brick stack. Some fine stock is seen here. A heavy cut of roses is now coming in. Their bedding stock is coming on nicely. F. J. Knecht and Henry Freese planned to spend some time at Indianapolis at the flower show.

STEAM SOIL FOR EELWORMS.

We are having trouble with eelworms in our rose benches. Can you give me some information on how to check them? G. M. W.—Ia.

The only really sure remedy for nematodes, or eelworms, is sterilization of the soil by steam. Steam sterilization is valuable as a means of destroying all weed seeds, as well as insect pests in the soil. The effect of formaldehyde is not thorough enough to rid the soil of eelworms.

FERTILIZER FOR LILIES.

Kindly advise what kind of fertilizer you would recommend for use on a lily bed which has been planted for two or three years. How is the fertilizer applied? A. L. M.—Minn.

A little well decayed cow or horse manure can be spread on the surface and allowed to remain as a mulch. Do not mix it with the soil. If above manures are not obtainable, use pulverized sheep manure. Do not use any chemical fertilizers. C. W.

The Market.

The market is steadier and clearances are more easily effected. This condition betokens an improvement in a market rather badly congested for many days. Prices continue about the same, any extra demand only being due to concessions for clearance purchases. Bulbous material continues to be the heaviest of arrivals, and the quality of some of the shipments is remarkable. In the narcissi are splendid qualities of Victoria and King Alfred, but the average selling price is between 50 cents and 75 cents per dozen. Tulips bring anywhere from 50 cents to $1 per dozen, the latter for exhibition qualities. Good poetaz narcissus moves slowly at $1.50 per hundred, with a few bringing $2.

The supply of roses has slackened a bit, but there is plenty for the demand, and the quality is good. American Beauty is in moderate supply, but the range of prices, $35 to $75 per hundred for specials, is still in force. Hybrid teas are arriving in quantity just about equal to the maximum demand, and the prices of the lower grades have stiffened in consequence, the best quality bringing $8 per hundred, with top grades unchanged.

Carnations are plentiful, but prices are firmer at $3 to $5 per hundred and arrivals generally are of good quality. The orchid supply is lessening, but there is no change in prices, and business at best is spasmodic. Spray orchids are plentiful, with movement rather slow. Gardenias are on the scarce side, but, judging from the demand for them, the scarcity is not felt.

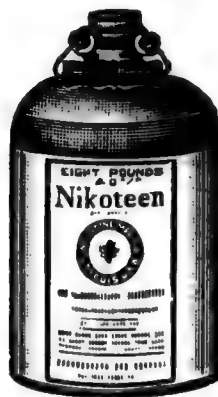

White lilies are plentiful and meet a fair demand. The price range has advanced a little, $20 per hundred bedred, with other grades down to $1 per hundred.

The supply of miscellaneous flowers is increasing, and the quality of some of the arrivals, particularly snapdragons, is high. Sweet peas are in particularly heavy supply, and prices, in consequence, suffer; exhibition quality is to be had at $2 per hundred, and ordinaries down to 50 cents. Violets are plentiful, with prices hardly quotable, fluctuating almost daily. Arrivals of single violets are unusually large this year, and seem to clear well. Columbines are the most recent acquisition to the list and sell readily, on account of novelty. Other items available are lupines, myosotis, calendulas, daisies, pansies, delphiniums, stocks, wallflowers, fine mignonette, ranunculi, freesias, French marigolds, gladioli, heliotrope, acacia, buddleia, primulas and lilac. Callas are plentiful, and bring from $2 to $4 per dozen.

Various Notes.

Among the incorporations noted last week was that of the Nassau Seed Co., of Hicksville, L. I. W. Duffy, C. S. Barton and J. J. McGunnigh are the incorporators. There is a capital of $50,000.

The next meeting of the New York Florists' Club will be held April 10, in the club's quarters in the Engineering Societies' building, 25 West Thirty-ninth street. A large attendance is probable, as a preliminary report of the flower show committee is expected, and it is expected to be a particularly favorable one.

Roman J. Irwin, C. H. Totty, Chas. Schwake and Wallace R. Pierson left Thursday afternoon, March 23, for Indianapolis to visit the national flower show. Others left on Friday afternoon, March 24. J. H. P.

RAIN WHEN YOU WANT IT

The Skinner Quick-Acting Coupling

The famous quick-acting coupling which has started so many growers on the road to prosperity.

It is this ingenious device that makes it possible for one line to water an acre or more.

A Skinner System line is cut into 18-foot sections.

Between each section is one of these Quick-Acting Couplings, so made that it slips into position instantly and easily; so made that it connects the pipe sections with nozzles in perfect alignment, thereby securing absolutely uniform water distribution.

One man can handle a section.

Two men handle three sections.

Not much of a job to move a line, is it?

Sections are perfectly interchangeable, so that lines can be made different lengths at will.

Hundreds of growers are using these Sectional lines with pleasure and profit.

They show you the way to get started without spending too much money.

You owe it to yourself to write us today.

Notice the Operating Device Being Used By the Progressive Florists

ADVANCE it is, but why? It is not simply because of the experience or thoroughness of workmanship, or care with which your orders are handled, or spirit with which we co-operate with our customers, or quality which we always maintain, or effort we make to get your work out, or right prices which we charge, but because of the combination of all these things.

ADVANCE Sash Operating Devices

need no introduction, as their long and excellent services have won them a home in nearly every greenhouse throughout the U. S. and Canada, but as a guide and reference we have prepared an eight-page Circular, illustrating and describing the most successful Operating Devices and the latest complete line of Greenhouse Construction Fittings. You will be interested in the latest improvements.

Have You Seen the New Split Tee?

No lugs, no bolt through, but it holds the pipe and can be erected "ten to one" lug type.

Get this eight-page Circular and sample of the "sure grip tee."

CYCLAMEN SEEDLINGS.

In offering our block of 300,000 TRANSPLANTED CYCLAMEN SEEDLINGS to the trade, we can emphatically recommend them as a superior grade of plants, in as much as we have specialized on CYCLAMEN for years, and are constantly improving our strain and methods of growing.

Through the use of a specially prepared compost, we have produced wonderful root action and a fine foliage, in fact we have never had a finer lot of seedlings of the very best known varieties. We established a new record with our CYCLAMEN plants last fall when we shipped them in full carload lots to the East.

Remember—Our plants have no trace or sign of the mite or any other diseases CYCLAMEN are subject to.

VERY SPECIAL!

For $12.00 I will send 5000 selected bulbulets of the new pure white Gladiolus Lilywhite and include 10 blooming size gratis. Lilywhite is the long desired pure white Gladiolus of vigorous, healthy growth; great multiplying power; straight spikes opening six to eight blooms at a time; an ideal forcer, early as Halley and the best commercial pure white to date.
 Awarded first prize by New York, Massachusetts and St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada, Horticulural Societies and American Gladiolus Society.
 This variety will be grown eventually by the million and practical florists will get stock at once.

Send for our descriptive list of cut-flower varieties suitable for retail florists; also testimonials from leading growers.

Extra fine stock.*ZETLITZ FLORAL PRODUCTS CO.,*Dayton, O.*SEEDS*HYBRIDIZED DAHLIA SEED.

This seed is raised from the most up-to-date Dahlias in existence. No place in the world have Dahlias been brought up to such perfection as they have been around San Francisco. This mixture contains all colors and types of Peony, Cactus and Decorative varieties. Our rainless California summers make it possible to get seed even from the very double varieties, a result extremely difficult in States where it is rainy during the time when the seed should set.

The seed we sent out in previous years was highly praised by all who raised Dahlias from it, but this seed is far superior to what we have sent out in previous years. The seedlings will commence to flower two months after sowing and almost a month earlier than plants raised from bulbs.

Price per 100 seed ..... $1.00

Price per 100 seed, fancy selected ..... 3.00

Walden, N. Y., Feb. 14, 1921.

Richard Diener, Co., Kentfield, Cal.

Gentlemen: The Dahlia Seed received from you last year turned out fine. Could not think Dahlias could be grown from seed in such short time. Had some very fine blooms. One yellow Peony flowered that was extra fine, some 8 inches and a clear canary-yellow. Everyone who saw it was amazed at the size grown from seed. Had a clear flesh-pink; beautiful under lamp light.

Respectfully, Wm. McBrier.

42-Foot House Built for Patten & Co., Tewksbury, Mass.

PATTEN & COMPANY
CARNATION SPECIALISTS
TEWKSBURY, MASS.

January 18, 1917.

King Construction Company,
North Tonawanda, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

Relative to the house, 42 x 200 feet just completed by your firm for us, we wish to state we are much pleased with the light, airy interior, and the strong, rigid frame. The house is well built and braced, at the same time casting a shade barely discernible.

We are naturally proud of this house and pleased with the treatment accorded us by your firm, and we thoroughly appreciate the care exercised in all the details of the construction.

We hope to have this house continued sometime about 175 feet longer, and of course will have "King Construction".

Yours very truly,

Patten & Company.

HAROLD J. PATTEN

ESTABLISHED 1870
PATTEN & COMPANY
CARNATION SPECIALISTS
TEWKSBURY, MASS.

January 20, 1922.

King Construction Co.,
North Tonawanda, N. Y.

Gentlemen:-

Enclosed herewith, is the signed contract for one King Iron Pipe Frame Greenhouse, 42 feet wide by 150 feet long.

In 1916 you erected for my father, the same style house 42 x 200 feet. It has proved so satisfactory that I will extend same to 350 feet.

This proposed extension is necessary to house 20,000 plants of NATALIE, a new pink carnation to be disseminated in 1923 by The Joy Floral Co., of Nashville, Tenn. NATALIE was named for my little daughter and as I will represent their interests in the North, the greater part of the stock will be planted in the present and proposed extension of the King house.

Very truly yours,

Harold J. Patten
PATTEN & COMPANY.

Nothing could be added to this convincing proof that King Constructed Greenhouses have won and are winning on the merits of Proved Performance. The success of Patten & Company as Carnation Specialists is unquestionable. This success is due principally to good business judgment.

In 1917 they were first sold on King Houses after experimenting with other houses for years. Five years of successful performance proved to them that King Constructed Greenhouses not only produced more and better Carnations but offered to them an opportunity of carrying out their program of featuring the new and wonderful Pink Carnation "Natalie."

King Pipe Iron Frame Greenhouses are built in all widths, even or uneven span, and are used extensively by many leading growers throughout the Country. The posts, purlins, rafters and bracing are all steel pipe and make a complete skeleton frame independent of the woodwork. The pipe posts are of a size depending on the width of the house. Purlins laid on top of rafters are held in place by special malleable castings and U bolts. Rafters cut to uniform lengths and assembled with strong malleable iron fittings. The well designed bracing will withstand the most severe wind attacks and snow loads. Close placing of the purlins permits light sash bars. These bars admit maximum light and still possess ample structural strength. For light, strength and growing features these houses are unexcelled.

King Houses are the leaders also in the wide steel houses and the less expensive semi iron frame greenhouses. Write for descriptive catalog.

Walter Amling's 14 36x300-ft. Steel Framers — — "A perfect 36," says Herbert Amling

Living among every known type of greenhouse, Herbert Amling knows the productions, the upkeep and every other feature there is to greenhouses, but not until Walter Amling, his brother, built his first houses in Pana did he know there was a perfect thirty-six.

After seeing the records kept at this plant there was only one house that he considered and that was the AGMCO 36'7"x300' steel frame type. Seven of these are now being built at Pana for him and if you are thinking of building, you'd better see him.
